THE SOCIAL EVIL PROBLEM.

Police Authorities and Citizens Discuss the Subject at Length.

Petitions to Remove the Red Lights from Franklin Avenue Met With a Counter Petition and Protest.

The petitions from residents and property owners on and in the vicinity of Franklin avenue to have the red lights removed from that notorious thoroughfare to some other less objectionable locality, were met by similar petitions and protests at the meeting of the fire and police commissioners last night.

The following petition was presented, read and commented upon at length by Attorney Harlow Pergram in behalf of the citizens and property owners whose names are subscribed thereto:

To the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners:

We, the undersigned owners of residences facing on Commercial street and Olive street, hereby petition your honorable board to take into consideration the present existence of Franklin avenue as the place in which our property is situated or in which we now are doing business. We respectfully represent that if you should remove these people in our block it would cause us great damage and almost irreparable injury, and we most respectfully urge you to consider our position.

The great total of frontage represented in this petition is 1,728 feet. Of adjoining property owners contributing 528 feet out of a possible 1,320 feet.

In defense of the petition Mr. Pergram took the position that the social evil should and could be abated so far as this city was concerned. Females could be driven from the town. If they refused to go and persisted in carrying on their nefarious and disgraceful trade, they should be imprisoned six months at a time. And to make the effort at eradication more successful the landlord should be struck also, indicted for instance. He was especially opposed to having the women and their concerts thrust into the locality where the property of his clients was. They would sooner have it in idle, and that was demoralizing to capital as they had a great deal of money invested there.

Then a running discussion ensued between the commissioners and Mr. Ferguson, the former, together with the chief of police, taking the position that it would be disastrous to allow the women to spread all over the town and conduct vice places in the residence portion of the city. The only thing to do in their opinion was to restrict the business. Absolute suppression was utter impossibility. That had been amply proven heretofore. Messrs. Jennings and Empey believed that it was unwary residents of Franklin avenue should be removed to quarters which, by reason of their location would make the social evil less shocking to the community, while Messrs. Salisbury and Noble inclined to the view that it would be best restricted in the present neighborhood without casting a blight on another locality.

The petition of Mr. Ferguson's clients was then set aside for the time being for consideration at the following early

We, the undersigned, owners of residence fronting on Franklin avenue and vicinity, hereby petition your honorable body to not remove our present tenants. We ask you to consider that our property is valueless for any other purpose if the sex persons, and further that much money has been spent by us for improvements on our property on this street within the last six months with the understanding that this matter was finally settled.

THE LITTLE ONES LANDED.

No Law to Prevent Willie and Rachel From Doing So.

Persistence and Over Zealous Officials Forced to the Admission That They Acted Without Authority.

Willie Yeatters and Rachel Giles, who were brought here on the Mariposa from Samoa and the Friendly Islands by Mormon missionaries, were allowed to land last evening, says the San Francisco Chronicle of Sunday, the 25th inst., and will leave this morning for Salt Lake. The special board of inquiry, consisting of Messrs. Cleveland, Hill and Forstery, met on the steamer yesterday afternoon and heard the evidence in the case. Messrs. Yeatters and Hudnell were unable to attend. United States Commissioner Stanley and Immigration Inspector Gardener were present.

Twitchell and Hunter, who had the children in charge, were closely questioned as to their relations with them. Both men are Mormon missionaries and have been travelling the light of the Latter-day Saints in the South sea. They claimed that they were taking the children to Utah to be educated in return for kindness to them by the parents. Elder H. S. Tanner, president of the California Mormon mission, was also in attendance. The only ground on which the board could prevent the landing of the little ones was that they would become public charges in the country.

Both Twitchell and Hunter were very positive on this point. They claimed that the parents of the children were not Mormons, nor did they desire to have them raised in the faith. The father of the boy, Tavia Giles said, was a ship carpenter and the owner of a schooner at Tutuila. He had advanced sufficient money to take the boy to Utah. Hunter said that the father of the girl was a merchant at Tonga, and had given him $100 to bring her to this country. Of that amount, he said, that he had $59 left. The men also testified that there were no proper establishments in the Mormon settlements of Utah, and that there were no lawyers there either. After questioning the boy, and receiving an answer that there were nine children in his family, the investigators went into executive session. Their consultation lasted an hour, at the end of which time it was decided that the children could not be prevented from landing. Both Twitchell and Hunter denied all knowledge of any scheme to buy or otherwise secure children in any part of the South sea or anywhere else for the purpose of rearing them in the Mormon faith.

Ordered to Show Cause Why.

The receivers of the Utah Central Railway company have obtained an order from the Third District court calling upon the Metropolitan Stone company to show cause on December 5, 1894, why contracts made by the railway company with the stone companies relative to the construction of switches to the quarries of the latter in Emmott county should not be set aside.

Notes From Leeds.

LEEDS, Nov. 20th, 1894.

Editor Deseret News:

I thought I would pen a few lines if you thought it worthy of a place in your valued paper. I find that a person is never too old to learn. I fell from a load of hay ten years ago last month and struck on the hard ground on my right hip and paralyzed my whole system, so I could not rise from the ground without help. I have never been able to walk a step since without crutches. As my eyes were getting rather weak and my sight dim, I could not use my lost specs, and felt it would be but a short time before my eyes would fail. I am over 83 years of age. As necessity is the mother of invention, I took two pairs of my spectacles that I had used several years before, and lo and behold they magnified the letters so I can now read for hours without tiring my eyes.

I have been a constant subscriber for the DESERET NEWS for over forty-two years. I subscribed for the first issue of the NEWS published by Dr. Romney and today it is received with joy. The paper I regard as superior to any on the globe.

As to temporal and spiritual matters here, they are at a very low ebb. Time breaking up one town to build up another doesn't pan out very much, and especially when prejudice gets a strong hold.

I sometimes contrast the difference of the morality of the people now and seventy years ago when murders and all the lesser crimes were scarcely ever heard of. Now they are of almost daily occurrence and are rampant throughout the earth. There was one murder committed in Herkimer county, New York, and it caused as though the whole state was excited. On this occasion three brothers by the name of Strong were hung for the murder of an old man for his money. It was such a rare occurrence that people went from our town over thirty miles to see them hung and I never felt resistant a murder for ten years afterward.

In my letter that was published on April 27th I made honorable mention of Captain Jefferson Hunt as being a great help in bringing those cattle from California across those vast plains for the benefit of the Church. It was overlooked. This deep exploit is it comes to the ears of his friends for three of his sons were along with a train of mules packed with sewing wheat.
