MURDER MYSTERIES.

Denver Detectives Looking for the Slayer of Fallen Women.

A BUNCH OF FLOWERS FOR A CLUE.

Peculiarities of a German Well Known Among the Inhabitants of Market Street.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 17.—The murder of Lena Harper, the German girl who lived at 1911 Market street, Marie Contension, P——, at 19.5, and the Japanese at 1515, still remain about the city unsolved and, except by a few, unexpected. That it is the work of a fiend who has a mania and an insane desire to kill women is held by most people as correct. The police are inclined to the theory that the society of Freedmen known as the "Blackguards" is at the bottom of it, but this is laughed at by the French women who say that almost every man they make interest every to the Sing Sing order and that they are not going to cut off their source of revenue by murdering the people who support them.

A woman living only a short distance from the place where these murders have been committed let drop a hint that may lead to the arrest of the right man. In the room of a little Japanese was found a curry cushion. At the time the detectives were asked who gave her that flower no attention was paid to the matter and the woman seized into silence, being afraid to say anything lurtest for fear they would bring the perpetrators of the murders down upon her head.

The woman was found who started the reporter on a clew that had been hunted persistently, but nothing further than hearsay could be had, and but a very poor description of the man could be obtained. The woman again inquired about the flowers and asked why they did not run down the giver of that token.

Closer inquiry followed to find out what she knew about it, and a religious show was obtained that seemed to start a tremor of excitement in the street. Whether there is enough to convict the man beyond a reasonable doubt remains to be seen.

For the past two years there has been a German living in Denver who seems to have a mania for women. This man frequently worked at the end of the month and is described as being of medium height, sandy hair and reddish mustache. He is a peculiar person and is easy set. Among the women on the row he is described as "queer." During the past two years he has sold the Market district regular, periodical visits and nearly every time has carried flowers to some of the inmates of the row. He is sometimes well dressed and again he is in the Sunday sickness. Nearly every person on the row knows this peculiar fellow and to most instances they shunned him because, if they ever gave him hatchet, intimate are a few who refused to have anything to do with him, as they are afraid of him.

The German left the hotel and has been more or less engaged in the cultivation of flowers, and this unmistakably account for the mass of flowers that some women with flowers. This man was seen on the row on Monday afternoon with a bow-legged companion going to west 1957. There seems to be no one who saw him enter there and the only thing that really might connect him with the Japanese is the fact that Rabbi Ozawa appeared on the street on the same day with a new overcoat, hat and shoes, and when asked who gave them to her, said "a friend."

Two German had visited her before and had visited Lena Harper and Maria Contension different times.

He makes a successful in one of these visits that he had been refused at first by one of the Cantor dancers on the row and that he would get even. On another occasion he slapped a girl who lives at 1647 in the face, simply because she said she told that she was "engaged," and accused her of living with another man.

Last summer he beat a woman who lived at 1715 Market street, in Lizzie Preston's house. These women think he follow a street and demanded the wages from them. The complaint said a clerk to inform the men that there was no money in the city treasury to pay them. Cries of threat and threats of vengeance were hurled forth by the angry crowd and the complainer noticed the needs to his office and sent a hurries call for policemen. A half dozen officers appeared, but were promptly rushed out of the corridors by the thoroughly aroused men. A detachment of patrolmen was summoned and after a liberal use of force the rioters were clubbed into submission and driven from the city hall.

THE PUGILIST DEAD.

Fitzsimmons's Terrible shot Too Much for Con Riordan.

THE JAW-BLOW KILLED HIM.

Only a Light Slap, Fitz says Between Sobs, but All the Same Prisoner" Never Recovered.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Nov. 17.—Riordan, the pugilist, who was injured in an exhibition last night by Bob Fitzsimmons in a sparring exhibition, died at the Canada house at 3:30 this morning. Fitzsimmons, when informed of Riordan's death, his at little sob.

Fitzsimmons is locked up, awaiting the action of the coroner's jury.

