The Cheyenne Leader for the first time in years, has issued a paper on Monday.

The common council has passed an ordinance fixing the city tax rate at 85 cents on the $100.

Lieutenant Parker C. Johnson of the Tenth United States cavalry, who shot Henry H. Barry, an Arizona cattleman, in a dispute at Fort Thomas in October, 1891, has just been acquitted at Solomonville, A. T.

R. Burdette of San Jose has brought suit contesting the election of Charles Doerr, Democrat, to the city council. Doerr was returned as elected in the Third ward at the April election by a plurality of three over Burdett.

Inquiries are now being made into the practicability of shipping frozen mutton by the Australian steamers to Vancouver. A company will probably be formed to build a cold storage warehouse and go into the business.

A. W. Edwards of Elk Creek, Wyoming, who was scalped by the Indians near Fort Laramie when a boy, will be exhibited at the World's Fair as the only living man who was ever scalped. He gets $10,000 for the season.

Rev. Burchard of Ukiah, the pioneer Indian missionary of Mendocino county, arrived at Covelo Saturday. He will remain some time laboring among the Round valley Indians, by whom he is held in high esteem. He was their agent some twenty years ago.

William Henderson, who murdered Cy Suter in Canby, Or., a few months ago, and who was convicted of murder in the first degree in November, and the verdict of the lower court reversed, has been permitted to enter a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree, and sentenced to the penitentiary for life.

Redlands, Santa Barbara, Alameda, Napa, Bakersfield, Merced, Vallejo, Grass valley, Auburn and Willows get the ten new companies of the national guard authorized by the last legislature. As appropriations were only made for the maintenance of five companies, the companies will have to exist on half allowance until 1895.

William Rountree, the aeronaut, who was injured while attempting an ascension near Golden Gate park, Cal., last Sunday feels no serious effects of his injury and expects to be out in a few days. His only fear is that he will not secure a part of the $100 gate money which is now in the hands of his partner. He intends to make another ascension in two weeks.

Mr. T. McWhorty has been in Montpelier for the past week on business connected with Idaho's World's Fair souvenir, entitled, "Ida, the Gem of the Mountains," says the Montpelier Post. This work is to be 9½ by 12 inches, superbly illustrated with copper half tone engravings, and to contain at least thirty pages of reading matter, showing up the advantages of Idaho for the home seeker and the tourist. This souvenir is to be the only Idaho literature allowed inside the World's Fair grounds. It is to be published under the immediate direction of Captain Wells, and will be one of the finest advertisements Idaho ever had.

Dr. J. N. Baylis of San Bernardino, Cal., has had a lively experience with a burglar. While walking past his office on Fourth street with his wife, about 9 o'clock, he saw a peculiar light in his office, which was closed for the evening. The doctor went in and turned on the electric lights, when a man who had been prowling about in the room rushed out. Baylis gave chase for a block or two, and, being something of a sprinter, was rapidly gaining on the man when the latter turned around and fired a shot at him, causing the doctor to give up the chase. A. P. Morse, a business man, showed a disposition to intercept the man, who promptly flourished his revolver in his face, saying, "You don't want any of this," which was clearly the case. Up to the present time the burglar has not been apprehended.

During the past few weeks there has been formulated a plan to irrigate the largest tract of land in one body to be found in Southern California. This will be done by damming the Mojave river at Victor, creating an artificial lake nine miles long, three miles wide and 180 feet in depth, water sufficient to irrigate 200,000 acres of desert land. The Victor Reservoir company has been quietly at work for some weeks securing options on land and water rights. Some wealthy Eastern men have taken stock in the company, and it is announced that contracts may be entered into at once for water rights. The water will be diverted upon government land now unoccupied and subject to settlement and reclamation. It is estimated that the entire cost of construction will be less than a million dollars, and the promoters of the enterprise are sanguine of success.

A dive waitress known as "Cora" attempted to commit suicide on Saturday night at Sacramento. She was drinking in a dance hall on Second street and to a male friend she stated that she was tired of living and intended to end her miserable existence. A few moments later she left the hall and her friend, fearing that she would destroy herself, followed her. The woman walked along lower K street and as she reached the river bank she divested herself of her outer garments and prepared for the fatal plunge. Just as she was about to throw herself into the river her friend seized her and prevented her from carrying her threat into execution. She was then induced to dress herself and was subsequently taken to her room on K street. It is said that her reason for attempting to commit suicide was because her lover had deserted her.

By a peculiar oversight of the fact that Arbor Day was a legal holiday, Judge Jesse Knight sentenced six men on that day to the penitentiary. They were taken to Laramie, Wyoming, Sunday and placed in prison. On Monday Judge Knight decided that he would have to re-sentence the men as they were committed on a legal holiday. Sheriff Whitmore, who was on his way home, was caught by a dispatch at Rawlins and hastened back to get the men and left Monday afternoon with them for Green River, where they were sentenced over again Wednesday. Several fine points have come up in connection with the mistake. Warden George Yund of the penitentiary had receipted for the prisoners to Sheriff Whitmore and there is a question whether he could release them to be returned to Green River. To obviate this point Mr. Yund accompanied the prisoners to Green River. The question has also been raised as to whether the state can be made to pay this extra expense of transportation, amounting to $150 or $200.

Carl P. Scheig professed to be a Christian young man and a new arrival from Minneapolis. He wanted to attend the camp-meeting of the Seventh Day Adventists at Bushrod park, Berkeley, Cal., so he secured quarters in the same tent with John D. C. Knapp, a very religious gentleman. The latter had come prepared for a long stay, and just dropped his money in his trunk, supposing that it would be all right. Mr. Scheig was trying very hard to be a Christian, but when he learned where the money of his new-found friend was hidden it was a very hard matter for him to resist the temptation of taking it. At last he fell from grace and took $200. When Mr. Knapp discovered that he had been robbed, and made known the fact, Scheig was busy praying and did not have time to get interested in the story. It was not until Knapp got excited that his friend offered him his profound sympathy. The Oakland detectives were put on the case, and they soon secured Scheig, who became very indignant. When he was searched and the missing money found on him he soon changed his tune, and he is in jail on a charge of grand larceny. He admits his guilt.

George P. Miller, a well-known stock broker of San Francisco, who lives at Golden Gate, was not at all disturbed on Monday by the wild stories that had been going the rounds of the press to the effect that his young and beautiful wife had eloped with a drummer. Mr. Miller is a man of means and has almost reached his three score years and ten. The old man settled down in Golden Gate because it is a quiet place, and he thought he would be happy there on that account. Mrs. Miller is somewhat of a dashing woman, of about 25, and has not lived in a country town all her life. She knows where to seek a racket, having, it is said, been in the habit of making the rounds of high-toned restaurants occasionally. That Mrs. Miller left Golden Gate without saying good-by to some of her intimate friends is quite true. But the old man is not worried over the elopement story at all. He says that she will return when she gets ready, as has been usually the case when she went away for a short stay. From what information Mr. Miller has so far received it is his belief that his wife is in Haywards nursing the sick child of a friend. This information has set the aged husband entirely at rest. In the meantime the tongues of the Golden Gate gossipers are wagging at both ends.
