THE CINCINNATI GATHERING.

Speculations on the Chances of the Candidates.

The Tilden Declination.

CINCINNATI, 21.—Although much interest and canvassing is progressing to-night, there is little excitement and no bitterness manifested. The Cincinnati Times is considered good authority for the statement that Tilden has prepared another letter intimating that there may be circumstances under which he would still accept a nomination. While the statement has strong elements of probability, it is thought that this second letter will never see the light. John Kelly's denunciation of Tilden's letter of the 18th, as a "whining, begging petition for the nomination, followed by the rumor of another missive to come from him, is asserted to have been the prompting move for to-day's action, by the New York delegation formally accepting Tilden's renunciation as definitely taking him out of the canvass. There is no diubt now that the rumor was true as telegraphed to you at the time of the New York State convention at Syracuse, that Tilden had a letter of a similar character to present to that body. It is said that he withheld it at the request of his friends, who accepted his contemplated withdrawal, but thought it was a postponement until the meeting of the National convention would enable them better to hold and consolidate their organization for the maintenance of their power and influence here. Tilden would like Payne, of Ohio, or Speaker Randall to be his legatee, but the effort to control the Tilden vote has thus far proved a failure; so also did the movement to-day to unite New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut solidly for Payne. Some of the Connecticut delegates are strong for English, but have temporarily yielded in Payne's favor, hoping for help from the latter in return whenever the race shall be left to the "dark horse;" still no arrangement for solidifying the three States seems at present probable. If the Tammany men are admitted to a part of New York State they will vote for Bayard, who is clearly the choice of more delegates than any other man named. His friends show that he would have a reasonable probability of carrying New York and Indiana. The strongest objections urged against him is the fear that his war record would lose his party a dozen or more congressmen but his financial views would make New York, and it is suggested that Indiana might be insured by insisting upon Hendricks again taking the second place. Bayard is clearly the first choice in the south, and if the southern delegates could be made to see that he will be acceptable in the north, they would be likely to go for him in Maine. He has more chance apparently, of growing in the ballotting than any other of the prominent favorites, but it would be hazardous to say that his success is probable. Thurman's friends are quietly but earnestly at work. They have to contend with the widespread conviction here that Ohio is surely a republican state under Garfield's leadership and this argument puts out of present view all the Ohio men unless Groesbeck should come forward as a "dark horse" after long and unsuccessful ballotting. Field seems to have made some progress.

The hot weather has not had the effect of lessening the ardor of the friends of the candidates, and the streets have possessed an animated appearance since 11 o'clock. The Americus and Randall clubs of Philadelphia, paraded the streets with music and banners, and were soon after followed by the Hendricks' club of Indiana. The chief topic of conversation is the letter of Tilden declining the use of his name again for the Presidency, while some were disposed to read in the close of the letter a willingness to serve the party. A majority of the leaders looked upon it as a final declination. Hon. S. J. Randall and Hon. Henry Watterson took this view. The delegation, as will be seen by the resolution given below regard the letter as expressing a sincere desire on the part of Mr. Tilden not to be longer considered a candidate.

It is announced with some authority that the New York delegation will present the name of Henry B. Payne, of Ohio, for the Presidency. If this is done, the Ohio delegation, which is now solid for Thurman, will be in an embarrassing position. Outside delegates say they will have to leave their man and go to Payne, but will not do so as Jewett has friends in the delegation who hope he may be an acceptable dark horse. The Kentucky delegation will vote for Bayard, as being now the most acceptable. The choice of Senator Beck is Seymour, but his influence is likely to be used for Bayard, like the rest of the Kentuckians. It is thought sixteen of the Tennessee delegates will also vote for Bayard. Judge Niblack, of Indiana, has no second choice, but is first, last and always for Hendricks. There is a good deal of enthusiasm in support of his candidacy, but its importance will depend largely on the strength that may come from the South.

The Illinois delegation meets tonight to vote on presidential choice. There is a wide diversity of opinion among delegates. Missouri is even more divided. The Minnesota delegation reached here this morning in a special car.

At a meeting of the New York delegation the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That with a sense of profound gratitude for his great services to the country and to the Democratic party, and with unqualified admiration for his character and abilities, this delegation has received with deep regret the impressive declination by Governor Tilden to become a candidate.

