DURRANT MUST DIE.

Verdict of Guilty of the Murder of Blanche Lamont.

INTENSE EXCITEMENT IN COURT.

The Prisoner to be Tried Also for the Murder of Minnie Williams.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—Theodore Durrant, assistant superintendent of the Emanuel Baptist church Sunday school, was today convicted of the murder of Blanche Lamont, for which he has been on trial since July 22nd last. The jury was out twenty minutes and arrived at the verdict on the second ballot. As there was no recommendation of mercy, the punishment was fixed at death.

It was exactly twenty-one minutes from the time the jury left the courtroom to the time the verdict was announced, but that time was not all taken up in deliberation. In fact, there was no deliberation at all. The jury was in deliberation at all. The jury had evidently decided upon a verdict before they left the box. It was 2:34 when they filed out of the courtroom and 2:55 when the jury room, which had been placed at their disposal. It took the twelve men until 3:10 o'clock before they notified themselves comfortably, which did a knock on the door announced to the anxious waiters that a verdict had been found. It took just five minutes of actual time to elect a foreman and take the one ballot necessary.

The scene in the courtroom when the verdict was announced will never be forgotten by those who were present. Judge Murphy finished his charge at 2:32 and the jury at once retired. Although there was supposed to be little chance of a verdict being returned within 7 o'clock in the evening, the throng of spectators who had remained in the overcrowded courtroom in the afternoon to hear the judge's charge, settled themselves back in their seats to await her return of the jury.

Mr. Durrant and the prisoner talked and laughed together as if an acquittal was a foregone conclusion. They were joined by half a dozen friends and the conversation was becoming animated when it became whispered about that the jury had agreed upon a verdict.

In an instant a hush fell upon the thick circle that had gathered around the prisoner. Durrant's face—always pale—assumed a ghastly hue, and his lips quivered as he spoke to his counsel. Then the big doors at the rear of the room opened and the members of the jury filed in and took their seats in the box.

In the intense excitement that followed, the room, although it was filled to its utmost capacity, was almost as still as if it had been vacant. Judge Murphy, who had retired to his chambers, reassumed and took his place upon the bench. Clerk Morrie asked the usual question as to whether the jury had agreed upon a verdict. Foreman Warren Dutton arose and replied in the affirmative.

"We, the jury," said he, "find the defendant, William Henry Theodore Durrant, guilty of murder in the first degree."

As the aged foreman, pale and trembling, read the words that fixed Durrant's fate, a low rumbling noise like the rumbling of a mob came from the rear of the courtroom. The next moment men were cheering wildly, while women wept hysterically in excitement. The bailiff rapped loudly for order, but the tumult continued for a minute before it was stilled the quiet could be brought out of the disorder. Then District Attorney Barnes arose and asked that a day be set upon which the sentence of death should be passed upon the prisoner. Judge Murphy said that sentence would be passed next Friday, upon which day he would also set the day for the trial of Durrant on the charge of murdering Minnie Williams.

During the tumult that followed the announcement of the verdict, Durrant and his mother were lost sight of except by the few who sat nearest to them. As the last words of the verdict were uttered, Durrant made a spasmodic effort to arise to his feet, but before he could do so his mother, with a half sigh, half moan, threw her arms around his neck and sank back into her chair. His mother's grief seemed to make Durrant forget his own position, and for the next few minutes he sat with his arms around her neck, trying to soothe her. The long strain of the trial, however, had completely shattered her self-control and it was some time before Mrs. Durrant could leave the courtroom.

Durrant's father was not in the room when the verdict was returned. As soon as the jury retired he went out into the corridors, not believing that the jury would return for several hours, and he first learned that his son had been convicted when a cheer went up from the crowd in the building as the news spread.

Durrant recovered his old-time composure as soon as he left his mother and prepared to return to the county jail. With his overcoat swung carelessly over his arm, he walked leisurely out of the room, twirling his slight mustache with apparently as little concern as if he were merely a spectator, instead of the principal figure in the exciting scene.

TREMENDOUS MASSACRE.

Johnson Butchery Lasting for Five Hours.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The following statement is taken from private letters received by Agent Loman in this city in regard to the recent disturbances in Trebizond, Turkey.

"The excitement in Trebizond began about October 2nd, when an attempt was made on the life of the ex-vali of Van. He was shot and wounded by an Armenian revolutionist, who has not yet been captured, and is supposed by the government to be concealed somewhere in the city.

"Until Monday, October 7th, matters seemed to be quieting down, when an incident stirred up the excitement anew. On the previous Friday night the son of a leading Turk of the town was wounded on the street, some say by one of his own companions, others, that he was shot by an Armenian whom he was trying to arrest. On Monday he died and the funeral received the excitement in an intensified form, and loud and many were the threats of vengeance that night. Hundreds of the Armenians rushed to places of safety. The next morning, October 8th, all dispersed in the hope that the danger was passed. Men went to their shops and were encouraged to open them, as they had not done for two or three days previous.

