Baron Reuter—The Rising Man—A Sketch of His Life.

Baron Reuter, who has taken the contract to run the Persian empire, has a nephew in Chicago named Emil Josephat, a banker. He has been interviewed by the irrepressible Times reporter, and this is the gist of the said interview:

Baron Reuter was born of Jewish parents in 1821, at Hesse Cassel, in Germany. His father was Rabbi Josephat, a poor but learned man. The Baron's name was Julius Josephat. He changed his name to Reuter, after an influential man who had befriended him, named Landrath Reuter. At the age of nineteen Reuter started out to seek his fortune. He became an apprentice at Danzig, was ill-used, ill-fed, and badly cared for. He then got a situation in a banking house in Gottingen, and while there made himself so intimate with financial matters that he improvised a plan for the improvement of the finances of the Russian Government, which he submitted to the Czar, with all the confidence of a youth less than twenty years of age. The Czar sent him $3,000 as a suitable acknowledgment of the value of his suggestions, though we are not informed that his plan was adopted by that government. A few years later he became a partner in a Berlin publishing house, and soon after met Miss Clemantine Magnu, the daughter of a banker, and one of the handsomest women in Berlin. They loved, and Reuter, changing his name and renouncing his Jewish religion, became a Christian and the husband of a charming woman. A desire to increase his income finally prompted Reuter to leave Berlin, and in 1848 he originated a plan for obtaining news in the least possible time for publication. In 1849 he went to Paris, and there tried to make his idea work practically. He commenced by using carrier pigeons between points where there was no telegraphic communication. He did not meet with immediate success. He had many difficulties to surmount, not the least of which was lack of the money necessary to establish agencies. He was so poor at this time that his landlord would not let him and his wife go out at the same time, because rent was due and he had no security except their persons. All this time the indefatigable Reuter supported an aged mother, who never knew the struggles of her son, but supposed that he was becoming rich.

In 1851, seeing his way clear in another scheme for successful news-gathering, he gave up his Paris business and went to London, where he engaged in what, he called the Reuter telegrams, and devoted himself to getting commercial quotations from all parts of Europe. He did fairly at this, and spread his agencies far and wide. For eight years he continued to confine himself to commercial matters. Then the idea suggested itself of enlarging his business, and taking in news of every description. This he did, and by the number of his agencies, the cables he laid, and his perfected means of communication of all kinds, he was enabled to get up a monopoly, almost, of news. The London Times was the only newspaper of any account in Europe, which did not put its name on his subscription list, and his name at the head of its columns. The great Thunderer held out against him until Reuter routed them, capital, prejudice, ignorance, stupidity, and all through his enterprise in securing for his papers, six hours before the governments of Europe were notified of it, the celebrated New Year's speech of Napoleon, which was the forerunner of the Italian war and a most important thing. After that he was a telegraph monarch, reigning without assistance, even the Times being compelled to fall into line.

His business became so prosperous that he sold out to a company in 1864 for the snugness of a million and a quarter, and then retained a directorship. In addition to this, when the English government took possession of the telegraph, in 1868, he had privileges for which he was paid about $1,200,000. He hastened the news before the American war, before there was any cable, by laying wires of his own from Cork to Coke Haven, and had small steamers running outside to meet the American vessels. In this way he was able to furnish the dispatches to the London evening papers so that their readers had them hours before the steamers reached the nearest English port. He thus announced the assassination of Lincoln long before the European government were notified of it. Reuter afterwards took an interest in the Franco-American cable, but for some reason abandoned it.

He was ambitious. Wealth and fame he had, but he wanted to extend both, and make the latter world-wide. He was created baron in 1870, and began to lay the foundation for his Persian scheme, which has just been consummated, and makes him absolutely the controller of the destinies of the Persian people—a man even greater than the Shah himself. This contractor extraordinary is a small man, perhaps five feet three in height, of slender build. He has rather sharp features, a blonde complexion, and wears Dundreary whiskers of a sandy hue. He looks very much like the conventional Englishman. He has had four children, one of whom is dead. The eldest daughter married a Hanover count in 1871. He is intensely nervous; he is always restless unless engaged in working out his big plans. In business he is energetic and quick. He is of a very sociable disposition, and his soirees are surpassed by none in London, where he has several palaces. He spends a good portion of the year at Brighton. He never lets an idea escape him. If it comes in the middle of the night he jumps up and works it out as far as he can. His success has not made him proud. Generosity is a distinctive feature of his character. He has done most handsomely by his own and his wife's family, and has not forgotten any who befriended him in his boyhood's days. Verily Reuter is great and Persia is his profit.—Ex.

MRS. M. J. CLAY, The Famous EYE AND CANCER DOCTRESS, Who resides and has established her infirmary at the Old Fourteenth Ward Store, corner of the assembly rooms, would inform the public that she intends continuing in this location during the next six months, and relieve all who seek information regarding her skill, to the following affidavits.—

TERRITORY OF UTAH, County of Salt Lake } S.S. Mrs. Elizabeth H. Grundy, of Minersville, Beaver County, Utah, being sworn, says that prior to the 9th day of December, 1872, at which time she placed herself under the treatment of Mrs. M. J. Clay, Doctress, in the City of Salt Lake, she had been afflicted with a granulation of the eye-lids with films over the eye-balls to such an extent as to be unable to walk alone, read, or sew; that within seven weeks after the commencement of such treatment, her sight was restored, so as to enable her to both read and sew without trouble. E. H. GRUNDY. Subscribed and sworn before me, this 9th day of May, A. D., 1873. W. M. GILLESPIE, Notary Public, Salt Lake County, U.T.

TERRITORY OF UTAH, County of Salt Lake } S.S. Isaac N. Turnbaugh, of Bountiful, Davis County, Utah, being sworn, says, that for ten years, he has been afflicted with what is now called a spider cancer; on the thigh; that in the month of February, 1873, he placed himself under the treatment of Mrs. M. J. Clay, Doctress, in the City of Salt Lake, and that after her treatment of certain medicinal applications for the period of six weeks, a perfect cure was affected, the cancer and the roots thereof being completely removed, the cancer being nearly the size of a hen's egg at the time of its removal. ISAAC N. TURNBAUGH. Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 6th day of May, A.D., 1873. W. M. GILLESPIE, Notary Public, Salt Lake County, U.T.

TERRITORY OF UTAH, County of Salt Lake } S.S. Albine Bockstead being duly sworn, deposes and says: For the past seven years she has been afflicted with blindness, the cause of it being the granulation of the lids, and pearl films over the eyes, to such an extent as only to observe a very strong sunlight, without the ability to read or sew. That on the 10th day of December last, I placed myself under the treatment of Mrs. M. Clay, Eye Doctress, in the City of Salt Lake, and that under her treatment this deponent's sight was so fully restored on the twenty-fifth day of January following, that she has since been able to read common printed matter and do plain sewing. ALBINE BECKSTEAD. Subscribed and sworn to before me the 6th day of April, A.D., 1873. W. M. GILLESPIE, Notary Public, Salt Lake County, U.T.

TERRITORY OF UTAH, County of Salt Lake } S.S. Isaac Rogers, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he is a resident of Benjamin City, Utah County, said Territory, that he was blind for a period of one year, being afflicted with granulated eye lids and felon over the ball of the right eye, that he placed himself under the treatment of Mrs. M. J. Clay, eye doctress, in the City of Salt Lake, on the 21 day of January, last, and that within three months from that date he had entirely recovered his sight, so as to easily read common printed matter. ISAAC ROGERS. Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 14th day of April, A. D., 1873. W. M. GILLESPIE, Notary Public.
