SUNDAY SERVICES.

Speakers at the Tabernacle Yesterday, Elders Rowe, Bowling and Rees.

Elder Angus M. Cannon, president of the Salt Lake stake, was the presiding officer at the Tabernacle services yesterday afternoon.

Choir sang the hymn:

What can compared to the learning?
Why so anxiously employed toward.

Prayer was offered by Elder A. H. Raleigh.

Choir further sang:

Glorious things are sung of Zion,
Known to our God of old.

Elder William H. Bowling who had recently returned from the Indian Territory mission was introduced to the congregation. He had nothing premeditated to speak upon or to present for the consideration of those present, so he would depend wholly upon the Spirit of the Lord as to what he should say. The speaker knew that the Holy Spirit dwelt in the places of worship that had been dedicated to His name, and that knowledge gave him the satisfaction that all would be well if the Saints exercised their faith to his behalf.

Elder Bowling had had much joy and pleasure in his ministerial labors in the South. He knew not to what extent his labors had been beneficial to others, but he did have the satisfaction of knowing that while absent he had been in the line of his duty. Upon leaving his home in 1894, he went forward to the mission headquarters and was given an assignment to labor in Oklahoma. There he had met with many good-hearted honest people—people who were seeking for the truth, and many of whom were convinced of the Gospel work, when first they heard it. A number of those people were extremely anxious to gather to Utah, but the conditions with which they were surrounded would not warrant a move of that kind. Some of the Saints, however, left their homes in Oklahoma in 1895, and moved southward to settle among the Saints residing in Mexico. A good work was being done in that territory, and the Elders were very zealous in their labors. The people were full of kindness to the Mormon missionaries and the speaker had yet to experience the inconvenience of sleeping out of doors while laboring among them.

Elder Bowling's labors also extended into Arkansas. In this state there is a good field for the spread of the Gospel and the only difficulty the Elders have to contend with, is the sickness generally encountered in the lowly situated districts of the state. The people there are also good and kind to the Elders and treat them with a good degree of respect, showing much hospitality onto them and inviting them to call again whenever they leave.

In Kansas, too, the work is progressing nicely. This state is used as a sort of sanitarium, where the Elders who have labored in the Iowa districts, can go and recuperate from the bad effects of the climatic conditions of Oklahoma, Indian Territory and Arkansas. Kansas offers an excellent field for the extent of the Gospel work, and the constant cry is for more Elders, that they might disseminate the truth when the people were in a condition to receive it and treat it with respect.

The Indian Territory mission as a whole was a good one and offered fields where golden harvests could be reaped through the efforts of the Mormon Elders. Much good had already been done there and much greater was that which yet remained to be done. All that was required was for the young Elders to go forth willingly, at the call of those in authority, trusting in God and he would bless their labors. In conclusion Elder Bowling exhorted the young men of Zion to prepare themselves to those in authority. If called on a mission, they should respond cheerfully to that call, for if they did not they missed the golden opportunity of life. God had promised to bless His servants, and His promise had been fulfilled in the past and would be complied with in the future. The Mormon missionaries were being cared for in the nations of the earth and their labors were being crowned with success.

Elder Alvin A. Bentley also a returned missionary from the Indian Territory, was the next speaker. He said he arose to speak with much pleasure feeling that it was his duty to now in submission to the call of those in authority. His lot was a secret and seen met with the Lamanites in the Indian Territory. There he had experienced much joy and a good work was being done among the red men, whom prophecy had said would become a white and delightsome people. He knew that the Gospel was true, that knowledge having come to him through yielding obedience to its principles, and seeking for a testimony. His prayer was that the Saints might remain firm, steadfast and true to the covenants which they had made, that in the end they might receive an exaltation in His kingdom.

Elder Willard Done followed. He felt that the missionary work being done by the Latter-day Saints was one of the most important branches of the Gospel labor. Nearly all the civilized nations and many of those not civilized had been visited by the Mormon Elders, fulfilling in part God's command that His Gospel should be preached to every nation, kindred, tongue and people. An experience in the mission field gave to the young Elders of Zion, a degree of intelligence and ability which no other mode of work could bestow. Had they went forth into the world unacquainted to a great extent with the doings of the world, but when they returned they were able to tell of what they had seen and heard and to discuss these matters and intelligently upon those things which before they had been almost entirely in ignorance of. They also learned to speak foreign languages and gained other knowledge which was of incalculable benefit to them and which helped to enhance the intellectual condition of the Saints generally. Elder Done felt pleased that the young men of Zion were privileged to go to the nations of the earth and he hoped that they would take hold of the opportunities afforded them and study the principles of the Gospel, to the end that they would be able to preach it intelligently to those in darkness.

Choir sang the anthem:

Awaaaaake, my glorious lyre.

Benediction was pronounced by Elder William B. Preston.

Northwestern Utah News.

YORK, Utah, Aug. 12, 1896.

To the Editor:

One of our sisters, Margaret Ross, met with a very painful accident on Sunday, August 8. She was out riding in a buggy with her son John and daughters-in-law. They were going from home up to the junction, and as near as can be learned, in going through a chuck hole the hind seat tipped back and she was thrown out upon her head. She was badly bruised, and at present writing she is not able to be moved from the house to which she was taken when the accident occurred.

On Wednesday the Saints of this place were the happy recipients of a feast of good things. The Relief Society held meeting in the forenoon, and Sister Haight, president of the Society, gave some very good counsel. The primary held their meeting in the afternoon and a nice program was rendered by the children. Much credit is due to Branch President M. D. Yates for the way in which the children are taking part. Elder Haight, Stake president, urged upon the Saints to live up to their religion. A good spirit prevailed in the meetings, and the meetings were such as the people needed. It was a time of refreshing long to be remembered.

Our settlement is in good condition—abundance of water has produced a good crop of hay and the grain crop is very promising. Wm. R. Tracy's young orchard has done well this year, the trees being well loaded with fruit; in fact every one who has fruit trees set out is blessed with a little fruit. Our saw mill has been stopped for some time on account of low water.

The health of the people is good, and the NEWS is ever a welcome messenger. WM. B.

One night when Mr. Isaac Hayes was sleeping with me, says M. F. Hatch, a prominent merchant of Quartermaster, Washington, I heard him groaning. On going to his room I found him suffering from cramp colic. He was in such agony I feared he would die. I hastily gave him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He was soon relieved, and the first words he uttered were, "What was that stuff you gave me?" I informed him. A few days ago we were talking about his attack and he said he was never without that remedy. I have used it in my family for several years. I know its worth and do not hesitate to recommend it to my friends and customers. For sale by Druggists.

Mr. C. G. Strong, principal of the public schools at Addison, Utah, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Pain Balm and have found it an excellent remedy for bruises and slight wounds."

Lameness usually results from a sprain or other injury, or from rheumatism, for which Chamberlain's Pain Balm is especially intended and unequalled. It affords almost immediate relief and in a short time effects a permanent cure. For sale by Druggists.

"It is the best patent medicine in the world" is what Mr. E. M. Hostman of Sheridan, Oregon, says of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. "What leads me to make this assertion is from the fact that my mother in its worst form was prevalent around here last summer and it never took over two or three doses of that remedy to effect a complete cure." For sale by Druggists.

Boys' 50c overalls are still selling at 35c at the Equitable Co-op.