"Suddenly, like a clap of thunder in a clear sky, the trouble began. Unsuspecting people walking along the streets were shot ruthlessly down. Men standing or sitting quietly at their shop doors were instantly dropped with a bullet through their heads or hearts. Their aim was deadly, and I have heard of no wounded men. Some were cashed with swords until life was extinct. They passed through the streets where only old men, women and children remained, killing the men and large boys, generally permitting the women and younger children to live.

"For five hours this horrid work of indiscriminate butchery went on, the cracking of musketry, sometimes like a volley from a platoon of soldiers, but more single shots from near and distant spots. The cracking in of doors and the thud of sword blows sounded on every side. Then the sound of musketry died away, and the work of looting began. Every shop of an Armenian in the market was gutted, and the victors in this cowardly and brutal way glutted themselves with the spoils. For hours bales or broadcloth, cotton goods and every conceivable kind of merchandise passed along without molestation to the homes of the spoilers.

"The intention was evidently to impoverish and as nearly as possible to blot out the Armenians of this town. So far as appearances went the police and soldiers distinctly aided in this savage work. Not one of the perpetrators of these outrages has been arrested or disarmed, but all have moved about with the utmost freedom to accomplish their nefarious purposes.

"On the other hand, many of the Armenians are in prison. While I write the wails of the newly bereaved fall on my ears. Some in suspense wait to know the fate of their missing ones; others rejoice at greeting their again. Throngs fill the consulates and foreign protections and the consulates. There is no telling how many have perished. Four hundred is a moderate estimate—probably that figure will rise much higher, and few for the massacre will sweep through the villages, remains to be seen."

LONDON, Nov. 1.—A dispatch from Constantinople to the Times which will be published tomorrow, says that, having put the Armenian question on the track of settlement, Kiamil Pasha has asked the sultan to relieve him of his grand viziership, which has exhausted him, and which demands the physical and mental energies of a younger man. The sultan, in reply, peremptorily declared that he could not dispense with his services.

The dispatch adds that official news has been received in Constantinople of fresh disturbances in Erzerouni, Orfah and Zeitun. Fifty persons have been killed and wounded at Erzerouni.

Jingoism Depreciated.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Post (Conservative), in an editorial congratulating President Cleveland upon perceiving the real drift of American opinion away from jingoism, expresses its thanks to Senator Lodge and Senator Chandler for being the involuntary instruments of silencing from the New York papers additional testimony, if any were wanted, to the truth of Ralph Waldo Emerson's words: "The rolling ocean which intervenes cannot affect the Briton in our blood."

In the above item, the Post refers to President Cleveland's telegram to ex-Congressman Tracy of Albany, approving the Democratic state platform adopted by the Syracuse convention, which contained a plank deprecating a public tendency to jingoism.

A Baroness Obtains Divorce.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Pall Mall Gazette's correspondent at Rome telegraphs that Baroness Grant Schorbarina obtained a divorce from P. W. Wilcox, the Hawaiian revolutionist, upon the grounds that the latter imposed upon her prior to the marriage, by representing that he was the heir to the throne of Hawaii, whereas he was the son of a carpenter and a Kanaka woman.

THANKS TO CLEVELAND.

A Graceful Letter From the Emperor of Japan.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Accompanied by Secretary Olney, Mr. Kurino, the Japanese minister, and his secretary of legation, called upon President Cleveland at the White House today by appointment just before the cabinet meeting and presented him an autograph letter from the emperor of Japan, expressing in grateful and sincere terms his appreciation of the good offices exercised by the United States government to bring about a restoration of peace between Japan and China and for the protection accorded to Japanese residents in China. The letter is as follows:

Mutsuhito, by the grace of heaven, emperor of Japan and seated on the throne occupied by the same dynasty from time immemorial.

To his Excellency, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States—Great and Good Friend:—During the war between our empire and China, which now has been happily brought to an end by the concession of a treaty of peace, the diplomatic and consular officers of the United States in China, with your excellency's permission and acting under your excellency's wise direction, extended their friendly offices to our subjects in China, and on many occasions afforded them succor and assistance.

Again, as the war was nearing its final stage, the representatives of the United States at Tokio and Pekin, by your excellency's authorization, provided the way whereby China was able to approach directly our government on the subject of peace, and it was through the facilities afforded by those two representatives for direct reciprocal communications between the governments of Japan and China that all the preliminaries looking to the opening of negotiations for the definite termination of hostilities were adjusted.

The manner in which those delicate services in the interest of peace were performed left nothing to be desired.