THE DEAD MAN'S RECORD.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Con Riordan, who died today in consequence, it is alleged, of a blow by Bob Fitzsimmons in an exhibition boxing match last night, was born at Melbourne, Australia, and was 31 years old. When 20 years old he made his first appearance as a boxer and soon after he fought a six-round draw with Martin Cudahy, in San Francisco, the police stopping the contest in the sixth round. His next bout was with Max Fourier, a lower, which he lost in eighteen rounds. He then returned to Australia and met Billy Cole at Melbourne, defeating him in eight seconds, the shortest fight on record. He next defeated George Hosenfelm, in three rounds; George Langdon, three rounds; Young Wood, two rounds; H. Gower, five rounds, and Tom Fenn twice in three and four rounds respectively. Joe McAuliffe succeeded to stop Riordan at San Francisco, Aug. 21, 1893, and the contest ended in a four round draw. At the Golden Gate athletic club, he met Australian Billy Smith and was defeated in eight rounds. He went to England with Peter Jackson as a sparring partner, but soon returned to this country. Later he was matched by the Olympic club, of London, to meet Jack Slavin, and Jew 2nd, 1892, he was beaten by him in nineteen rounds. Since then he has not engaged in any pugilistic encounter.

THE FATAL ONE.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 17.—The death of Con Riordan, the man who died from the blow from Bob Fitzsimmons in a sparring exhibition, is the second sparring casualty in this city.

Frank Sullivan took the news of his sparring partner's death to Fitzsimmons.

"My God, you don't mean to tell me Conny is dead?" said the pugilist.

"I cannot believe it. I did not hit him hard enough to injure a child."

Fitzsimmons did not sleep at all last night and refused to eat this morning.

CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER.

Fitzsimmons was arraigned in the police court on the charge of manslaughter in the first degree. He waived examination and was taken before County Judge Nottingham, who fixed his bail at $10,000. Which was furnished.

The death certificate gives the cause of Riordan's death as "hemorrhage within the cranial cavity causing compression of the brain."

Riordan was found in perfect health. Dr. D. M. Tanner, who conducted the autopsy, says that Riordan must have been struck a terrible blow on the chin, which communicated direct with the base of the brain. The depression of the right side of the brain was very deep and extended half an hour after the coil was removed.

To a reporter Fitzsimmons said:

"Did you suppose I would strike my sparring partner with any force? I knew he had been drinking hard, but I did not know that he would such a condition. Invariably when I square with him he turned to one side of the mouth and I was sick of me to hit him. Last night I noticed that after the first exchange of blows, he was not right. The blow that caused the trouble was at right so I could move it, merely slapping him with the back of my hand. He fell down, then rose and staggered around. I put my arm around him to assist him off the stage, when he fell backward. I thought he was faking and was disappointed in the fight, and was everybody in the house knew I did. I have known this man eight years and he was always a hard drinker. I guess he had some heart difficulty. I am sad heartful in my position."

A Missing Catechisher.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Nov. 17.—Much alarm is felt by the family and relatives of Solomon Parker, a pawnbroker of this city, who disappeared October 18. He said he was going to St. Paul and Chicago and would return in four days. He was formerly of Olympia, Wash., and is 35 years old.

Declared Paid.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 17.—Judge Simons today ordered the past due coupons, secured by first mortgage on the Oregon Short Line and Utah Northern to be paid by the receivers of the Union Pacific railroad.

Railroad Men Strike.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Nov. 17.—The employes on the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg road in Ridge, Bradford and Potter counties, to the number of about a five per cent cut in their wages was made.

Fatal Collision of Trains.

MARSHALL, Ohio, Nov. 17.—Two freight trains on the Lorraine and Wheeling road met head on at 8 a.m. It is reported that two engineers and firemen are killed.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Boiler Explosion—Instant Loss of Life.

ELWOOD, Ind., N.Y. 17.—An explosion of a boiler occurred last night in the boiler house and carriage of the city. Heavy timbers were thrown in every direction. Nelson Clarke, a workman, was killed, caught and died in the night. Frank Millington, a carriage maker, was severely injured, but not seriously hurt. The property loss amount to $6,000. The city will be without light and street car service for many weeks.

Professor Should Lose Chair.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Rev. Dr. William Greenough Thayer, the professor of systematic theology in Union theological seminary died today, aged 74.

