ANOTHER VICTIM.

Julius Charged With the Murder of Minnie Williams.

MARRED BONES FOUND IN A STOVE

Yes, Detect Trotter is the Dudes of the Murdered Children Found in the Cellar.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Another appalling crime will be laid at the door of H. H. Holmes, the infamous insurance swindler and the arch-fiend murderer of the Pietzels. Tom Minnie Williams, of Fort Worth, Tex., met her death at the hands of Holmes there is scarcely a doubt. That she died in the city in a violent manner has been given almost conclusively.

Late tonight the police found in a stove in the cook building at 701 Sixty-third street, which was built by Holmes, and in which both he and the Williams girl lived, a quantity of charred bones, bones which seem to have been those owned by Minnie Williams, and a partly melted portion of a watch chain, which was positively identified as having been the property of the girl. The chain was instantly recognized by C. E. Davis, who occupied a portion of the store formerly occupied by Holmes when in the drug business, as one that he had seen Miss Williams wear and which he had on the separate occasions repaired for her. Davis also claimed to recognize the buttons on those he had seen on a dress worn by Miss Williams.

The ghastly discovery was made the delight of a force of detectives who had all day been at work searching the building from cellar to garret. The floors were taken up in parts, the walls were sounded, and the big iron vault carefully inspected. The walls of the vault were found to be heavily packed with asbestos, which the police claim was placed there for the purpose of deadening the sound.

The search of the house was undertaken when the police late morning received a communication from the Philadelphia authorities. The building was carefully gone over and the cellar searched, which led from the floor of the building, where Holmes had his office, to the basement without exit. An interesting floor was tried in every possible manner.

On the floor, in the room which was used by Holmes as an office, and an immense stove fully eight feet in diameter, with a door sufficiently large for the admission of a human body into the interior. This door, on the arrival of the detectives, had been carefully closed, and, upon an examination of the stove, never been opened since. Inspector Fitzpatrick opened the door and poked aimlessly among the debris with his cane. Almost the first thing he turned up was a human femur, easily charred. He hastily jerked it out and found it was beyond all question a human rib of an adult.

The contents of the stove were then quickly dumped, and other portions of a body, too badly burned to admit of positive identification as belonging to any particular portion of the body, were also found. A number of small buttons, said to have been worn on the dress of Miss Williams's dress, were picked up, as was also about six inches of a gold watch chain which she wore.

All of the ashes and debris removed from the stove were carefully preserved and taken to the police station, where a more careful examination will be made of them tomorrow. The police are now of the opinion that not only Minnie Williams, but her younger sister, Alice, and the boy, Howard Pietzel, met death in this house.

BODIES IDENTIFIED.

TORONTO, ONT., July 19.—Today Mrs. Pietzel identified the bodies of the two children found in the cellar on St. Vincent street, as those of her girls, Alice and Nellie. The latter was identified by her hair, and the former by a peculiarity of the upper front teeth. She was not allowed to see any other part of the bodies. Both were in such advanced state of decomposition that it was thought the shock would damage her. As it was, Mrs. Pietzel came down completely, and sobbed throughout the trying ordeal and long afterwards. The detectives and the police were perfectly satisfied with the identification.

The case which the Canadian authorities now have against Holmes is very complete, and much stronger than that made out against him in Philadelphia, which last leads a great many here to believe that the prisoner will certainly be extradited.

Summed up, this is the case: Holmes has been traced from the United States to this city with the children. His identity was established at the Palmer House, and that of the children at the Ashton. Then both murderer and victims were recognized at the very scene of the crime, not by one witness, but by several. An immediate motive for committing the deed is also clearly shown, being due to the fact that Mrs. Pietzel was in the city and might at any time meet the children on the street. Holmes borrowed a spade on the last day that the girls were seen alive at the cottage, or anywhere else, giving as his reason for doing so that he wished to make a bin for some potatoes, which statement was shown to be entirely false. All this, and his going away the next day, are strong corroborative facts, from which Holmes will find it hard to escape.

No trial can be too exhaustive, no test too exacting for the admirable qualities of Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

SOVEREIGN'S PLAN.

Says Harmful to Labor Interests Than to the Banks.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 19.—At the treasury department it was said that plan of Mr. Sovereign for the issuance of legal tender greenbacks, instead of national bank notes, if carried out, would prove more harmful than beneficial to the labor interests of the country, as it would contract the currency to the extent of $171,000,000, without injuring the national banks.

