SUNDAY SERVICES.

Elders B. H. Roberts and Angus M. Cannon the Speakers at the Tabernacle Yesterday.

Religious services were held in the Tabernacle, Salt Lake City, Sunday, June 11th, 1892, commencing at 2 p.m., Elder Angus M. Cannon, president of the Stake, presiding.

The choir sang the hymn commencing:

Come, thou fount, thou God of peace,
Be with us and we shall be free.

Prayer was offered by Elder Wm. C. Dunbar.

The choir sang:

Be near us, great Redeemer, we
And hence employ us wholly.

The Presidency of the Nineteenth ward officiated in the administration of the Sacrament.

ELDER B. H. ROBERTS

was the first speaker. He observed that when Brother Dunbar commenced his prayer he felt as the blessing of the Lord upon his words and asked that the Holy Spirit might be poured out abundantly upon this congregation. It is were necessary, as it was, that the Spirit of the Lord should rest upon the one who prayed, how much more so was it that it should rest upon those who sought to enable them to say that which would be most and useful to everyone. Another important part of the prayer was the deep gratitude expressed for the comforts and blessings enjoyed by us as a people, and the few words which reminded us of our scattered condition among those nations of the earth who were living in spiritual darkness. But the Gospel had brought us out from those distant nations to the pleasant place we now inhabited. The speaker had thought frequently that the Latter-day saints did not, as they should, appreciate those material blessings which the Gospel of Jesus Christ had brought to them.

The speaker referred to the dedication of the temple, the blessings which were received by the people, and the promises made to them, and said it would be some years before the Latter-day Saints began to fully realize the blessings and favors of God manifested towards them. The fasting and prayer preceding the dedication had brought about a better union of the Priesthood of God than had ever existed. They had become sufficient in their hearts and forgave each other as they hoped God would forgive them. The Lord had assured us through His Prophet that for the future this union should not be destroyed and that His servants should not be broken up in their affections. We were also assured that Lorenzo Snow should be sustained, the Latter-day Saints rejoiced in this, but, said he, this is not the greatest blessings promised; for we are told that inasmuch as we repent and turn from our evil ways our sins shall be forgiven and remembered against us no more for ever.

ELDER ANGUS M. CANNON

was the next speaker. He said he had been asked regarding the privilege of one who had been a member of the Church but had not been baptized, yet had not been dealt with by the ward authorities. It was not the prerogative of the speaker to forbid the person who had been received to taking sacrament the privilege claimed, inasmuch as he possessed fellowship in the Church. The fact that he was not dealt with would be a reproach to those who failed to do their duty in taking action upon a man whose whole habit in life showed that he was unworthy of the blessings that had guaranteed to thus faithful. Said the speaker, "I now say to the officers who preside in the wards of this Stake, God will hold you accountable for the use you make of the Priesthood that he has conferred upon you, and the manner in which you fill the station that He has called you to."

Elder Cannon then exhorted the Saints to turn from every known wrong and realize the blessing promised by the Lord. They should enter into the Temple with clean hands and with pure hearts, devote themselves faithfully to laboring to redeem the dead, and to possess blessings that will enrich them and their children to the ages of God.

The choir sang the anthem, "Let Mountains Shout for Joy."

Benediction was offered by Elder Frederick Kesler.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Will the Sherman silver law be repealed at the extra session of Congress? President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle assert their belief that it will be, but it is noticeable that both of them are anxious to get the opinion of every senator and representative they meet, on the subject, from which it would appear that their confidence is based more largely upon the belief that the financial disorders throughout the country will create such a strong public sentiment against that law as to compel its repeal than upon pledges of individual statesmen and appeals neither to vote for its repeal. If everybody regarded, as they do, the Sherman law as the principal cause for the present financial stringency there would be good ground for their confidence, as no one would wish to retain a law upon the statute books that is only bringing ruin to hundreds. But this is not where the trouble comes in, everybody does not regard that law as the cause of all, or even a small portion of the trouble. Senator Manderson, of Nebraska, seems to be one of those who claim that it makes a legitimate basis of the Democratic law. He says of the greenbacks issued through "We are now frightened lest both of them be lost the foundation for an issue of a currency based upon the Sherman law cannot be repealed by the mere Congress without the free coinage of silver in some form or something similar. They may put more silver in a dollar, but I am certain that free coinage will be instead upon as a condition to the repeal of the Sherman law and that it will be impossible to repeal it unless that condition be agreed to."

It is generally stated that the appointment of Mr. H. C. Tell, of Texas, to take the place of ex-Senator Smith here, who resigned because he was asked to take the Utah commissioner, is the only change at present contemplated in the personnel of the commission, which now stands three Democrats and two Republicans. The failure to make an entire change, when, we asked him, is taken to mean that the Administration believes Utah will receive a state during the next session of Congress and the commission is no longer needed.

No better evidence of the fact that a change has been made in the policy of the Indian bureau could be given than the preparation now being made by the present attorneys who have made the largest business to review the number of their employes. It is too soon to say whether the change is good or bad, as whether under the new regime will speak for themselves in a few months. There will be the proper time to blame or to praise.

The Populists are greatly pinning to President Cleveland's announcement of his intention to call an extra session of Congress to deal with the financial situation, when he says it "has only menace to the majority who have not prosperity" as a vindication of the position they took in the last presidential campaign, that the only real issue before the country was involved in the money question. They say that the great campaign was won and not an new issue, both the Republicans and Democrats having practically ignored the question of finance, while the Populists made the cornerstone of their campaign. It does seem a little queer that Mr. Cleveland should have not even mentioned the tariff in saying what the extra session will be called upon to do.

Comptroller of Currency Kanis is getting out quarterly data about the members of the national banks. Every day or two he sends a new supplement on the public. His latest is that stockholders in the national banks that fail will be assessed, as soon as the estimation can be made up, assessed on their stock for the amount necessary to make good the losses of the bank, that is up to the larger sum which the law makes them liable for. Heretofore the assessment has been not to make these assessments until all the other debts had been paid, and if it has often been the case that stockholders had assessed of their property that the assessment could not be collected.

Henry Clay Smith, of Alabama, is the first negro to receive a Presidential appointment under this administration. Henry will be U. S. Consul at Madagascar. He wanted to be minister to Liberia, but when the other place was offered him he promptly accepted it.

The new extradition treaty with Russia goes into effect on the 24th of this month. Mr. Cleveland's proclamation to that effect having been issued this week. The treaty may be terminated by a six month's notice of either country at any time.