ACCIDENT AND BURGLARY.

A Widow's Son in Pleasant Grove Sustains a Thigh Fracture.

PLEASANT GROVE, Nov. 15.—As Emerson and Louis Peterson were going to Battle Creek canyon the other day, riding upon the front seat of their wagon, the hounds slipped together, pinning poor Louis between the tongue and hounds. The horses took right and ran about a block before Emerson could stop them. Louis came out of the wreck with his thigh bone broken and somewhat bruised about the body and head. He is suffering very much from the accident, but it is hoped he will recover. The boys are sons of Widow Hannah Peterson and the blow comes heavily upon the poor woman, she having buried two previous sons and daughter by death.

David West is still very ill at his home at Pleasant Grove from lung trouble.

IRRIGATION IN UTAH.

A Delay in Getting the Work in Press for Lack of Book Paper.

Colonel Stevenson of the Utah Irrigation Commission stated today that the work himself and stenographer were getting out on irrigation in this Territory would go to press a week or ten days late on account of the absolute impossibility to get proper book paper on which to publish it. He says however, that it will be out in time to distribute at the Trans-Mississippi congress so that the delay is not without its benefits as it is permitting them to add new matter and substitute for it. Chairman Dawson of the board of public works is a gentleman whose views on irrigation will find their way into the paper by reason of the postponement. Governor Eckels and Kansas city commerce and institutions are to be coming to the front, too, with well-paying advertisements during the year for all the publication are extremely well pleased and to which they owe in all for the two first issues have sent, "Do from Eckels."

COURT AT BEAVER.

"Not Guilty," the Verdict in the Bonds Murder Case.

The Two Attorney Proclamations Read This Afternoon in a Jet Satisfaction Case.

Special to the News, per Deseret Telegraph.

BEAVER, U., Nov. 17.—The jury in the Bonds murder case came into court this morning and rendered a verdict of no guilty. It was given them at 10 o'clock last evening, after a five argument of two hours for the people by Tomlinson and a com. received charge occupying an hour by Judge Harris. The jury's sympathies were evidently enlisted and the court was informed, saying that while they may have acted unconscionably, he was unable to agree with them as to their judgment.

The case of W. P. Wills, spoken of yesterday, came up this morning. Defendant's counsel offered a plea in bar, setting up the amnesty proclamation of President Cleveland as a foundation thereto. After arguments by Tomlinson on the part of the government and Kenner for the defendant, the case went over to 2 o'clock p. m. When the proclamations of both Presidents, Harrison and Cleveland, will be presented and further arguments had. The information from what the court said this morning are that the case will hold that the case is not covered by the amnesty, but this is by no means certain.

MORE OF THE GRICE GANG.

City Detectives Capture Them Eight Miles West of the City.

To City Detectives Steele and Paul belongs the credit of running down and capturing what is said to be the last of the Sam Grice gang of harness thieves.

Shortly after last midnight the officers arrested three of them eight miles west of the city where they were on their way to Grantsville, where at least one of the number lives. These three are Joseph Hooper, Jack Nelson and R. P. Marsh. They were traveling in a wagon and had several sets of harness in their possession that were identified in Salt Lake today. About noon of each this morning T. E. Walker, another alleged member of the gang, was arrested in this city. All but him were arraigned in the police court this afternoon on a charge of grand larceny, and in default of $500 bonds each were remanded to jail.

Extra Lesson in Cookery.

The last of the regular lessons in cookery by Mrs. Ewing was given this afternoon. But on Monday next, beginning at 1:30, an extra lesson on puff paste will be given and on Tuesday at the same hour instructions in pie and cake making will be the order. For that occasion the ladies are requested to bring their alcohol-burner coffee cups.

IT WAS DIVORCE DAY

Two Husbands and One Wife Seek For and Obtain "Relief."

LAST ACT IN THE CARSON CASE.

Mrs. Nellie Carroll's Unpleasant Experience—Injunction Suits—Herrick's Short Orders.

IT was a nothing business day in Chief Justice Merritt's division of the Third district court this morning. It was of a miscellaneous character and included three divorce cases. The last was more largely represented than usual, and the majority of the lawyers present had something to say or do.