"It would not hurt the banks at all," said Mr. O. P. Tucker, deputy comptroller of the curre ncy. "If people would refuse to receive their notes, the banks would simply present them to the United States treasury for redemption and receive legal tender notes, which they would continue to use in their business. There are only $164,000,000 national bank notes in circulation, while there are $500,000,000 of other kinds of money outstanding."

CHICAGO, July 19.—A special to the Daily News from Washington says: Officers of the treasury, from Secretary Carlisle down to the subordinates, who have charge of issues and the currency, were today discussing the threatened boycott by the Knights of Labor against national bank notes.

It was about the only subject talked of, but after a careful consideration of the question in all its phases, Secretary Carlisle expressed the opinion to one of his advisers that no serious results would follow such a boycott. His conclusion was based upon the figures in regard to the circulation of national bank notes.

The amount of these outstanding June 1, 1895, was only $165,579,495, and of this amount about $20,000,000 is held by banks. National bank notes have never been made legal tender by statute, so that it is true that it would be impossible to force anybody to accept them in individual transactions. They are, however, available for use by the government in the payment of all its obligations except for interest on the public debt and for redemption of national currency. They are also receivable by the government as taxes, excises for public lands and for all obligations due the government, except duties on imports. Section 5192 provides that national banks are compelled to accept these notes as legal tender.

CABINET MEETING.

Proceedings Secret—The Cuban Question Probably Discussed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 19.—For the first time in many year there was a midsummer cabinet meeting in Washington this afternoon, in the absence of the President. Secretary of State Olney apparently came to Washington from Falmouth for the express purpose, for he arrived this noon and will leave the city tomorrow morning.

Secretary Olney called at the war department soon after his arrival at the state department to talk with Secretary Lamont. The latter was absent at the time, and he failed to attend the cabinet meeting, which was held later, although an effort was made to summon him by telephone. Secretary Lamont just received a visit from the secretary of state, and about 4 o'clock the pair walked over to the state department and were closeted in the office of Secretary Olney. Here they were joined in the course of half an hour by Secretary Carlisle and Attorney General Harmon, who had been called by telephone into the conference. This lasted for fully two hours, will from time to time Assistant Secretary of state Adee, who has been acting as secretary during the absence of Secretary Olney, was called into the room to advise the cabinet as to some point under discussion.

Whatever was the subject considered could not be learned, and apparently it was reserved to keep the proceedings secret, for each of the persons present, as they emerged from the office, declined curiously but positively to answer a single question touching their deliberations. All that could be gathered was to the effect that nothing had happened at Gray Gables to give rise to any apprehension. Still there was an air of gravity in the demeanor of the cabinet officers as they emerged from the conference that would indicate that some weighty and important questions had been under discussion.

The impression is very strong tonight that the cabinet meeting was for the purpose of discussing the neutrality features of the Cuban question, and it is believed that some public statement will be made in regard thereto in a few days.

Cleveland's Baby Named.

BUZZARDS BAY, MASS., July 19.—Marion, a French condition of the musical name Mary, has been decided upon by President and Mrs. Cleveland as the name of the baby born to them about two weeks ago. The fact was officially announced by Private Secretary Thurber late afternoon. There was no unusual ceremony attendant upon the naming of the baby, except that which occurs in any household on such occasions.

Rider Haggard Nobbed.

LONDON, July 19.—H. Rider Haggard, the author, who is standing in the conservative interest for East Norfolk, has made his election tour in a four-horse drag, and has been roughly treated, stones and mud being thrown in some cases. Near Ludham, one of the party, Miss Harimp, had her head cut by a flying missile. At St. Olaus the party was obliged to take refuge in a hotel, which was besieged. The police were dispatched to the scene. From North Walsham, Norwich, to Yarmouth, the rise of the party increased in gravity, and at midnight the mounted police were summoned.

No woman will ever know how superior to every other, Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is until she tries it.

VIEWING THE BODY.

Blanchfield's Wounds Exhibited to the Public.

