DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Monday, September 9, 1895.

WHAT AN EDITOR SAYS.

Words of a Recent Newspaper Visitor to Salt Lake.

Tells His People of His Reception Here and What Utah Residents Are Doing.

The Moses Colorado Herald of September 6, has the following:

Upon invitation of the Utah Editorial Association, supplemented by the complimentary of Hon. F. A. Wadleigh, of the Rio Grande Western, the editor in chief of the Herald made a pilgrimage last week to Zion. The journey thither was not fraught with the hardships of the early traveler, to the home of the Prophet, for while whirling along through vale and dell, with congenial company, comfortably ensconced in a Pullman palace car, an appreciable conception can be gotten of the difficulties experienced by that hardy people who forced their way into the very heart of nature's solitude, there to found an empire. After a ride of several hours through Colorado's varied and beautiful scenery—ascending to and descending from her famous Grand Canyon, thence traversing the length of her beautiful Grand valley, through scenery unexcelled and of which the celebrated "scenic line" may be justly proud, thence across the treeless, but not uninteresting desert of western Utah, with its bituminous coal fields, the traveler is suddenly and unexpectedly brought into the fertile and beautiful valleys of the Great Salt Lake basin. Here like the "forest gems of earth," scattered in a bituminous setting of gold and silver, with its accompanying industries, are wrought out the marvelous results of half a century as a monument to the indomitable energy of man.

Having arrived at the central and most brilliant gem of the setting, one who has not before visited here, is struck with many attractive features peculiar alone to the great city by the inland sea.

Salt Lake City, in many respects, is unlike any of the larger cities of the continent. On reaching here our party was taken in charge by a committee of the Utah Press association, one of whom met us at the famous Castilian, a pass through the mountains, which by the Rio Grande Route is the entrance to the "promised land," and this so recently a trackless waste but now a land of beauty and plenty, rich in all the luxuries that modern art, genius and industry, liberally endowed by Nature with all the elements of a fruitful soil, is able to evolve. "Mine host," The Utah Press association, did itself proud. At its headquarters we found Secretary A. R. Tomson, with an able committee, ever ready to minister to the comfort and pleasure of their visitors; in fact, Secretary Tompson seemed omnipresent, always alert, energetic and indefatigable, he set a pace which a few of his fellows (twice) would do well to imitate.

What between unbounded hospitality, addresses of welcome, the freedom of the city, free rides on transportation lines, grand banquet and ball at the famous Saltair beach, bathing at the numerous resorts, echoes in the great Tabernacle with the 400-toiler choir and pipe organ, two famous military bands, free excursions to Ogden and Park City, a descent of 1,000 feet into the depths of the earth at the great silver and gold mines at the latter place, and the elegant dinner provided by the mine owners, is it any wonder that we are constrained to sing the praises of Utah, its great city and genetrion, hospitable people especially its editors, who are the "salt of the earth" in that great progressive commonwealth!

The Utah Press association has done a vast amount of good for its members by entertaining the editors of the western states. It has enabled many such to see and comprehend the fair Utah and its people have been misunderstood and misrepresented, and will extend and encourage a sentiment of fellowship which will heartily welcome the new state as a member of the great union.

At the Editorial Convention at Salt Lake last week an organization of Western editors was projected, which on invitation of the mayor of Denver will meet in that city one year hence. The editors of Colorado and the people of Denver will now have an opportunity to measure swords with Utah in the matter of entertaining. They will shine if they feel equal.

Hon. Geo. Q. Cannon, in his address as chairman of the opening session of the convention of western editors at Salt Lake, made the interesting announcement that the fine grain grown by the Canadian race on the American continent by irrigation was grown within 100 yards of the great Theatre in which the convention was assembled, in the year 1847. This fact is notable when considering the vast extent to which irrigation has obtained in the intervening years.

Saltair Closing Postponed.

The closing day at Saltair has been postponed indefinitely, on account of the impending storm.

Police Court.

In the police court this morning a small batch of offenders were arraigned before his honor, Justice Smith. Some of the cases were carried over till the afternoon, while the following were disposed of:

John Jones violated the bicycle ordinance and was assessed the usual amount, $2.

John Anderson got too much tanglefoot yesterday, and notwithstanding his plea of not guilty, he was given $5 or five days. He took the latter.

W. P. King, a U. S. soldier who was arrested for drunkenness, was allowed to go on his own recognizance, until 2 p.m. tomorrow, pay day, when he will be able to pay his fine which will be assessed against him.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of three boys named Ed Perry, Wm. Seaborn and Pat Perry, who reside on Post street, and have been making things uncomfortable for A. F. Denney, by pilfering his garden of watermelons.

CHARGES AGAINST DONOVAN.

Will Be Made Public at the Meeting of the Fire and Police Board, This Evening.

The charges which have been preferred against Captain Donovan by Chief of Police Pratt, the substance of which was given in last Tuesday's NEWS, will be made public at the meeting of the fire and police board this evening. Mayor Baskin and Captain Donovan held a consultation this morning, but they prefer to remain silent on the subject and let matters take the proper course. The following statement, however, is explanatory, and is given to the public:

For five years I have been a servant of the people and in every position I have held in the police department I have always stood to do my duty. How well I have succeeded my record will show. At the present time charges have been filed against me by the chief of police and in due time they will be ventilated before the police and fire commission. Until that time I ask a suspension of judgment. When all the facts are properly placed before the public, I assure my friends that there will be no odium attached to me or my acts of mine.

JOHN J. DONOVAN,
Captain of Police.

Taylorsville Diphtheria.

Mr. John B. Bringhurst called at the NEWS Saturday and stated that the report in last Tuesday's daily, regarding diphtheria in South Taylorsville, was somewhat overdrawn, as there has only been one family afflicted with the dreadful disease. The sickness was in his brother's family, Louis Bringhurst, who is now on a mission to England, one of his children having died, but all the rest of the children are now well. The first information was given by an immediate neighbor of Mr. Bringhurst's, and in justice to all concerned this statement is made.
