Missionary Union—The Woman's Missionary union will meet at the First Presbyterian church corner of South Temple and C streets, Thursday next. The morning session will convene at 10:30 and the afternoon session at 2 o'clock.

Sheep on the Move—Within the past 30 days, half a million sheep have passed over Twelfth South street, in transit from their summer to the winter ranges. All but 200,000 sheep have left the mountains. Not a few of those left have been caught in the snow.

Congregationalists Meet—The Utah Congregational association held a business meeting Friday evening at the Phillips Congregational church, with delegates from Provo, Coalville, Heber and Bountiful. Rev. Dr. A. K. Bush of Denver and Rev. H. H. Wykoff of San Francisco were also present.

Death of Martin Garvey—Martin Garvey, formerly a Z. C. M. I. employe died Friday afternoon, of heart failure, at 43 east Second South street. His landlady, Mrs. Casey, found the body two hours after death, and had the police remove it to O'Donnell's undertaking establishment. Gervey leaves a widow, and a boy working in Denver.

Hallowe'en Party—Over 60 members of the Sons and Daughters of Veterans enjoyed a Hallowe'en party Friday night, at the home of Misses Frank and Bessie Boyce, every body being done up in sheets and pillow cases. There was dancing, with spook games, and refreshments consisting of pumpkin pie, apples, gingerbread, and coffee. It was late before the young people were through with their fiesta.

Col. Young Leaves—Col. Willard Young has gone to Chicago where he will meet Mrs. Young on her return from New York. They will together proceed to Rochester, Minn. where at the hospital conducted by the famous Dr. Mayos, Mrs. Young will take a course of medical treatment. Her health has long been impaired and an operation may be necessary, not a dangerous one, but one that will involve her remaining in Rochester until about December 1.

Fake Oriental Rugs—Thomas H. Kullujian, an Armenian, lectured Friday afternoon before the Ladies' Literary club on the art of rug making, illustrating by showing rugs said to be 800 years old and almost priceless. He said oriental art finds its expression in rug making, and the weavers of the great rugs in history were equals with the great painters and poets. The lecturer said faking of rugs is profitable business, immense sums being paid for rugs worth about $10.

Committee Has Deficit—The committee which planned the erection of the platform for the living flag at South Temple and A streets is still lacking in funds with which to meet the bill for lumber and wages, amounting in all to $757.80. The contributions thus far have amounted to $584.50, leaving a balance of $393.10 to be met by the committee of three, if the public do not come to their rescue. Professor Welch is still hopeful that the money will eventually be subscribed.

The body was taken to the Riverside crematory by T. DeWitt Foster, editor of the Aberdeen, Ida., Gazette, his sister Mrs. C. E. Cope and Mr. Cope. They were met at Denver by Frank J. Cannon and F. P. Kellogg a former associate of the deceased, and escorted to the crematory. The funeral party have returned.

Appreciates the Optimist—A note from the president of a Mutual Improvement association to The News, says: "I desire to thank your paper for its nightly publication of the little department entitled 'The Optimist's Corner.' I would suggest that selections from these little paragraphs be made and read every Tuesday evening in the preliminary programs of Mutual Improvement associations everywhere. They are full of valuable hints both from the moral and physical standpoint."

Grading Trouble—Lorenzo E. Clark of 1460 Eleventh East street was appointed a committee of one, yesterday afternoon, by the residents of his neighborhood to call on the local papers and register a large and healthy protest against the further continuation of the street in that section in its present unsatisfactory condition. Mr. Clark says it is a common thing now for wagons to break their axles in crossing the roadway because of the height of the street car rails above the ground, and there is a desire more or less emphatic in that vicinity that something be done in the way of a remedy.

ARGUMENTS ON RAILROAD RATES

Members of Interstate Commerce Commission Listen to Concluding Reviews.

BOISE CITY REPRESENTED

Delegates From Commercial Club and Jobbers Association Hold Informal Meeting After Adjournment.

