Spokane, Wash., is fast losing her population since the loss of the Northern Pacific earnings and division headquarters. Before the fire Spokane had a population of 25,000, with 5,000 voters. It is doubtful whether the population for the next city election will show more than 10 voters.

The report that Judge A. C. Baker, of Florida, Arizona, had risen near Pima Indians six by twenty miles in of the United States has proved erroneous. The error was caused by confusion of the instruction preferred by the defendant's counsel with instructions to the jury really given by the judge.

Three cases of salmon eggs were recently shipped from the United States Fishery at Baird, Cal., one case, containing 50,000 eggs was consigned to Ireland. The second, containing 25,000 eggs, was consigned to Germany, and the third case, containing 10,000 eggs, was sent to the Industrial Exposition at Atlanta, Ga.

At Globe, Arizona, a few nights ago, William Gill and a man named McIntosh had a row over a woman in Gill's saloon. The saloonkeeper shot McIntosh, killing him instantly. About half an hour before this, at a brewery near by, John Quadre shot and killed William Gasser, fired three shots at the sheriff who tried to arrest him and escaped.

Mayor Carlson of San Diego passed through Los Angeles, Cal., Friday, en route to that city from the East. While in the East he had a talk with Huntington. He promises a railroad connection in a few days, and intimates that the Southern Pacific is about to build into San Diego, and that a new line from that city to Salt Lake City is on the tapis.

Mrs. Anna Stack, of Oakland, Cal., began suit against her husband on Christmas last, for divorce, on the ground of cruelty. The night before, she said, he had come home in a bad humor and thrown the dinner out of doors, and locked his wife and daughter up in a room. This was more than she could stand, and the next morning, after her husband had left, she packed her things and left also.

Louis Rosenthal, of San Francisco, is under arrest on a charge of cruelty to children. His wife died a short time ago, leaving him five minor children, the oldest 13 and the youngest three years of age, to care for. Instead of caring for them he has been forcing them to beg on the streets for money with which to buy liquor for their father. The officers found the children huddled together in a small room all ragged and filthy and crying piteously for food. Rosenthal expressed no sorrow for his children, and said he did not care whether or not they had enough to eat. The children have been cared for by the proper authorities.

Friday as Fred and Bert Young were on their way to the Haggin ranch, near Sacramento, Cal., their attention was raised to the cries of a child in the willows southward of the city. Fast dismounted and going into the brush found a little child, apparently about three weeks old. It was so covered upon its head and very little clothing, but it had a good pair of lungs and was using them. About 200 yards from a house the babe was found, a woman was seen to emerge from the brush and hurry along the road towards the city. She was very young and comely, and wore a black dress, a brown-colored sacque and carried an umbrella. She was about 18 years of age. The child, which is a healthy girl, was taken to the foundlings' home. Officer Ash and a deputy sheriff went out and obtained all the evidence possible, and they say that the mother was abandoned her offspring, leaving it to die in the chilling rain will be arrested.

In several Western states there is a feeling of discouragement over the prospect of being cut down along the line recently mapped out by General Flagler, chief of the United States artillery, in a report received in this city yesterday. The report suggests that Congress expend far more for the state militia than it has yet done. General Flagler says that if new expenditures are not made their might be in case which authority for the Secretary thereof to replace the old arms of the militia with weapons of a serviceable type and uniform make and caliber.

Some states have requested that they be supplied with the new magazine rifle, but General Flagler shows that this would cost $5,000,000, and he says that while the new rifle is well suited for long range firing, it is not as well adapted as the Springfield for close ranges and hard service. The chief ordnance suggests with emphasis that he be allowed to credit the states with the actual value of nonserviceable, obsolete and worn-out stores turned in, issue Springfield rifles for old ones in use, and that the states be authorized to purchase from the United States arms and equipment of regulation type at cost prices.
