EDITORIAL NOTES.

The crops in Morocco have been a total failure, and thousands of human beings, as well as herds of cattle are in a famishing condition. Relief is being afforded by the English residents at Mogador, but the deaths from starvation average from 40 to 50 a day.

Scribner's Monthly for November will contain the opening chapters of "Haworth," a new serial, by Mrs. Francis H. Burnett, author of "That Lass O' Lowrie's." This lady has achieved a splendid literary reputation, and her works are true pictures of life, wrought in natural tints, and full of power and pathos. The new volume of Scribner promises to be even better than its predecessors.

The Pacific Christian Messenger having been called a "liberal" paper, thus repudiates the charge: "We make no claims to being liberal. Truth is never liberal, but exclusive. Christ and his apostles were not liberal, but denounced in the strongest terms those who failed to accept their teachings, and have taught to Christians, who should follow after the same lesson. In religion, as a rule, the more of error any people embrace the more liberal they become, down to those who wholly discredit the Bible, who style themselves pre-eminently 'liberals.'" All of which is as true at the everlasting Gospel.

On the 12th inst., Bill Longley, the most notorious desperado in desperate Texas, was executed for the murder of a man named Anderson. Longley was the reputed slayer of no less than thirty-two persons. His first feat was to shoot a negro in the head at one hundred yards distance. This crime being allowed to go unpunished, encouraged the young murderer to proceed in his lawless career. He was only twenty-seven years old when he suffered the extreme penalty of the law, and is described as tall and graceful, with a handsome face, a mild and pleasant eye, and a sweet and gentle voice. He made a speech on the gallows, and warned the young against following in his path. It is a strong comment on the laxity of the law that such a career as Longley's was permitted to run to such an extreme and terrible length.

A substitute for white lead as the "body" of paints has been discovered. It is obtained by precipitating zinc chloride or sulphate by means of a soluble sulphide. Sodic, baric and calcic sulphides have all been used for the purpose, but special precautions are taken to prevent the precipitation along with the white sulphide of any iron that may be present in the chloride of zinc [illegible]. The precipitate of white sulphide is collected, dried, and transferred [illegible] to a furnace, where it is calcined, [illegible] being carefully stirred to bring all parts into contact with the air. While still hot it is raked into vat[illegible] of cold water, where it is levigated [illegible], and is then subsequently dried [illegible] the product being a white pig[illegible]ment of great beauty, which is [illegible] proof against the action of sulphu[illegible]ted hydrogen. Anything that [illegible] will answer the purpose of white [illegible] lead, without its danger to health, w[illegible] will be a great boon to the painting fra[illegible]ternity.

CIPHERGRAMS AND CORRUPTION.

The telegraph has had a g[illegible] great deal to say lately about certa[illegible] in cipher dispatches, said to have been forwarded from New York [illegible] to the Democratic managers in [illegible] Oregon, Florida, Louisiana and South Carolina, during the last Presidential election. A few explanat[illegible]ions may seem to make this matter clear to those who have not investigated it.

A cipher dispatch is a message framed in such a manner that it can only be read by those who have the key to it. This ensures secrecy. The characters, figures or words used in this sort of secret correspondence are called ciphers. It has been used in national diplomatic communications for many years, and, since the utilization of the electric telegraph, in commercial, sporting and other dispatches.

The New York Tribune has made quite a point in its alleged discovery of keys to cipher dispatches said to have been forwarded with a view to securing the Presidency for Samuel J. Tilden, by purchasing electors and corrupting Returning Boards. The captured correspondence aggregates nearly four hundred dispatches, and great labor must have been bestowed upon them before the keys were discovered, as they were in different kinds of ciphers and the rule for some would not apply to others. A portion of them, when deciphered, contained mystic words which required re-interpretation. But the Tribune furnishes the keys by which the different classes of ciphers can be read by any one who reads the dispatches.