SEPARATED AFTER TWENTY YEARS.

Isaac B. Hodgkins and Sarah Ann Hodgkins had been married for upwards of twenty years, but it would seem from the statement of the husband, who was the petitioner in the case, that Mrs. H. has become tired of his society and positively declines to live with him any longer, though no cause was assigned. Hence Mr. Hodgkins, with his aid of his attorney, L. M. Armstrong, applied for a divorce on the ground of desertion. The case went by default and the court granted the decree as prayed.

IT WAS DOING OF DAISY.

Daniel B. Carson was the petitioner in the next application for a decree, on the ground of his wife, Daisy Carson, having been guilty of adultery. Trial was a peculiar affair, and the reason of the parties will doubtless be remembered by readers of the News when the facts are recalled.

The marriage of the couple took place in this city on April 15, 1893, and there have been both two sentences, boys, whose respective ages at this time are five and three years. In July, 1894—just this year—was notified to Mr. Carson on his Western mail today—Mrs. C. enclosed the letter of her husband on a charge of having conspired with one Frank Hoskins to take away a child belonging to Mr. Carson and a hearing in Commissioner Greenwald's court and was held to await the grand jury's action, but the jury ignored the case and the accused was both released from custody, however, until he had been confined some three days in the penitentiary awaiting the result. The parties lived together for a short time, Mr. Carson now declares he knew nothing about the law suit, which, he says, was the doings of his mother, as Mrs. Carson was of age when she preferred against him at that time. In consideration of this it may be stated that Mrs. Carson herself, after making all these charges, wrote to the presecuting attorney (Mr. D. C. Zimmer) asking him to withdraw them, thereby acknowledging the accused's innocence of misconduct.

Attorney D. N. Straup, who appeared for the plaintiff, said it would be impossible for Carson to live with his wife again after what had happened. Answering to witness's statement, however, Mr. Carson has behaved consistently towards his wife. He has a home and he has offered to take her back. Counsel said he was willing and he was willing to do so, and that he would treat her as well here as he would a female relative in the one event of a divorce being now granted. Further, he was willing that she should have the custody of the children, and was also ready to allow her $20 per month alimony.

Under all these circumstances, Judge Merritt granted the decree of divorce as prayed.

NELLIE AND HER "DEAD" HUSBAND.

Nellie Carroll is a well dressed, pretty little woman, apparently about twenty-four years of age, and she that appeared before the court to request a divorce from her husband, Robert Carroll, by procuration a statement, not very "on the side," owing to the rules energies to prevent fighting. There was made in this case this fact in the newspaper, Salamanca, in Mrs. Carroll and her mother the business. They simply pressed up the alleged secretion and refuse to provide on the husband's part.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll were married in this city on January 2, 1892, and on February 16—just under one month—the latter left his wife, the reason the latter knew not, and she alleged wrongs charge her mother's house.

Carroll had put in an answer to the complaint, but this his attorney, J. M. Hemming, withdrew before the case came on for hearing today. He is he alleged that he his wife left him in February, 1894, and made the additional statement that on the 10th of June of the same year she was married, by the Rev. D. McNeme of Salt Lake, to one Walter Anderson, in the name of "Dora Clayton."

Nothing of this came out on the hearing, but Judge Merritt granted the decree, the case having gone by default. No alimony was asked for, but an attorney's fee of $15 was allowed.

It is true that Mrs. Carroll did marry Anderson, as stated by the defendant, but in the she undoubtedly acted in good faith, and seemingly Carroll is himself to blame for it, shortly after the separation it is claimed that he caused to be sent to her wife a newspaper containing an account of his having been killed in a prize fight, and it was not until he appeared in the flesh before her, subsequent to the marriage with Anderson, that the matter came to the country. Then Mrs. Carroll set to work to taking the necessary steps to secure a divorce from him in order to make the second marriage legal.

D. N. Straup was her attorney in the present proceeding.

THE SUITS CONTINUED.

