OUR COUNTRY'S DEFENSES.

Re-arrangement of Military Posts Discussed by Gen. Otis.

Points No Longer of Any Advantage Should be Disposed of and Others Established.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—In his annual report, Brig. General Otis, commanding the department of the Columbia, has much to say about coast defenses and the retrenchment of posts. On the latter subject he says that neither Fort Stevens nor Fort Canby are properly located to meet the conditions of a hypothetical war, and after canvassing the merits and demerits of different localities he says that no point in that section offers the advantages of the city of Spokane, a central county. Gen. Otis calls attention to the fact that since 1881 the government has done very little looking to the protection of Puget Sound against foreign attack, so witnesses the great development of the country and the increase of population. He recommends that the eleven points of defense selected by the Gillespie board last summer be acquired and work under it duly entered on, and that positions heretofore withdrawn as not good be turned over to the ordnance department to dispositions. Fort Lewis is no longer of advantage and is to close an infantry garrison should be established at Seattle Harbor Beach, which would serve admirably for the protection of the country beyond the Cascades, where 100,000 people dwell, part of them settlers, demobilized and idlemen for the second proposition, should this project fail of approval, then, Gen. Otis recommends the abandonment of Fort Townsend and transfer of its garrison to Vancouver barracks. The Three Mile Point military reservation of 60 acres could with propriety be turned over to the interior department for disposition.

Gen. Otis describes in some detail the movements and operations of his command during the Chicago riots. He expressed satisfaction with the promptness and the military strike, saying a high commendation to the zeal, fidelity and good judgment displayed by the officers and men engaged in this disagreeable and severe service.

After telling what was done towards the removal of the Chicago party from the Cœur d'Alene country to Idaho, Gen. Otis says the experience showed without doubt that the Wallace district is not fitting for a military station, and that the troops should be withdrawn from the district and placed in some other locality, where they could be more easily supplied and more easily handled in case of need. He recommends that the Fort Sherman military reservation be turned over to the interior department for disposition.

Gen. Otis says that on the first time in the history of the department of the Columbia there is nothing to report on the subject of Indians. They have ceased to be disturbers, are peaceably inclined and taking to labor in earnest, and the government worship is being cultivated.

ZIMMERMAN'S PLAN.

The American Cyclist Will Spend Another Season in Europe.

PADUCAH, Italy, Oct. 22.—Zimmerman, the American cyclist, is signified his intention of devoting an idle season to racing in Europe and that he will leave New York early in the spring of 1895, and proceed direct to Paris.

The cycling enthusiasts are somewhat jubilant over the prospect of the American champion and the European are accompanying the same as Paris constitutes the European "home" of the Zimmerman racing this season, and they have begun already to make arrangements for the coming season.

The racing circuit in Italy comprises Bologna, Florence, Rome, Turin, Milan, Genoa and some smaller cities. Zimmerman has written to confirm the statements concerning his plans for next year, but it is known that he has not been averse to another year on the track, provided he could get back to racing again.

Wanamaker Nominated Parsons.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—O'Donovan Rossa has sent a letter to President Cleveland protesting against the action of Edward F. Uhl, assistant secretary of state, in refusing to have him a passport, although he has been asked here a number of years as commissioner by Judge Lawrence in the court of Common pleas, February 24, 1891.

Mr. Uhl says the statement was to the effect that the report were verifiers on the ground that the qualification of five years' continuous residence has not been complied with. Mr. Uhl accordingly, Mr. Rossa says, revoked his action in refusing a passport, which he had contracted to return, and compelled his county to this country from the sentiment of Europe.

Rossa going to Europe in May he applied for the passports in the regular manner, and did not discover they had been refused until his son was ready to ship on the return side of the water. In his complaint to President Cleveland he inquires whether Mr. Uhl is a Englishman, a Democrat or a member of the A. P. A. He gives an account of his application for his 5th passport, on his arrival in Queenstown in 1871, and says that on his return to America, Justice Lawrence issued the usual papers by virtue of the Constitutional power, which are:

For your consecutive residence he's signed for the man who has taken out his papers and leave the country with the intention of returning, but who is detained by a number that makes it impossible for him to return, and who desires to remain in his place. He is in view of the coming election, and says he cannot again apply for annual papers because the judge has returned the affidavit of residence, and refusing annual papers, he applications for a second time.

"GENERAL" BOOTH ARRIVES.

He Addresses a Large Audience in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The members of the Salvation army gathered in Union square this evening and after greeting the veteran "General" Booth received a couple in Madison hall, where hundreds of the day took place. An audience of 5,000 greeted "General" Booth. The boxes were filled with noticeable men and women who are interested in the military branch of the army.

Commander Booth led in prayer, and then Henry Bradley, of Mount Clair, N. J., read an address of welcome to General Booth. Commander Booth then presented his father the "general," a Salvation Army uniform and in the staff officers. General Booth is seen to have an extraordinary movement and a mighty applause swept over the house.

The "General" made a speech, in which he briefly told the history of the army.

"Why did I undertake this work?" he asked. "Because in one part of the east and of London the population has never been parts of a church. I drew the painful scenes from the streets and dilapidated around me and preached the gospel of Jesus to them. Hence then Christianity was by were of reproach on the high.

"People have questioned our mode of operation. We deny the soldiers and the business, but as yet the sin has justified the means.

"We have planted our banners on the walls of St. Petersburg and in Siberia India, and will pass our flags in every country of the earth. We pledge ourselves in time will establish an international headquarters in America."

Commander Booth then asked that Hallelujah be rounded. The banners were passed around, but the excited enjoyment was not quite patent.

HORSE WILL RUNNERS.

Relating to the Succession to the Russian Throne.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—In all the continental capitals and in London there have been streams of cabinet, officials, legislators, ecclesiastical and homicide people, in the Russian embassy. To-day, however, little information was obtained, and that little contained a little bulletin.

Prayer and masses are incessantly offered from St. Petersburg to Vladivostock, from Rome to Buenos Ayres. The wild rumors reported yesterday from St. Petersburg were repeated today in the Winter Palace. From Moscow comes a report that there are people there who insist the czarevitz has refused to marry the Princess, and that the czar in order to compel him to do so has entered his immediate marriage with the Princess Alix. The Moscovites say that should the rumors prove true they will have to face the greatest peril possible. While the people are anxious and ready to pay for the consolidation of the Russian empire, the fears that the result has been give fever to the petitions.

The Gaiger Gazette prints a St. Petersburg despatch stating the czar has given orders for a settlement of the succession to the imperial throne, and that he arrived the Grand Duke Georgi, his second son, should on account of his health, renounce his claim for the crown in Grand Duke Michael, who, it is said, has taken a oath as heir presumptive to the throne.

The Berlin Tageblatt publishes a telegram from London stating the betrothal of the Czarevitz and Princess Alix will formally occur tomorrow, and that the marriage will be celebrated Wednesday. This is thought by the evening is said to be due to the fate of the Romanoffs expecting any not apparent to marry before attending the throne, and to promote his coronation.

On this account the proclamation of Grand Duke Michael as the ultimate heir apparent is generally expected. Another rule in accordance with the succession requires that when the age of allegiance of a new czar is attained he is the name and officers, an oath of fidelity to the heir apparent must be taken at the same time.