LONDON, July 19.—The Sofia correspondent of the Times says: A continuous stream of people, including peasants and soldiers, passed through Blanchfield's house to view the body, which was surrounded with wreaths. The bandages had been removed from the head, and the terrible wounds were exposed to view. There was one great gash in the left cheek, across the nose and over the right eye to the right ear. There was another from the eyebrow to the top of the head, and there were other wounds on the cheek and neck, while behind the ear the neck was literally severed with a network of gashes. At the foot of the bier on a stand was a glass jar filled with spirits, in which the mutilated hands were displayed.

SOFIA, July 19.—Three of the assassins of Major Panitza, who was executed for conspiracy at the order of Premier Stambuloff, were arrested today, on the evidence of Mr. Stambuloff and the others at the assassination. Two gendarmes have been dismissed from the force and will be tried for connection with the murder.

OBSERVATIONS IN ALASKA.

General Schofield Thinks Troops Should be Stationed at Sitka.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—While General Schofield was in this city in his tour of inspection of the garrisons and fortifications of the army, he received from President Cleveland telegraphic instructions to proceed to Alaska and inspect that coast and sele t, if practicable, a site for a military garrison there. The commanding general has completed his duty, and on his return to Seattle prepared and forwarded his report to the war department. While at Seattle the general also wrote a personal letter to one of his brother officers in this city, giving a synopsis of the report to the secretary of war.

The general, in his letter, says: "In going up and down the coast I made many observations, and found that there are numerous places where batteries could be placed should the department ever extend their fortifications that far north.

"We remained at Sitka but a short time. Sitka is a very pretty little place and will, no doubt, be an important trading city some time. If it is the desire of the war department to have troops in Alaska, they should be stationed at Sitka, which is the only place for them.

"The only disadvantage would be the extra cost of transportation of supplies and stores. In my report to the secretary of war I have made suggestions on these lines. I am satisfied that there would be an advantage to have two or three batteries of artillery stationed in Alaska, as there formerly was until the withdrawal of the two batteries of the Second artillery in 1874."

It is understood among army officers that the senators and representatives from Washington and Oregon will frame the necessary bill, which will be supported by the representatives in Congress from California.

The Panama Strike.

NEW YORK, July 20.—A dispatch to the World from Colon says:

A special train from Panama brought a number of native laborers to work on the Panama. It is understood that arrangements have been made to feed and otherwise accommodate them on board the ship, thereby preventing all possibility of collision between them and strikers, who are not allowed to enter the work premises.

It is asserted that since the laborers from Panama arrived all the mechanics at Panama railroad shops have decided to strike. It is said that the mechanics will not strike, but if they do, the railroad will close the shops and mechanics till other mechanics can be secured.

Henderson Makes a Sentement.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—Charles B. Henderson, the commercial traveler of Rochester, N.Y., who Miles Claypoole Barr last Saturday, has made a statement regarding the crime. He says Barr struck him and that he drew his pocket knife to frighten his assailant rather than to injure him. When Barr approached him he moved then Henderson said he flourished his knife without intending to injure him, and was surprised when he found that he had cut the man. Henderson still refuses to tell anything about his family or his business affairs in the east. His wife and three children, he says, are at present with his mother-in-law at Moffat, N.Y. Henderson is tall for man of his build and wine from red which he use traveler, on the ground that the company he represents allows him not to do so.

WITNESS AGAINST DURRANT.

Accounting for the Absence of Blood on His Clothes.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—The police claim to have found a woman who will prove a very important witness in the trial of Theodore Durrant for the Emmanuel church murders, which will begin next Monday. It will be remembered that even the detectives of the police department were at a loss to explain the absence of bloody clothes if Durrant were guilty of the murder of Minnie Williams.

The condition of the body of the murdered girl made reasonable the inference that her murderer had spattered his clothing with blood. The blood which had spurted to the walls of the book shelves indicated that there had been a struggle. With unusual diligence the police searched in every nook and cranny of Emmanuel church for some trace of clothing. They found none, and no better results attended a search in Durrant's home. This failure was construed to mean a flaw in the prosecution's chain.

In a singular way it is said to have been repaired. If Durrant be the murderer and he did walk Minnie Williams as he did with another member of Emmanuel church, there would be no blood marks on his clothes. The prosecution has secured a witness who will swear to the actions of Durrant on another occasion than that of the murder. Her story will possess the utmost significance in the case.

HEART DISEASE.

Fluttering, No Appetite, Could not Sleep, Wind on Stomach.

"For a long time I had a terrible pain in my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep.
