AT MINNEAPOLIS.

The Convention Hall—Campaign Poetry.—Platt's Figures.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 5.—The adornment of Convention Hall was completed today. The decorations do their perfect ensemble display all the graces of Worth. They are in a green clearcoin, but are dignified and inspiring. The dome of the hall is supported by a series of columns around which have been gathered chemisike colored drapery interwoven with shafts of Minnesota wheat. A quadrilateral is which the delegates will sit is immediately in front of the chairman's platform, between the contrabassoons on either side has been fashioned with the national colors. The folds of the flags are divided and hold in the talons of an American eagle in the rear of the platform. The side decoration panels and on either side the columns have been surrounded with old gold displaying sheaves of wheat on which is perched an eagle supporting on the eve of flight.

Suspended from pillars over seats assigned to the delegates are shields and tablets at Stiles. As the visitor mah faces the auditorium the arms of the state of New York will be on the right and brought to the Empire State is Pennsylvania's motto. Then follows in the left the arms of Vermont, Alabama, South Dakota, Missouri, Massachusetts, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, California, Virginia, Maryland, Georgia, Maine, Indiana and Ohio. In the rear of the above the arms of the other states are exhibited.

The designs at large, the national committeemen and alternates will be readily recognizable. Arrangement of seats assigned to speakers surpass those of any other convention hall.

The Texas enthusiastic delegation arrived this afternoon. They were stalwart Blaine men from Pennsylvania. The citizens of Minneapolis were not slow in inverting the political complexion of the delegation as they heard the original refrain from enthusiastic Blaine men in the party beginning:

> We are for the man from Maine,
> Hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!
> We are for the man from Maine,
> Pennsylvania is here to stay,
> And we are a united Republican party;
> Come vote for second place,
> Don't say no to the first place,
> Won't you make a candidate
> For the vice-president chair.

The singing of the verses as they marched to the hotel attracted large throngs, which were amused and amused.

At large number of delegates arrived during the day from all parts of the Union. One train brought the Indiana, Alabama and Louisiana delegations, the first always bearing in strong letters the legend: "Harrison, not Indiana sold for Harrison." They were met at the St. Paul depot by representatives of the Minneapolis Harrison Club in full marching regalia, and escorted with a brass band to Minneapolis.

In the matter of the sentiment of State delegations are many conflicting opinions. Michigan people are undecided as to whether Alger will come to the front in the convention. As to Ohio Parker only claims a bare majority of the delegation for Blaine. It is asserted on the other side that Blaine will have not an unbroken vote in the Ohio delegation. According to the figures of ex-Senator Platt, New York has fifty-six delegates for Blaine. The Harrison men claim a majority of the delegation. The poll of the Iowa delegation shows all but three for Harrison. One of the great crowds of the day was the arrival of the Columbia Club of Indianapolis. They came up the streets with bands playing and jaunty confidence that was better than bands of music. The Harrison boys were already on the ground. They marched into the rotunda of the West Hotel and took possession of everything in sight. The lurching march to the hotel was started by the Columbians for Harrison and the Blaine men continued it throughout the afternoon.

WORKING ON SUNDAY.

The sanctity of the American Sabbath was secured to no man today. In the whirlpool of political affairs men forgot Christian faith and remembered only political creed; forgot the Savior and worshipped at the shrine of political idols, and while in sisters of neighboring churches are leading in prayer the corridors of hotels are filled with a seething mass of excited humanity shouting and counter cheering for Harrison and Blaine.

The excitement continued all day and political enthusiasm hourly increased. It has been a day of political kaleidoscopic changes and it is difficult indeed to m[illegible] the true political sentiment of [illegible] two great factions into which the party is divided. The full force of sentiment in connection with Blaine's resignation has been expended and to a close observer it is apparent that Harrison forces are as strong as they were twenty-four hours ago. The Blaine people say when the decisive battle comes Blaine enthusiasm will carry the day, thing before it and nominate the distinguished son of Maine on the first ballot.

Men who have attended all the Republican conventions of the last twenty years and have observed the political atmosphere and became political pilots, say tonight that the convention of 1892 is unique in the contemporary which it presents between the claims of contending candidates. The Harrison managers officially announced tonight that the President would receive 161 votes, while the Blaine leaders maintain with lofty confidence that their candidate will receive three-fifths of the votes of the convention and be nominated by acclamation.

