This Means Business.

On the principal line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway passenger trains are electric lighted, steam heated and protected by block signals. With these modern appliances, railway traveling at high speeds has reached a degree of safety heretofore unknown and not attainable on roads where they are not in use. Electric lights and steam heat make it possible to dispense with the oil lamp and the car stove. Block signals have reduced the chances for collisions to a minimum by maintaining an absolute interval of space between trains. For safety, convenience, quick time and close connections at Chicago for all points east there are none better. For maps, time tables, etc., call on or address L. L. Dowling, City Agent, 212 South West Temple street, Salt Lake City.

THE "HALL OF RELICS."

To the Editor:

The transient repository for the heirlooms and relics of the Pioneers is now being dismantled of its decorations. The mammoth "edifice" have sold and moved, the main has gone from above the grass-of-Parnassus, and it is said that the fine reproduction of Dalton's famous statue of "the Signal of Peace" is to grace the interior of the city and county building, where for a few decades it may shame the student of Indian character, until some other artistic creation may secure a more worthy prominence.

It seems a pity that the city is not in a position to remove and protect this structure to Liberty Park, which should be the gathering place for all our schools, high, normal or Sabbath, as the case might be. There is need for a building in the park for the exercises usual at all such times, and to have passed the one there under proper care and with some improvements (it being already a rendezvous and a relic might have remained for a generation or two. Public opinion would have favored it, and a property presented, perhaps, might perchance have secured it from the commission at a nominal figure. But, alas, what is everybody's business is nobody's, and the graceful ere as some say, decay. Heavy fabric will speedily be no more.

Still more fatal is the distribution now begun from the "Hall of Relics." There seems to be a lack of public method of permanent retention by the state. The Historical society, or one of the museums might have been devised by which the utensils and relics of the Pioneers could have been kept intact as a memento of the public appreciation of that band of nearly ten thousand. Of course, we may see not more or less indulged. With some suitable locality, it is believed that the collection could have been, not only kept, but very much enlarged, and more than that have yielded revenue enough for its maintenance and extension. The Brigham Young Lion House could be made into an admirable central repository for that purpose, and some combinations might be suggested that would convert that historic building into an educational center for "all ages and sexes" and for strangers and tourists as well as for the people of this city and State. But organized society is poor; individuals are poor, and "when everybody feels poor they are poor indeed." In the years gone by we "attempted great things," we "expected great things." If our souls have shrivelled from two or three years' discussion, what kind of souls must our Pioneers have here for their prosperity and hopes in spite of persecution and travail are unveiled as yet be their for more thrifty and able coreligionists, or perchance the current has become turbid and overflows in other channels.

A trace to moralizing and back to the situation. It is evidently the intent of the commission, as it was their mission, to deliver all things committed to their care at the place from whence they came; but it is seen that those 19 tons are moving their own on presentation of their receipts to those in charge. A very few days and the dream of permanent as well as the reality of the past and present will all have vanished save as a memory or as handed down to the 21st century by the skill of the photographer and the page of history "rive let" Jubilee, and its wonderful adjuncts, the notable, if vanishing, "Hall of Relics!" H.