Those Oregon dispatches were framed according to what is called the "Dictionary Cipher." A certain dictionary is agreed upon. The first word of the message is found in the dictionary, then a certain number of pages agreed upon is turned back, and the word in a corresponding position is the one selected, and so on to the end of the message. This was partly used in the Florida and South Carolina dispatches, but much more intricate ciphergrams were afterwards adopted. Some of the ciphers were for messages of ten words only, others for those of fifteen, and so on. But it was found that the number of words in each transposition was a multiple of five. Some of the dispatches reached up to fifty words, but they all proceeded by fives, and this gave one clue to the unraveling of the riddles. Here is another:

"Warsaw" and "Warsawed" occurred so often that it was assumed to mean "telegraph," "telegram," "telegraphed," etc., and this guess proved correct, and was the first discovery of any of the "blind" words. The words of a dispatch were then arranged according to a given numerical order, as 9, 3, 6, 1, 10, 5, 2, 7, 4, 8. With this arrangement, read this dispatch, reading the ninth word first, the third second, and so on:

"Columbia, November 14, 1876.

"To Henry Havemeyer, New York: Warsaw they read all unchanged last are idiots can't situation. W.

"The answer is clear—"Can't 3 6 1 10
read last telegram. Situation
5 2 7 4 8
unchanged. They are all idiots."

It would be impossible in our limited space to show the whole process by which the Tribune's cryptogamers and students of hieroglyphics proceeded in their work of translation. Suffice it to say, they succeeded in giving to the public, in plain English, the secrets of the cipher dispatches. Here are a few of those dispatches and the translation:

"Sixteen fetch may make thirteen forty of half twelve eleven ten. Can you say two in nine immediately if twenty."

[Translation.]

"Board decision may make necessary expense of half of a hundred thousand dollars. Can you say will deposit in bank immediately if agreed."

[TRANSLATION]

New York, December 1.

C. W. Woolley, Tallahassee, Florida: Telegram received. Will deposit dollars agreed; (you) cannot, however, draw before vote member received.

This exposure was evidently made with the intention of creating such a public feeling against Tilden and his immediate advisers and supporters, as would prevent his nomination for the presidency at the next election. Mr. Tilden, as our readers have seen by the telegrams, has made an unqualified denial of any complicity in the proceedings set forth in the translated ciphergrams. So has Manton Marble and Mr. Havemeyer. How much credence will be given to their defence it is impossible to say, and it is difficult to determine whether these alleged exposures of attempted fraud by the Democrats, will have a very damaging effect upon the public, now so accustomed to the sight and sound of political corruption, in view of the demonstrated actual frauds in the South, by the Republicans. It looks like a repetition of "the kettle calling the pot smutty."

It is a lamentable condition of public affairs. But Democrats against Republicans or Republicans against Democrats, that demoralizing policy, "the end justifies the means," seems to be the motive power in politics. And the corruption spreads, reaching to the highest and descending to the lowest circles of society, until the whole body politic is poisoned, and nothing but the power of God can cleanse and save the nation.

Those Ciphers

NEW YORK, 21.—The Tribune's editorial says: For Tilden to ignore these damning disclosures, and still pretend to believe that he has been defrauded by a corrupt canvassing board, is an exhibition of impudence which the people can hardly contemplate without irritation. The time has passed for keeping up appearances. The shameful truth is now exposed to the whole world. Tilden is not to imagine that he can hide it by simply turning his back upon it. He is not to flatter himself that having tossed the scandal aside with a careless remark that he knows nothing about it. He may go on as before, scolding the republicans, on the bold assumption that they committed the very crimes which are traced to his own house.

A Russian Steamer Examined by a British Admiral.

A Times Philadelphia special says: A person was recently admitted on board the Russian steamer Europe, formerly the State of California. He was examining everything minutely, and after he had concluded his investigation on deck, he went below and inspected the armament and quarters of the officers. While engaged in this business, one of the officers, who had been on the Cambria in Southwest Harbor, and who saw the British Admiral there, recognized that officer. There was a hurried consultation, and Cramp was sent for. William Cramp appeared, and he also recognized Admiral Gore Jones. He was asked for his permit, and when it was shown, it was at once declared to be a forgery, and the Admiral was politely requested to leave the ship and the yard. He did so amid the jeers of the Russian officers.

Heavy Failure.

GREENFIELD, Ohio, 20.—The failure of Stagle Bros. is announced. They owned the largest farm in Fayette County; liabilities $120,000, assets about 10 per cent.

