Odd Teachers' Institute—Death of Homer W. Booth—Wright Must Pay for Sewing Machine.

In the second district court before Judge Hilton the following cases were heard:

In the matter of the estate of John Kimball, a petition on petition for sale of real estate. Court took the matter under advisement.

In Ellen Price vs. Percy. The defendant's case filed to expand, and counsel for the counter moves judgment for the plaintiff on a bond of arrears, as called upon to compute to plaintiff. Ruling in favor of the plaintiff. Ellen Price, the plaintiff, was granted in favor against the defendant, and $1 per month allowance for alimony from the date of the suit.

SUITS FOR SEWING MACHINE.

The matters in police court Judge Kennedy heard the cases of Mrs. E. G. Wright vs. W. F. Wright.

Mrs. Wright charged her husband with assaulting and threatening that he took a sewing machine belonging to her and sold it without her consent and pocketed the money. Mr. Wright admitted the charge, but said he had a grievance against his wife, and that he had taken the machine to apply on a judgment he held against her for rent. Mr. Wright was in the wrong, and somewhat anxious for exemplary time to give him a chance to make good his promise with his relatives, or go to jail.

A good German was also before his honor charged with beating $1, he was fined $5 or go to jail.

SOAP FACTORY PROSPEROUS.

The soap factory managers made the boiling lately today by paying out $75,000 for rents, which exceeded all expectations. The factory is doing excellent work this year and the best growers in the county are its patrons. It is now the most important factory in Weber county. Its $1000 every hundred years of rents will be distributed among the farmers who are growing or is to be growing a sufficient stock of sugar beets to make the factory a success.
