BACK TALK.

They're always abusing the women,
As a terrible plague to the men;
They say we're the root of all evil,
And repeat it again and again;
Of wars, and quarrels, and bloodshed,
And all mischief be what it may;
And pray, then, why do you marry us,
If we're all the plague you say?
And why do you take such care of us,
And keep us so safe at home,
And are never easy a moment,
If we ever chance to roam?
When you ought to be thanking Heaven,
That your plague is out of the way
You all keep fussing and fretting—
"Where is my plague to-day?"
If a plague peers out of the window,
Up no the eyes of the men;
If she hides, then they all keep stirring,
Until she look out again.

New Instructions as to the Time for Tree Planting.

DEPARTM'T OF THE INTERIOR,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C.,
June 30, 1873.

Registers and Receivers, U. S. Land Offices—GENTLEMEN:—I have received numerous letters requesting a modification of the instructions issued by this office April 21, 1873, under the act of Congress approved March 3, 1873, entitled "An act to encourage the growth of timber on western prairies."

It is claimed that parties making entries under the first section of the act are entitled, by its terms, to three years to complete the planting of the prescribed area with trees, and that they should not be limited to one year in the regulations. While it is true that the act does not specifically mention any particular time within which the planting shall be done by parties making entries under the first section, the 4th section clearly limits the time for planting, by a homestead claimant, to one year from the date of entry, as it requires him to show at the end of the third year that he has had the trees which he is required to plant under cultivation for two years. This he cannot do, unless the trees are planted within one year from the date of entry. Congress thus fixed a time for homestead claimants under the 4th section, and as no time was fixed, in the case of parties making entries under the 1st section, I adopted, in entries of that class, the time which Congress considered reasonable and proper to allow homestead claimants, and limited them to one year. A different construction might have been reached by separating the 1st and 4th sections of the act from the other portions thereof, but considering the whole act, I did not feel authorized to give parties making entries under the 1st section more than Congress granted to homestead settlers by the 4th section. Admitting that this act is ambiguous, and that there is room for a difference of opinion on the point under consideration, I cannot conclude that Congress intended to make a discrimination against settlers under the homestead law, who, through poverty, privation and toil are rendering an essential and valuable service to the commonwealth by making their homes upon wild land, and reducing them to cultivation, and thereby adding to the productive area and resources of the country, and in favor of men who have the means to appropriate lands for speculative purposes, and who, when they take them under the 1st section of the act, are not required to reside upon or improve upon them further than may be necessary to the planting and cultivation of the requisite quantity of timber.

If any discrimination is to be made I think it should be in favor of the poor man, who seeks a home for himself and family upon the public domain, and who is, by the homestead law, required to build his house, and make his actual residence upon his land within six months from the date of his entry, and who has, therefore, about all he can do during the first year of his settlement to provide for the comfort of his family and comply with the provisions of the homestead law without being required to plant trees.

The law will have to be much plainer in its requirements than it is now, before I can consent to establish a rule which would be so obviously unjust to the home-tead settler, and so clearly in the interest of speculation.

It is also claimed that parties are not limited to one entry, but may make as many as they please. Here again the act is somewhat obscure, but it would be as manifestly contrary to the principles embodied in the general legislation in relation to the public domain, as well as a sound public policy, to allow an individual to appropriate indefinite and unlimited quantities of the public land, that I cannot conclude that it was the intention of Congress to allow any person to take more than one quarter-section under the provisions of the act, and I have therefore decided that an individual cannot be allowed to make more than one entry, and that such individual cannot take more than one technical quarter section.

In arriving at these conclusions I am, I confess, not absolutely certain that the language of the act will not authorize, or at least admit, a different construction, but to allow three years for planting trees, and then permit an indefinite and unlimited number of entries by the same person, would be to aid in a speculative monopoly of the public domain by parties having no intention of complying with the requirements of the law as to tree culture.

I cannot think that Congress intended any such results to flow from the act we have to, and, therefore, I shall adhere to the regulations which I have issued, and limit parties to one year in which to complete their planting, and to one entry under the act, until Congress, by further legislation, authorizes or requires a modification of the rule.

WILLIS DRUMMOND,
Commissioner.

Alzina Beckstead, being duly sworn, deposes and says: For the past seven years she has been afflicted with blindness, the cause of it being the granulation of the lids, and felons over the balls of the eyes to such an extent as only to observe a very strong sunlight, without the ability to read or sew. That on the 10th day of December last, I placed myself under the treatment of Mrs. M. Clay, Eye Doctress, in the City of Salt Lake, and that under her treatment the deponent's sight was so fully restored on the twenty-fifth day of January following, that she has since been able to read common printed matter and do plain sewing.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bunn of Draperville, Salt Lake County, Utah, being duly sworn, says, that prior to the 1st of November, 1872, for the period of nearly one year she was nearly entirely blind, unable to walk alone, from the granulation of the eye lids and disease of the eye balls; that she placed herself under the treatment of Mrs. M. J. Clay, Doctress, Salt Lake City, Utah, on the forenoon mentioned date, and after continuing the treatment for a few days, her sight was so fully restored as to enable her since to walk alone, and readily read and sew.

Mrs. Fanny Thatcher, being duly sworn on her oath says, she resides in Salt Lake City, Utah Territory, and that on the 8th Sept. last, 1872, she has been suffering from granulated lids and a felon over the ball of one eye, so that during that period almost was unable to use her eyes, and could hardly see. Affected eyes were removed by Mrs. M. J. Clay, Eye Doctress, in the City of Salt Lake, and that under her treatment about Sept. 1st, 1872, she commenced to improve, and continued to improve, and continued the same with great rapidity, so that she could read in about four weeks from that time, and continued to improve, so that she could read and do fine sewing.
ALBINE Beckstead being duly sworn, deposes and says that she was present when Mrs. Fanny Thatcher, being duly sworn on her oath says, she resides in Salt Lake City, and that she was present when Mrs. Fanny Thatcher, being duly sworn on her oath says, she resides in Salt Lake City, and that about the period of her sickness, about Sept. 1st, 1872, she was blind, and could not see to read, sew, or do any work, and that she was present when Mrs. M. J. Clay, Eye Doctress, in the City of Salt Lake, on the 26 day of January last, and that within three months from that date she had entirely recovered her sight, so as to easily read common printed matter.