To the casual observer it is plain that a bitter feeling is being engendered every hour between the Blaine and Harrison in the field the results of the convention will leave behind it regrets, disappointments and healthy heard for unsuccessful candidates. The feeling gives rise to rumors of cash losses and compromises candidates, and the same most frequently mentioned among the list of cash losses is Mr. Kinley. The special interest in newsmost which will be given the stockjobbers will make the author a peculiarly fitting candidate. Algier's name is still the watchword of the Michigan delegation, and will certainly be presented to the convention. Certain Iowa democrats are looking longingly for an occasion which will justify the presentation of the name of Senator Allison. Senator Allison, Senator Cullom, of Illinois, Senator Sawyer, of Wisconsin, and Whitelaw Reid, of New York, are also freely discussed.

The California train reached the city at 6 o'clock and was met by the Flambeau Club. They marched headquarters waving red, white and blue pennons and arousing enthusiasm along the route. Chairman Spooner of the delegation said it was about equally divided between Blaine and Harrison. The Massachusetts delegation arrived today, and it was said that they started from home for Blaine and when they arrived here as a result of the latter's resignation, from eighteen to twenty are now for Harrison.

A PICTURESQUE SIGHT.

The meeting of Chauncey M. Depew and Benjamin Blaine today on the field of battle was a picturesque sight. It occurred in the dining room of the West Hotel and was witnessed by hundreds of new distinguished people. Depew could scarcely have been more embarrassed if some sensational movie really had been made. The Indiana statesman rather actually encountered and redoubled as he warmly extended his hand to young Blaine and inquired for the welfare of Blaine, who, it is said, has improved greatly to enjoy the discomfiture of great railway magnate. After passing a few heavy and irreverent compliments Depew shook his hand and dropped into a vacant chair beside Muret Halstead and out of sight of the hundreds of curious eyes leveled from all parts of the room.

Ex-Attorney-General Mitchener of Indiana says the reaction today has been distinctly

IN FAVOR OF THE PRESIDENT.

He says he can name four men from Ohio State who were Blaine men that share the latter's resignation have been brought to support Harrison. This is only one incident of the many similar changes constituting the almost general movement.

BLAINE AND HARRISON HERE.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Mr. Blaine spent the day quietly at home and received a few calls from personal friends, but administrator was relieved to all others. Efforts to interview him were equally unsuccessful. Hidden Lodge, however, sent the Associated Press a telegraphic dispatch of the reported interview with him and Mrs. Blaine sent out by the United Press last night, saying: "There is not the slightest foundation to truth. It is a forgery from the first word to the last. I wonder why these false and similar false lands may be expected."

President Harrison attended divine service this morning and spent the remainder of the day with Mr. Harrison, who is still unable to leave her room. Senator Sherman tonight said he assumed that the President would be renominated, notwithstanding the resignation of Blaine, and he hopes that will be the decision of the convention.

A STORY CIRCULATED.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 5.—Ex-Senator Warner Miller of New York made a statement at midnight declaring that a large majority of the New York delegation was suddenly in favor of Blaine and said he would support him. This is the first official announcement of Miller's active campaign, and is regarded of great significance and likely to influence the action of the convention. It is said that it gives Blaine 40 votes from New York, leaving not more than 20 for Harrison. Mr. Mitchener of Indiana said tonight that Chauncey M. Depew would present the President's name to the convention. At the Blaine headquarters it is stated that no one has been selected to present Blaine's name and it is not know whether he will be formally placed in nomination or not. The Texas delegation which has been for Harrison has split up and 18 have gone for Blaine. The New Jersey delegation got in this morning and is said to be in the line for Harrison. A story was in circulation at the Harrison headquarters to the effect that Blaine would withdraw from the race tomorrow, but it is pronounced a canard by Blaine's friends. The South Dakota delegation got in today. It stands four for Blaine and two for Harrison, because Pettigrew hopes to swing them in solid for Blaine.

The New York delegation held a caucus this afternoon, the most notable outgrowth of which is the talk as to the organization of the general caucus before the convention. The talk is that the chairman of each delegation shall meet and agree upon it. The Indiana delegation also held a caucus, and General Lew Wallace's delegation decided to stand by Harrison to the end. A telegram was received from Alger tonight, in which he stated that he did not desire to be considered antagonistic to the candidacy of Blaine.