In the case of F. M. Sawyer, awaiting trial on a charge of fornication, Attorney E. O. Wilcox argued a motion to quash the indictment, and demurrer to same, on the grounds that information was "not a public offense." Judge Dowd, assistant district attorney, having replied, the motion was overruled. Exception taken.

MISCELLANEOUS.

In the case of L. A. Scott Elliott vs. Geo. C. Workman, the motion for a new trial, hearing argument and submitted, was submitted and an exception entered by the defendant.

Utah & Wyoming Improvement Co. vs. Thomas Lagoon. Motion for a new trial, previously argued, continued.

H. H. Tolle vs. Thomas Kane. Plaintiff having failed to file security for costs, the case was now dismissed.

Moore & Co. vs. Thomas Patrick. Judgment by default was having been entered, an order was now made, at request of the plaintiff, that the same be discharged, a settlement having been effected.

Stewart Stephenson vs. J. F. Jack et al. Decree of foreclosure.

H. S. Davis vs. Jas. B. Davis. Order calling the defendant, also Mrs. Edith N. Morris and W. S. Hedges back before Referee H. L. Rolfe on supplemental execution proceedings.

Samuel J. Kenney vs. Henry C. Globe et al. Order issued other defendants before Referee J. M. Dooney on supplemental execution proceedings.

E. S. Rightor vs. Peter C. Rifkin. Judgment entered by default.

A. H. Raskob vs. F. X. Walton & Co. Demurrer to complaint overruled, ten days allowed to answer.

Thos. J. Brown vs. F. H. Brown et al. Continued of the term, by consent.

AN INJUNCTION SUITED.

Otto F. Arnold vs. H. H. Jones and the big Cottonwood Power Co.

This was a motion on an order to show cause why an injunction should not issue against the defendants, who were represented by C. C. Kinney. The plaintiff claims that on June 10th of the present year he entered upon certain vacant, unappropriated and unsurveyed lands of the United States, situated in Big Cottonwood canyon, of the purpose of using the same as the site of a power house, for the generation of electricity by means of water power, derived from the water of the canyon. Also that he began the work of building a dam, constructing a house and other things necessary to appropriate and divert the water, at a cost of $3,000. He also constructed a temporary canal at a point below the head of the island, so as to divert a sufficient quantity of the water to the south side of the island, but that the defendants, on the night of October 15th, destroyed the dam, so he claims, to the damage to the sum of $500. Hence the application for an injunction order, the decision by Mr. Afflebert being reserved until a hearing further damages to be made effective.

The hearing proceeded up to noon, at which time it was continued till Monday next.

NEW FREIGHT TARIFFS.

Utah-Colorado Interests to Be Protected in the Changes of the Next Date Sheet.

Commissioner P. J. Pigott, of the Colorado-Utah Traffic association, has issued new tariff rates between Colorado and Utah common points as revised by the association. They go into effect November 25th and will be printed and distributed within the next few days. In a letter Mr. Pigott has issued on Thursday it may would "Effect in any way the interests of business relations either locally."

"Not assuredly so," replies the commissioner. "This is a tariff sheet, properly speaking, it is a revision, it is not a tariff. The interests of both Colorado and Utah have always been carefully looked after, and are in no way injured at present. We have been a company called the Colorado-Utah Traffic association. Prior to its organization we had a large list of interstate rate sheets or tariffs. When the association organized all rates between common points in Colorado and Utah were made the same. We issued a joint association sheet made in Utah and another in Colorado. Colorado has not been affected in the least. The rates are so adjusted that the Colorado manufacturer or producer can reach the Utah market against Eastern or Western competition."

THE BOARD NAMED.

Utah Commission Appoints the Canvassers of Election Returns.

The Utah commission did this afternoon precisely what it was expected to do last night—appointed the canvassing board for the recent election returns.

That duty has been imposed upon the following gentlemen: W. H. Dale, president; William Hansen, A. S. Hyde, Y. M. C. Ritts and John J. Thomas. The work will begin on Tuesday next at eleven o'clock. The votes of the board are entitled to counting and certifying to the returns of the general election, which will be sent to Secretary Art the Utah commission is compelled to convene the Constitutional convention in Utah. Both bodies are expected to complete their labors by Saturday night next.

