NEWS OF THE WEST.

A Revered Gentleman of The Dalles, Oregon, Embezzles $50,000.

CALIFORNIA'S FRUIT INDUSTRY.

Killed During a Thunderstorm.—A Ticket Office on the U. P. Railroad Robbed, Etc.

North Platte parties have raised money enough to buy 5000 pounds of dynamite, and it will be exploded in the following towns: Wallace, Wallrow, Brady Island, Sutherland and North Platte, all in Lincoln county, Nebraska.

From all indications and appearances the crops will not average this year more than two-thirds the usual yield. So states the Mount Pleasant Jeffersonian. This is due mainly to the late backward spring, suddenly followed by the dry and hot summer.

Joseph Scandler was killed by lightning on Thursday evening while a guest at a ranch in the Sphinx (Wyo.) position. He had left the ranch house to the office and when within a short distance of his destination he and his horse were struck by a bolt from the skies and evidently instantly killed.

Morgan Holbrook Hurd, the seven-year old son of Mrs. Horatio Hurd of Sacramento, Cal., died Thursday from lockjaw, caused by being shot in the hand on the Fourth of July by a pistol with a blank cartridge. The little fellow had been sinking in agonizing for three weeks in the usual way, his jaws being locked. The injury was in one of his fingers.

A nine-months-old child who died recently has been declared by J. W. Wagson, the attending physician, to have been poisoned from the odor arising from a lot of decaying fruit in a neighboring drier. The stuff had been covered up for a year, and the stench which arose when it was again exposed to the air made several adults ill. The child died with every symptoms of poisoning.

On the 23rd inst. one hundred insane patients will be transferred from the Stockton, Napa and Agnews asylums to the San Bernardino asylum. The act providing for the transfer also provides that the first three asylums shall not contain more than a specified number of insane people, and that the patients over that number must be sent to the Mendocino and San Bernardino asylums. The act makes an appropriation of $5000 for the expenses of the transfer.

Felix Medrilles, a half-breed Mexican, was shot and killed by J. M. Walker, a half-breed Indian. Walker had an imaginary grievance against the deceased, who was a quiet and inoffensive boy about 17 years of age. He borrowed a shotgun from a relative, and going to the home of Medrilles called him out and shot him. The act bled instantly. Walker was immediately arrested. He is already under indictment for complicity in a stabbing affray which occurred some weeks ago.

During a terrific thunder storm which prevailed north of Sheridan, Wyoming, on Thursday, a man named Frank White, driving a team near Forty Miles on the Crow reservation, was struck by a bolt of lightning and instantly killed. His team was knocked down by the same bolt, but neither of the horses was killed. White's companion, who was lying in the wagon, escaped without injury, and says he did not even feel the shock when it struck, notwithstanding that he was just two feet back of the man who was killed.

A Papago Indian was murdered on Wednesday by Chico, of the same tribe. Arrest followed. The murder was committed at Maricopa tanks, forty miles east of Gila Bend, A. T., about a month. Both men were sober. Maricopa tanks is in Pima county. The murderer was trailed to Gila Bend by another Papago. He informed Jacquin, chief of the tribe, who informed the authorities. The Indians seem to be a unit for legal punishment of Chico. They made the arrest. Was strychnine, as he died soon, poisoned his victim to death. Chico claims to think he has performed a righteous act. He is indifferent and stolid as to his fate.

The Colorado state labor commissioner entertained a fair visitor from the Colorado hotel, Glenwood Springs, on Wednesday. The visitor is a substantial Scotch girl who says she pinches in her pretty waist to a diameter of Wood Raymond and carries one of a party of Boston women who room in special car all the way to the Rockies. The contract provides that the company should serve one year at the hotel and if the charges sooner the management would furnish a ticket free to Boston. Miss Mary McDonald now affirms that she and many others have been unceremoniously fired and were not even complimented with a debate. Denver, Commissioner Breckinridge has written Manager Bailey seeking out an explanation.

Reports have been brought to Colorado Springs, Colo., that heavy forest fires are threatening the timber in the White River park reservation. The location of the fire is some thirty miles northwest of Trapper lake in what is called the Lost park country. There are said to be four distinct fires, the work of the local Destroyers. Fire in some of the best cut timber in the state have also been burning for days in the North Woods heading and Mountain Home. The stages have made daily trips with the mail, but run some risk in doing so. Horses and passengers did not like the road where burning trees were falling on all sides. The smoke still continues. It is thought it will shorten the hay crop.

The condition of the fruit canning and drying industries of California, says the San Francisco Chronicle, remains practically unchanged. Of about twenty-five canneries in the state probably ten are in operation, and these at one-half or less than that proportion of their full capacity. Many of the canneries are simply doing a few orders which they have reserved and their operations are not material. Of about fifty fruit drying establishments in the state, less than one-half are running, and these at far below their capacity. There is a large crop of the finest fruit in the world, but the general financial depression, which seems to effect commercial world in periodical waves, has caused a stagnation which has imitated in its beneficial influence the great fruit industry of California.

Rev. O. D. Taylor of the Dalles, near Portland, Oregon, has in market to a charge of embezzling $50,000 of the funds of the Interstate Investment company, of which he is the manager. Taylor, who was horsewhipped by a schoolmarm at the Dalles a few days before, was for some time at the East, selling lots in the alleged town of North Dalles, a certain tract of sand and rocks, opposite the Dalles, and indications are if reports be latest, those came out to the mystical city and found themselves in a strange land without money or the positions promised. Taylor was arrested at the request of some of his victims several months ago and the case is still pending. The Interstate Investment company is a corporation having headquarters here. Taylor, as the manager, sold lots in a large tract of land at the Dalles and handled all the money. Lately the stockholders became anxious regarding their investment and instituted an inquiry into the conditions of the affairs of the company, and the result was that suit was brought for an accounting of $254,000 and an indictment was found for embezzlement of $50,000.

The Union Pacific ticket office at Laramie, Wyo., was robbed early on Thursday morning in a very bold and daring manner, and $31.70 extracted from the money chest of Agent G. C. Randall. A confederate was effected to the ticket office through the washroom of the Thornburgh hotel, and from there through a window about ten feet from the floor. The iron bars across the window which separate the east side of the washroom had been carefully removed, and the man who did the job entered the washroom in that way, stood on the row of washbowls and removed the window bearing into the ticket office. He then climbed down on the inside of the ticket office, took $6.25 from the money drawer and then proceeded to pry open the money chest in which there was nearly $60. He then left the office in the manner in which he entered. Besides the cash the thief took a bunch of Pacific coast tickets and these were found the same morning near Grand avenue. The fellow had torn them in two and thrown them away. They were not signed by the agent and were no good. Sheriff Fraser and the city officers are on the trail of the robber, and his accomplice, it is thought, is already located. Arrests may be expected at any time.
