WASHINGTON NEWS.

Indian Troubles in Arizona—Various Other Matters.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The War Department has received a telegram from the commanding officer at San Carlos, Arizona, as follows:

"At the request of the acting Indian agent yesterday I sent Captain Lee, Tenth Cavalry, with his troops and some scouts up to the San Carlos to arrest three Indians reported intrenched in the rocks and resisting. Lee, upon his arrival, found they had fled. The command followed several trails, upon one of which they were found. The scouts exchanged shots with a small party, said to belong to the Cassadaiz band. The scouts think they killed one Indian. About 6 p.m. some scouts and herders driving 250 agency cattle to a grazing camp were attacked by a party of Indians fifteen miles from here. The scouts and herders fled and what became of the cattle is yet unknown. Captain Lee was with the grazing camp last night. I am expecting to hear from him hourly. I will do all I can to quiet the Indians, but there may be serious trouble. The braves are those of the Cassadaiz and Chilchunia. Sprier thinks if the Indians leave the reservation they will go north and west. The line to Apache has been down for several days."

ARCHÆOLOGICAL LANDS.

Chairman Holman, of the committee on public lands, today introduced in the House a bill to set apart a tract of land in New Mexico adjoining the Cochiti Indian reservation on account of its archæological remains.

A NEVADA NOMINATION.

The nomination of Surveyor-General Irish of Nevada is again before the Senate in secret session. He was rejected at the last session on the ground that he was appointed from Iowa to an office in Nevada. He was re-appointed, however, at the end of the session, and is still serving, having, his friends claim, made a good record for himself. He is renominated this session, and from Nevada, but objected to on the ground that he is really from Iowa. His nomination was reported favorably from the committee, however, and he is understood to have won to his support quite a strong sentiment in Nevada.

THE IMMIGRATION QUESTION.

McAdoo introduced in the House to day for reference to the committee on foreign affairs a joint resolution calling for detailed information from our consuls in foreign countries relative to immigration to the United States.

PUBLIC BUILDING.

Sowden reported today a bill appropriating $70,000 for a public building at Allentown, Pa. The report says the bill is intended to meet the President's objections.

INDIAN DEPREDATION CLAIMS.

Senator Mitchell today introduced a number of proposed amendments to the bill passed by the House to provide for the adjudication and payment of Indian depredation claims. The effect of these amendments is to make less stringent the provisions of the bill relative to the presentation of claims to the court authorized by the bill.

IMMIGRATION INVESTIGATION.

The Importation of Laborers Under Contract Proven.

NEW YORK, July 30.—In the afternoon John B. Dyer, secretary of the Granite Cutters' National Union, said he knew of stone cutters brought out here under contract to work. One George Berry, acting for Gus Wilkie, the contractor employed by the syndicate to build the new state capitol at Austin, Texas, had brought over a number of stone cutters under contract work on that job. Witness had met them at Castle Garden and three of the men were taken before the United States district attorney but he refused to act, and they were allowed to go to Austin. Seventy-eight of them came over and fifty-five went to Texas. They came over in April, 1886. Witness produced an affidavit made by one of the men, to which was attached a copy of a circular given by Wilkie's agent in Aberdeen, Scotland, setting forth the nature of the work to be done, the scale of prices to be paid for stone cutters and blacksmiths, the rate of board in Austin, the manner of paying, etc. One hundred and fifty granite cutters were needed and a number of blacksmiths. It stated also that there was eighteen months' work to cut enough stone for the building.

THE PASSAGE MONEY

was paid by the contractor, to be refunded out of the first earnings. Dyer stated when he found he could not stop the men here he notified the Knights of Labor at Austin, and they now have a suit pending in the United States courts against the capitol syndicate under the contract labor law. Witness said the government furnished the contractors convict labor to quarry the stone, and that the granite cutters were asked by the quarry men not to cut the granite which was quarried by convict labor, and then Wilkie sent over to Scotland for these men. He said Senator Farwell was the chief man of the syndicate, and Wilkie represents himself as acting for the syndicate. Witness said he would not swear Senator Farwell knew of Wilkie's action in importing this contract labor. The state of Texas gave the syndicate 3,000,000 acres of land and the labor of 500 convicts.