The further hearing of the arguments of the parties to the complaint in the matter of the petition for a reduction in rates from eastern points to Utah common points over the railroads centering in this state was continued Friday afternoon before the members of the commission sitting in this city.

At the conclusion of the remarks of Judge Dillard, E. N. Clark, general counsel of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad with headquarters at Denver, addressed the commissioners on behalf of that road. Mr. Clark entered at some length into a description of the kinds of traffic hauled by the Denver & Rio Grande, saying that the road had abandoned almost entirely the field of transcontinental traffic. He contended that the road should not be forced to abandon the traffic which is left to it, which would be the case if the rates to Utah were lowered. To abandon the Utah field would leave the road only its mining business.

CLARK'S DENIAL.

Mr. Clark entered a strong denial of the statement that the Denver & Rio Grande is deriving a large and constantly increasing revenue from its business, and quoted figures from railroad reports, etc., showing that for several years there had been a deficit in the operating department, after paying the dividends, this shortage being made up from other departments. He said that the road had made it possible for several western states to find a market for their natural resources which they otherwise would not have had, and now it seems that some of the states are not content with driving eastern producers out of their markets, but had come to the interstate commerce commission for new markets. He said that if railroads were given only sufficient on which to exist, they could not look after the development of other fields.

REVIEWS THE SITUATION.

S. H. Babcock, commissioner of traffic for the Salt Lake Commercial club traffic bureau, made the final address yesterday for the complainants. His talk was in the nature of a review of the conditions created by the exorbitant rates charged for freight. He said that the steel in the Judge building had cost $6,000 more for freight than if the building had been erected in San Francisco, and that the steel for the Newhouse buildings had cost $20,000 more for the item of freight alone. The item enters into the cost of doing business in Salt Lake, Mr. Babcock declared, because local business men must pay the interest on this extra cost in the shape of higher rents.

BOISE SENDS DELEGATES.

At the close of the argument Friday the commission and representatives of the Boise Commercial club and the Boise Jobbers association held an informal meeting. The commissioners informed the Boise people that it would not be necessary for them to bring a separate suit before the commission to receive whatever benefits the decision in the Salt Lake case might or might not give that city. If the rates were readjusted to Utah points by the commission, they would no doubt automatically apply to Idaho points.

The Boise clubs were represented by C. J. Northrop, Max Mayfield and W. M. Davidson, all of Boise.

FIRST HOME GAME OF THE SEASON

University of Utah Eleven Lines Up On Cummings Field Against Strong Soldier Team.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the University of Utah football team line up against the Fort Douglas soldiers for the first home game of this season. Since the Utah Aggie game four weeks ago the boys have been through a grueling contest in which they lost to the Colorado School of Mines last Saturday. This week has been spent in good hard practise, and the boys are all in good shape. The plays have all been gone over and perfected and as many chances for fumbling eliminated as possible. At first the university wanted to play Dad Cowill, last year's captain, who is now coaching the Salt Lake high team and making such an excellent showing. To this the soldiers agreed and said, "Play any one that the faculty will allow you to play." However, when the final arrangements came to be made they objected and said it wasn't fair. So the university, it seems, will have to keep idle out. He, along with Grant, the old star quarter, whom the faculty has kept out until this week, will probably be on the side line in case they are badly needed. Otherwise they probably will not be played at all.

WHAT MADDOCK SAYS

Coach Maddock said last night: "If the weather remains fine so that we have a dry fast field we will show them how lucky they were to get off with it to nothing last year, but with a heavy muddy field and they out weighing us as they do, it will be hard to say just what the score will be. So many of the younger boys have never been under fire before on a heavy field which means that many of our best plays will have to be discarded and we will have to try something new again."

When seen this morning Capt. O'eson said:

"The boys are all anxious to show the soldiers and also the public that they can really play ball, and that the reason they lost last Saturday was not because of poor team work or condition but a case of hard luck."

The team will line up as follows:

Subs—Walker, Grant, Conyill, Nielsen, Jensen, Carmichael and Peterson.