Some of Tilden's friends point out that his letter is not in its terms an absolute declination and they would push his claims if there was any hope of success. It is apparent, however, that this is hopeless, because the great body of delegates prefer accepting the letter as putting Tilden out of the race and thus relieving them of the obligation to support him, by many who have hitherto done so reluctantly and against their own judgment. Bayard looms up as the ablest and best among the other candidates. His precedence is conceded by the best elements in the convention; but as yet there is no strong reason to anticipate his nomination. Field's supporters are not numerous apparently, but they make up in energy and push what they lack in numbers. If brass bands and strong assertions could settle the nomination, Field would have the lead. As the case stands he will be likely to fall behind the dark horses before the race is over. Hendrick's friends are discouraged by the evident purpose of Tilden's managers to cripple him. On the other hand many of Tilden's delegates declined being delivered to Payne or to Randall. Jewett's friends are well organized and active. Randolph and Groesbeck have each many earnest supporters. Their plan seems to hold their nags for the home stretch when all the leading starters shall have become exhausted. The New York delegates' formal acceptance to-day of Tilden's letter of declination finally settles all thought of pressing his name to emphasize their action. An engrossed copy of these resolutions was ordered handed to the Kentucky delegation to release it from its pledge for Tilden. The shrewdest politicians here dare not venture an opinion as to the outcome, but Groesbeck occupies now about the position that Garfield held at Chicago.

New York, 21.—The Sun says: Private advices from delegates to Cincinnati indicate Tilden as possessing sufficient strength to nominate him if he will run. We maintain he cannot absolutely refuse to run. The best evidence of Tilden's strength is the fact that he has already been once elected. This can be said of no other living democrat. If Tilden is nominated, he presents in his own person the grand question whether the will of the people, expressed through the legally expressed channels, shall prevail or be defeated. This is an issue of the highest and most momentous importance. With any other candidate it will become more of a merely personal contest. Tilden is the man.

Chicago, 21.—The Times editorially sums up: The delegates from California are in receipt of many telegrams from their constituents advising them to withdraw Justice Field's name.

It is believed Gov. Stevenson, of Kentucky, will be made permanent chairman.

A convention of 61 members of the Randall association of Philadelphia, left that city yesterday for the convention. They were dressed in uniform and carried a silk banner on which which was painted in oil a portrait of the Speaker; 3,000 people saw them off.

A Hendricks' train of 10 coaches will leave Indianapolis to-day for Cincinnati. Seymour's declination was a great disappointment to the supporters of the Hoosier candidate, who were anxious to nominate the New Yorker, reserving the second place for their man. It is first place or nothing with them now. Republicans at Washington rely on the rebel archives to demolish any Bourbon who may be nominated. Among other highly interesting papers in this collection, there is said to be a commission as colonel in the Confederate service made out in the name of Thomas F. Bayard, present Senator from Delaware. Adjutant General Townsend has made the investigation of these records a specialty, and has proof of the weak points of most democratic statesmen literally at his finger ends.

Cincinnati, 21.—The following of Judge Field does not appear formidable at this time; at any rate, it is more quiet than that of other prominently mentioned candidates. One of the most conspicuous leaders here expressed the opinion that the contest would be finally narrowed down to Bayard from the East and McDonald from the West; but it is difficult to see how this is to be brought about while Senator McDonald is among the warmest supporters of Hendricks. Speaker Randall has many warm friends, and a contingency may arise which will give to him part of the Tilden vote. The Western men regard the support of Hancock by a part of the Pennsylvania delegation as fatal to Randall's chances.

As to the contested seats, the opinion is expressed that none of the contestants will be admitted.

The national committee unanimously agreed to name Geo. Hoadly, of Cincinnati, for temporary chairman, and Mayor Prince, of Boston, as temporary secretary. In the matter of the contest in Massachusetts and New York, it was decided to allow representatives on each side to present their case in a speech of half an hour.

New York, 21.—The World says: It is only when this last point has been made clear, that Tilden comes forward to decline the nomination which he is at last satisfied he cannot obtain. He has resigned under fire, and merely to avoid open defeat upon the floor of the convention. There is certainly nothing heroic in this behavior. There is as certainly something characteristic. Boldness and frankness are not the traits by which Tilden has been distinguished in his public life.

The World further says of the letter: Some of the more ardent Tilden men declare that this letter will create a feeling for and help nominate him, while others are positive that no such result will follow, but that on the contrary there will be a general feeling of relief that he is out of the field.

The Tribune says: The canvass in Cincinnati has begun actively. The withdrawal of Tilden is regarded as certain, and the Payne men are busily engaged in enlisting his supporters. They claim that Payne may count on 125 votes, representing 250 delegates. They calculate on the undivided support of the New England delegates. Randall has arrived in Cincinnati and is pressing his claim to the nomination. He says that he is entitled to the support of Tilden's friends, as he came here to support him. The Indiana delegation is showing great energy in behalf of Hendricks. The confusion is great and the selection of some obscure politician is deemed probable. Tilden's formal letter of withdrawal had not been received in Cincinnati up to last night.

The Tribune says of Tilden's declination: The prediction of some of Tilden's followers in Cincinnati, that the letter though a declination in terms, would, in reality, be a bid for the nomination, is more than half fulfilled. If the Convention should get into a snarl with its backers and dozens of candidates should straighten it out by a hurrah for the old ticket of 1876, who can say that Tilden would still decline, or that he did not foresee just such a result when he wrote the letter.

