Star Valley Stake Conference.

Our quarterly conference convened November 16, 1895, at Afton meeting house at 10 a.m. After the opening exercises, Elder George Osmond gave a brief report of the Star Valley Stake of Zion; the Saints as a rule were striving to live their religion and in excellent condition spiritually, and good health prevailing generally; the presidency of the Stake are united, and the High Council and the Bishopric of the various wards so far as organized work in unison with each other. The Bishops of the different wards or their counselors reported their wards all doing well.

The Saints of this Stake had the opportunity of enjoying one of the greatest times it has been our privilege to enjoy since our organization. Elders John Henry Smith, of the Apostle, and George Reynolds, of the first presidency of the Seventies, occupied a goodly portion of the conference in strengthening the Saints in their faith and exhorting them to not forget their Divine Creator, the spirit of the Lord was poured out mightily upon the people, and they went to their homes with renewed determination to serve God and keep His commandments. Most noticeable was the course of Elder John Henry Smith where he showed with clearness the evidences of a Great Creator all around in everything we see, and the purpose of in which the universe is governed and controlled. Several of the brethren gave short addresses urging the Saints to continue in doing good, and it seems amply repaid for the exertion made to attend conference.

The Saints are making a three-days tour among the wards of this Stake, encouraging those of the Saints that could not attend on account of the long distance to travel, to live near to their God so as to enjoy His protection.

The weather is beautiful for a northern climate, health of the people good, and all seeing well in doing good.