David Dawson, one of the contract laborers brought by Berry, was next sworn. He worked in Austin for the syndicate eighteen months. He understood before he went there that Wilkie had convict labor on the job, but was told the convicts would be taken off as soon as Wilkie could get enough to do the work. On the contrary, witnes declared, Wilkie doubled the number of convicts. Wilkie paid witness $4 a day, and at his request witness wrote to a friend in Aberdeen, who, on his assurance that there was work for them, secured about fifteen others, who came out here and were employed by Wilkie. Witness said it was a very common thing for the people of Aberdeen to come here and work during the summer, and return home in the winter. Witness said that he could make $2.75 a day here, but in Aberdeen he could make only $1.75 a day. Skilled laborers who come over here for summer work are mostly stonecutters.

James K. Anderson, another Aberdeen man, said he made $1.25 at his trade of stone cutting in Scotland; but here he made $2.75 a day. He was asked no questions at Castle Garden when he landed here.

Stanislaus M. Ledeochouski, a native of Russian Poland, next swore that the Bremen, Hamburg and Antwerp steamship lines have agents there, who persuade people to emigrate by means of the most untrue representations. The most ignorant and poor classes are those who come here. The authorities rigidly enforced the law, compelling all emigrants crossing the frontier to show that they had sufficient money to carry them through. To meet this difficulty the agents furnished the emigrants with bogus exchange drafts, which they show at the frontier and which are taken up again as soon as they have crossed.

PARLIAMENT.

The Commission to Investigate Parnell.

LONDON, July 30.—The Commons went into committee tonight on the bill to investigate the charges against Parnell.

Sexton moved to increase the number of judges in the commission to five if it was to inquire into the whole history of the National League, extending over nine years. Three judges were not sufficient unless the inquiry was limited.

Mathews said the government could not accept the amendment. There would be nothing gained by increasing the number of judges.

Sexton then reminded Mathews that the commission dealt with charges for murder and outrage, and that everything might turn upon the examination of witnesses in New York and Australia. He had nothing to say against two of the commissioners, but he was surprised at the nomination of Justice Day after his conduct during the inquiry into the Belfast riots.

Anderson said he was astonished the government dared propose a tribunal to have the power to appoint other commissioners to take evidence abroad.

Parnell urged the House to recollect that they were discussing a proposal to provide a substitute for a jury, while in England a jury of twelve was always provided. It was proposed that the settlement of important and far-reaching Irish issues involved in this inquiry should depend upon the verdict of two men. ["Hear! Hear!"] There was no precedent. He denied that it was any favor to the Irish members. On the contrary it was waiving their ordinary position as citizens in accepting a commission. A leading London conservative paper of today had declared that the question was no longer as to his innocence or guilt but as to the best means to prove him guilty. ["Hear! Hear!"] Was he to be held responsible for everything Patrick Ford said or did in America while the government was not responsible for what their organs did? [Irish cheers.]

VOTED DOWN.

The amendment was voted down. Smith having proposed that the commission consist of Justices Hannen, Day and Smith, Labouchere protested against the appointment of Justice Day. Smith said he believed the judges named had the complete approval of the English bar and everybody of judicial knowledge.

Goschen explained that the government had selected these judges as non-political parties who never had been in Parliament. He trusted that the House would endorse this view.

John Morley said he quite understood the government's difficulty in altering the composition of the commission, but that made no difference. Nothing had been said against Justices Hannen and Smith. Regarding Justice Day, he said he had received a letter from an absolutely reliable source, a gentleman having peculiar means of knowing Justice Day's mind upon Irish affairs, and he had told Smith the name of his informant, who wrote that Justice Day was a man of the seventeenth century in his views concerning Catholics. Like Sir Torquemada, he was a Tory of high flyer, non-juror type. [Hear! hear!] He nightly prayed against Parnell and his friends. He regards them as

and led astray by the Catholic nation. He believes them guilty of any crime. Morley said he would not publicly give the name. He proved his good faith by telling Smith. Surely in the face of a feeling of that kind toward Justice Day the government would not retain him on the Commission, against which there should be no whisper raised. He must vote against the nomination. [Cheers.]