Cincinnati, 21.—It is stated that a letter of declination from Hendricks is in hand ready to be used, if deemed advisable. The fact is John Kelly holds the key to the situation. He has compelled Seymour and Tilden to withdraw, and with a Democratic Administration Tammany Hall would be more powerful at Washington than any democratic leader or set of leaders. This Convention is simply called to ratify the choice of Kelly and Tammany.

New York, 21.—Many Tilden democrats here regard Tilden's letter as being part of the pressure produced by Kelly and declare they will vote for Garfield if Tilden is crowded out.

The Herald says: It was expected to be a letter of declination, but it turns out in fact to be a dexterous plea for his nomination.

Public Land Settlers.

WASHINGTON, 21.—The following is the full official text of the recent act for the relief of settlers on public lands as it finally passed the houses of Congress, received the approval of the President, and will appear in the next volume of statutes. It is of a direct pecuniary nature to many hundreds of settlers in the Pacific Coast States and Territories, and important also to be understood by all persons interested in land matters generally:

SECTION 1.—Be it enacted, etc., That when a pre-emption, homestead or timber culture claimant shall file a written relinquishment of his claim in the local land office, the land covered by such claim shall be open to settlement and to entry without further action on the part of the commissioner of general land office.

SEC. 2.—In all cases where any person has contested, paid the land office fees, and procured the cancellation of any pre-emption, homestead or timber culture entry, he shall be notified by the register of the land office of the district in which such land is situated, of such cancellation, and shall be allowed 30 days from date of such notice to enter said lands; provided that said register shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for the giving of such notice, to be paid by the contestant and not to be reported.

SEC. 3. That any settler who has settled, or who shall hereafter settle, on any of the public lands of the United States, whether surveyed or unsurveyed, with the intention of claiming the same under the homestead laws shall be allowed the same time to fill his homestead application and perfect his original entry in the United States land office as is now allowed to settlers under the pre-emption laws to put their claims on record and his claim shall relate back to the date of settlement, the same as if he settled under the pre-emption laws. The following act of Congress approved on the 9th inst., referring to the settler's affidavit in the pre-emption and commuted homestead entries will also be found of interest in connection with the foregoing.

Be it enacted that the affidavit is required to be made by sections 2,262 and 2,301 of the Revised Statutes of the United States may be made by the clerk of the county court or any other court of record of the county and State or district and Territory in which the lands are situated, and if said lands are situated in any unorganized county, such affidavit may be made in a similar manner in any adjacent county in said State or Territory and the affidavit so made and duly subscribed shall have the same force and effect as if made before the register or receiver of the proper land district, and the same shall be transmitted by such clerk of the court to the register and receiver with the fee and charge allowed by law.

An Invasion of Mexico.

NEW YORK, 21.—The Herald's Washington special says: The subject of an invasion of Mexico by a fillibustering party from Southern Arizona, whose project is to cross over into Mexico and seize Sonora, one of the northern states of Mexico, which was under discussion yesterday at the cabinet meeting, appears to have more importance attached to it than was at first supposed. In the War Department the officials are very reticent and nothing can be learned from them further than that it is the intention of the President to use the United States troops in Gen. McDowell's division of the Pacific to prevent any body of men from leaving the United States to go into Mexico. Notwithstanding the efforts of the Department to keep as quiet as possible the extent of the expedition and what the ability of Gen. McDowell is to prevent its departure from the United States, it is known that the Secretary of War has received dispatches from McDowell, in which he shows that the filibusters are stronger than was at first supposed, and that it is presumed that fully 5,000 armed men constitute the party at the present time. McDowell has about 1,000 available men, consisting of parts of two companies of the First and Sixth Cavalry, Eighth Infantry to Fourth Artillery. The expedition is gathering at three points, with headquarters at Tucson, and it will take fully three days for McDowell to concentrate his forces in order to be effective during the time. McDowell, in placing his men in position to prevent the raid, the filibusters, it is thought, will scatter, and before McDowell can get in position, the party will be ready to move, and probably will have crossed into Mexico.

Hayes Coming.

COLUMBUS, 21.—Speaking of his visit to California, the President said if he goes at all it will be as late as September, his idea being to reach Sacramento in time to attend the State Fair about the middle of the month. He will extend his trip to Oregon and the far North.

Again Arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, 21.—I. M. Kalloch having been released from arrest on the charge of killing Charles De Young on account of a defect in the proceedings, and immediately rearrested on a new complaint, was this afternoon held to answer without bail.

WASHINGTON, 21.—Hayes expects to leave here for California with Secretary Thompson and party, about July. He will make a general tour of the Pacific Coast.