Five of the Roughs.

Johnny Lemon, William Clare, Frank Wilder and George H. Smith, the five young rascals who have kept the police busy of late wandering to and was were gathered in the lockup on charges of corroborating the sense of Clark, Eldridge & Company and Marquis Bros. have temporarily moved off their pinkeyness by having their cases set down for hearing on Tuesday next. In the mean time Jesse Bel. Kimball will look after their wants.

MILITARY MATTERS.

National Guard to Participate in an Extended Order Drill at the Fort.

WILL BE LIVELY AND INTERESTING

Three Infantry Companies, the Troop of Cavalry, Two Sections of Battery and the Regulars.

Ever since the military encampment at Sussman by German language issued "Order battle," at Fort Douglas last Wednesday, a spirit of mirth was are sought to have settled over a large part of the population of this region. At the battle referred to, the officers of the National Guard were were present, being very valuable, and treated. Officer received a suggestion to General Pierce, of the Salamanca, which will give them a valuable lesson in preparing themselves for the serious duty we have arisen to give the people of the Territory. The suggestion was:

That another drill be held at an early date, with the National Guard executed as participants with the regulars. In response to that suggestion General Pierce has written to General Dinwiddie asking him how many members of the Guard he could rely on and stating at the same time that the drill would take place on Wednesday next. Today the captains of the local companies were consulted with the result that Troop C wanted to turn out with forty men, Companies A, B and C of infantry, with an average of 75 men each, and Battery A with two sections of artillery, comprising 25 men—making a total with officers of about 175 men. The exact disposition of this force has not yet been decided, though it is probable the militia will be divided between the attacking and defending contingents. All told not less than 700 men will take part.

This will surpass in interest all other military events in the history of the National Guard of Utah. The officers are thoroughly aroused for the occasion, and it is hoped they will be able to acquit themselves with credit. The attendance of visitors from the city promises to be very large, if not overwhelming. We may say the public will be almost as enthusiastic as the militia boys themselves.

COUNTY TEACHERS MEET.

Interesting Addresses and a Consideration of the Brain System Part of the Program.

The regular meeting of the Salt Lake County Teachers' association was held at the University this morning. The subject under consideration was a method of teaching physical geography, by Miss Caroline Smith, one of the primary teachers of the county.

The lady stated that in presenting the important branch to a class she would take North America as a whole, after which she would teach by parts. The initial step would be to draw a map showing the physical features of the grand division, first representing the mountains and plateaus, then the hills and valleys, in this instance being before the class the Rocky Mountain range, following which would be the range bordering on the Pacific, revealing the plateau between. The next step would be to place in view the highlands to the eastern part of the continent, showing not only the great water divide in the part of North America, but also the secondary divide already mentioned. By this means strangers of the continent in the different directions—toward the Pacific and Gulf of California on the west and southwest, toward the Gulf of Mexico on the south and the Atlantic Ocean, Hudson Bay and Arctic Ocean on the east and northeast. After presenting these phases of the physical features, the teacher would know in natural order.

Following the subject presented by Miss Smith was a talk upon psychology, by Mr. Pardoe, who considered the subject presented by him at the last meeting, November 3rd. The speaker presented upon the board by means of minutely wrinkled diagrams the heart as a whole and in sections, as well as an outline of the human frame, representing the various bones of the body, the vital organs, and the relation of these and other organs to their purpose in the general economy. Mr. Pardoe then spoke briefly upon the digestive process, giving a very interesting lecture for the same. The whole subject was treated in a most thorough and entertaining manner.

The committee appointed to consider the advisability of securing a long, short period to teach made in connection with the association presented its report, which was adopted.

Superintendent Allen stated that an effort was being made to have the institutes taken to the schools of the county, and spoke of the importance. He said also that he would meet such teachers as may desire to study the entire eye on at his office on Saturday morning, November 24th, at 10:30.

Prof. Allen further stated that an examination of teachers will be held on December 7th and 8th.

A short time was then devoted by the superintendent to matters pertaining to the improvement and welfare of the schools of the county.

Brown vs. "Tribune."