Balfour held that Morley had gone too far to maintain any reticence about the writer of the letter: Justice Day had the right to ask the name of his traducer. [Cheers.]

Morley asserted the House that there was nothing sinister in his withholding the name of his correspondent. The person in question was a colleague of Justice Day upon the Belfast riot commission and was a barrister named Adams.

Gladstone said he felt it his duty to support Morley. After informing the government regarding Justice Day's bias and giving them a chance to alter the commission it was right when they refused to make the change to communicate the facts to Parliament also. The government might readily have selected another judge, one to whom there could be no objection.

Goschen said Morley had not shown the letter to any minister until today.

Morley declared he only got the letter Saturday.

Goschen said the government had no time to communicate with Justice Day to ask about the accuracy of the report of the private conversations of Adams. [Cheers.] The government was entirely ignorant of the politics of Justice Day.

Parnell said he had heard every official accused of jury packing, and declared he knew nothing about the politics or religion of the jurors. But somebow it always happened that were the jurors put on juries to try nationals and catholics. The government could no longer plead ignorance in regard to a commission composed of two conservatives and one unionist, and the world would know tomorrow that the government's idea of fairness was that the nationals should be tried by a jury of three English political opponents. [Cheers.]

Upon a division the vote stood for Justice Day 299, against 180.

The names of Justice Hannen and Justice Smith were agreed to without division.

Andersen moved to omit the word "allegations" in the clause empowering the commission to inquire into the charges and allegations against certain members of the Commons.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt challenged the government to explain the meaning of the word "allegations."

Solicitor-General Clark declined to do so, whereupon Sir William said, "the object of the retention of the word appears to be to admit of every kind of calumny unrestrained by any judicial principles."

After nearly three hours' discussion the amendment was rejected, 265 to 200.

Reid (Liberal) proposed an amendment restricting the inquiry to the accusations of complicity in murder or violence.

Matthews reminded the House that the charges were not confined to complicity in crime, but extended to condemnation.

Chamberlain opposed the amendment. The object, he said, was not to inquire into "the plan of campaign" or "boycotting," except so far as necessary to show complicity in crime. Although he was no lawyer, he would venture to say if the amendment carried it would be impossible to inquire into the first letter the Times attributed to Parnell and it would shut out many of the Time's charges.

Parnell said he had not before had an opportunity to acknowledge the compliments Chamberlain had paid him on a recent occasion. His recollection of Chamberlain was that before he was a minister he was anxious to put the Irish party forward to do the work which he himself was afraid to do. After he became a minister he was always most anxious to betray the Irish party secrets to the cabinet, to undermine their councils and plans in the interest of the Irish party. If inquiry was extended to these matters he would be able to make good his words by documentary and other evidence that had not been forged.

At this point the debate was adjourned.

The Striking Navvies.

PARIS, July 30.—This morning bands of striking navvies attempted to stop the laborers at work in the yards which were guarded by the police and troops. Various points in the suburbs are occupied by military detachments.

At a meeting of the navvies today it was decided to send Premier Floquet a protest against the employment of troops and declaring the police were responsible for the conflicts that occurred.

Irish Affairs.

DUBLIN, July 30.—Mayor McHugh of Sligo has been tried and convicted of publishing boycotting notices in his newspaper, the Sligo Champion. He was sentenced to four months' imprisonment.

The tenants on the Vandeleur estates in County Clare have resolved to abandon their resistance to the payment of rent. It is expected that they will settle with the agents tomorrow. In that case there will be no more evictions.

The libel action of Wm. O'Brien against the Cork Constitution has resulted in a verdict in favor of O'Brien for £1000 damages. He claimed £5000. O'Brien left Cork for Dublin tonight. Speaking from the train he said he considered the verdict in his suit a death blow to Parnellism and crime.

A WOMAN'S DISCOVERY.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Trial bottle free at W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Get a free trial bottle at A. C. Smith & Co.'s Drug Store. (3)

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind. testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only half a dollar a bottle at A. C. Smith & Co.'s Drug Store. (2)