Wreck of a Schooner.

BOSTON, 21.—The schooner Mosselea, from St. John, N. B., for New York, became a total wreck in the gale of October 12th. During the night the seamen and steward were washed overboard; the captain, mate, and remaining seamen, lashed themselves to the mizzen chains, and after drifting four days without food or water, were picked up.

Pestilence Report.

NEW ORLEANS, 21. — Weather clear and warm. Deaths, 44; cases reported, 31.

Cairo, Illinois, 21. — Two deaths from yellow fever, last night. No new cases.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Afghanistan Difficulty.

LONDON, 21.—A special from Darjeeling says: It is reported, with considerable show of probability, that the Ameer of Afghanistan is strenuously endeavoring to effect a compromise. According to the reports of the natives, he is even perfectly ready to meet the viceroy at Peshwar. This disposition, however, is attributed to a desire to gain time. Government can afford to negotiate, as there is little doubt that all idea of a winter campaign has been abandoned; but only an unqualified and immediate submission will prevent a war, and it is almost hopeless to expect the Ameer to yield to the requirements of the government, one of which is that the command on the most important strategic routes shall be placed in its hand. The Afghans at Ali Musjid are now estimated to number 25,000.

Armed Insurgents.

A telegram from Agram states that armed insurgents are re-assembling in the mountains of Turkish Croastia and a fresh rising is expected.

More Failures.

Lacour & Watson, shiping agents of Glasgow and Leith, have failed. Their liabilities are believed to be large.

Alexander Bell & Sons, merchants in the Spanish trade, have failed.

James Morton & Co., one of the firms largely indebted to the City of Glasgow Bank, have placed their books in the hands of accountants. Their liabilities are estimated from two to two and a half million pounds.

Bullion in Bank

The amount of bullion gone into the Bank of England on balance, to-day, is £275,000.

The Arrested Officers of the City of Glasgow Bank.

GLASGOW, 20.—The directors of the City of Glasgow Bank, arrested on a charge of fraud, were remanded till to-morrow. Of the directors, W. E. Taylor is ex-town collector of Glasgow, member of the school board and partner in a large grain-dealing firm in the West of Scotland. Inglis is a landed proprietor in East Scotland. Louis Potter is a member of a large shipping firm in Glasgow. Wright is a member of an East India firm in London and Glasgow. Robt. Salmond was manager of the City of Glasgow Bank when it stopped in 1857. Stewart, is an Edinburgh merchant. The arrests created a great sensation, but meet with general approval.

SUNDAY SCHOOL JUBILEE AT TOOELE.

On Saturday and Sunday last, 19th and 20th instant, a very interesting and profitable Stake Jubilee was held in Tooele City meeting house, where the superintendents, teachers and many of the children from Grantsville, Lakeview, E. T. City, and St. John's, etc., assembled with the Tooele Sunday School.

The morning and afternoon sessions were occupied by the children in the usual exercises on such occasions, consisting of songs, recitations, choir singing, and chanting of the Articles of Faith and Restoration of the Gospel; with organ and instrumental accompaniments by Professor Boyden and able assistants, with a choir of young ladies, whose melodious voices infused a thrill of delight.

Short addresses, on familiar and reformatory subjects, were interspersed by Assistant General Superintendent G. Goddard and Superintendent Wm. Willes, who attended in their official capacity as the representatives of the Deseret Sunday School Union.

Stake President, F. M. Lyman, and Counselor Ure, with Bishops Tuttle, Martin, and Burrage (as well as Bishop Thompson of Scipio, Millard County) were in attendance. Superintendent George Adams, conducted the proceedings in his usual urbane manner.

On Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, the Tooele Sunday school convened and went through a very pleasing programme, in which young and old bore a part. Our spirited young brother, Henry Haines, delivered a recitation depicting the evils of intemperance.

The remainder of the day was occupied in holding meetings in the afternoon and evening, in which the brethren above named and Patriarch Rowberry and Elder Mickelejohn took part, concluding by feeling remarks from Bishop Thompson and President Lyman. It was a time long to be remembered by all present.

Professor Cox favored us with a cornet solo, and the presence and sweet strains of the Tooele Brass Band.
