

SOCIETY

SOCIAL GAZETTE

Lent has had the usual effect in social circles, limiting the festivities to a few more or less informal functions. The reception given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davies on Thursday night was the most pretentious, and was a truly delightful affair, all details being successfully planned, and a most enjoyable social time being spent. The Kenyon parlors and lobbies were handsomely decorated for the event, and about 300 guests were present to meet the distinguished tenor and his wife.

Many concert parties were given at the Tabernacle last night and nearly all were preceded or followed by supper, at the homes of the entertainers.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Keyes entertained at dinner on Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. Jack Jayne. The table was beautifully decorated in carnations shading from red to pale pink, surrounded by ferns, while sprays of the flowers were strewn over the cloth. The place cards were birds outlined in real feathers, on cream-colored cards. The guests were Mrs. Jayne, Mr. and Mrs. David S. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gallagher, Mrs. Robert Gould Smith, Maj. Hearst, Capt. John E. Madden.

COUNTESS DE CASTELMAGNA

AMERICAN WIFE HAS HER COUNT SENT TO JAIL.
That the American woman does not hesitate to exercise her independence abroad as well as at home, received startling confirmation last week when newspaper cable advices from Genoa, Italy, announced that Count di Castelmagna, whose wife was born Edith Van Buren, of New York, was convicted of unfaithfulness and sentenced to three months' imprisonment and to pay the costs of the action.

The countess made the complaint against her husband, who has appealed from the court's verdict. The countess is a daughter of the late General Van Buren and a great-granddaughter of President Martin Van Buren. She was married to Count Castelmagna of Naples in London in 1900. The countess is said to be an adventurous disposition and a globe trotter, and as Miss Van Buren she did many things that caused her to be talked about. Her first public triumph was at a fancy dress ball in Paris, where she appeared as Marie Antoinette—she prides herself on resembling that unfortunate queen.

In 1893, with Mrs. Roswell D. Hitchcock, of New York, she made a trip to the Klondike. The two women pitched a tent and staked out a claim at Dawson. They sold canned goods to the miners, held Sunday services in their tent and became very popular. They quarreled and returned by different routes. Miss Van Buren afterwards wrote a book, "Two Women in the Klondike."

MRS. JAMES P. MCQUAIDE

MARITAL WOES OF ANOTHER MAGNATE AIRED.

To the list including Corey, Phipps, Leeds, Reed and others of the Pittsburgh group of millionaires whose fortunes have been amassed in steel, iron and tin and whose marital woes have been aired in court must be added James P. McQuaide, vice president of the National Powder company. Mr. McQuaide is preparing to fight bitterly in the court his wife's suit for separation and alimony.

In her bill of particulars Mrs. McQuaide alleges her husband struck her and drove her from their home in New York city. Mr. McQuaide denies the charges and declares his matrimonial trouble is due to his wife's sister, Miss Mabel Sidebotham of Philadelphia, whose conduct at his country home in Nyack, N. Y., was such, Mr. McQuaide avers, as to cause them to be specially estranged. He also charges that Miss Sidebotham attacked him, breaking five of his ribs.