And we take this opportunity to express to your excellency our sincere appreciation of those acts on the part of your excellency's officers, acting under your excellency's wise direction, which not only tend to mitigate the severities and hardships of the war, and finally to promote the successful issue of the negotiations for peace, but served to draw still closer the bonds of friendship and good neighborhood which happily unite our two countries.

We assure your excellency of our highest regard and esteem.

(Signed) MUTSUHITO.

Done at our palace at Kioto, the 12th day of the fifth month of the twenty-eighth year of Meiji.

(Countersigned)
VISCOUNT MUTSU MUNEMITSU,
Minister for Foreign Affairs.

THE BIG FIGHT.

Probability That It May Come Off Somewhere.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 1.—There is now a probability that the big fight will come off. The time will be within a week and the location somewhere in the state of Louisiana, the exact spot to be determined. This much was decided upon late this afternoon, after the third of Corbett and Fitzsimmons had been adjourned.

Brady was cross and out of temper with all the trouble and delay he has been through. His interview with the governor upset him still more, and an announcement that Dan Stuart had left Hot Springs for Little Rock with a proposition to have the fight come off at El Paso for a purse of $70,000 moved his ire to a greater pitch.

"I will not go to El Paso," exclaimed Brady hotly, "for $20,000 or any other amount. If I go down there I will have the same trouble with the courts as I have had having here, and I will be boiled and baggered in the way no longer.

"The governor informed me he will drop the proceedings if we will not fight in Arkansas, and now I make this proposition and it is my ultimatum. If it is not accepted within twenty-four hours after the dismissal of the warrant by the governor, the whole thing is off and the championship goes north with Corbett. We will listen to no more propositions and make no more concessions."

Mackay's Body Still in Paris.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Mr. John W. Mackay, who arrived in New York from San Francisco on Wednesday evening, has formed no plans, but is likely to go to Europe shortly, and, after consulting with his family, the final resting-place for the body of his son will be decided upon. In the meantime the body will lie at the church of St. Augustine in Paris, where it was placed after the funeral services in that city. The statement that the body was already on its way to New York is erroneous.

STAMBULOFF'S SPIRIT.

Called the Bismarck of the Balkans Because of His Courage.

The late M. Stambuloff, ex-premier of Bulgaria, used to be called "the Bismarck of the Balkans." One of his most dramatic passages with Russia occurred during the war with Servia. Prince Alexander had gone out to lead the Bulgarian army in person, leaving M. Stambuloff in charge at home. It was a clear day, with not a breath of air stirring, and the roar of the cannon was plainly heard in the city. M. Stambuloff thought the Servians were winning the day. In their anxiety the Bulgarian ministers applied to the Russian diplomatic agent for advice. That gentleman shrugged his shoulders and said it was no affair of his.

"But," urged the Bulgarian ministers, "the Servians are almost at our gates. You could stop them with a single word, if you would." "Yes, but that word will not be spoken. On one condition only will I stop them, and that is that your beggar of a prince shall abdicate at once." "And that," thundered M. Stambuloff, "he will not do. No, not for 20 Russias!"

With that M. Stambuloff sprang into the saddle and dashed away to the battlefield, while the Russian agent sent to his friends to come to his house to celebrate the defeat of the Bulgarian armies. A few hours passed, and then the Bulgarian foreign minister got a telegram from M. Stambuloff, dated on the field of battle, telling of Prince Alexander's magnificent victory and of the utter rout of the Servians. He hurried with it to the house of the Russian agent, arriving there in the midst of the festivities. And when he told the news the representative of the czar, it is said, ground his teeth in rage.—Westminster Budget.

HEART DISEASE 30 YEARS!

Short Breath, Palpitation.

Mr. G. W. McKinsey, postmaster of Kokomo, Ind., and a brave ex-soldier, says: "I had been severely troubled with heart disease ever since leaving the army at the close of the late war. I was troubled with palpitation and shortness of breath. I could not sleep on my left side, and had pain around my heart. I became so ill that I was much alarmed, and fortunately my attention was called to

I decided to try it. The first bottle made a decided improvement in my condition, and five bottles have completely cured me."

BUT ONE SAVED

Out of ten who suffered from Kidney Disease and Gravel.

And that one, T. Y. Arnold of 149 West Avenue, Rochester, N. Y., was saved by one who used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

This remarkable statement was investigated and published recently in the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle. Mr. Arnold said: "Some years ago I was taken sick, which ran along until I did not know I found out the real cause. There were lots of us, I think, all sick in the city of Rochester at the same time with kidney disease or gravel in the bladder—none died. The doctors exercised their utmost skill on those who died, but could not save one of them. I picked up a book one day on Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and saw my case described exactly, and I resolved to try it. I commenced to use it, and now shall I express my gratitude, for it saved my life. The pain I have suffered no mortal man can describe. I have lain on my back with my legs up against the wall to try and get in a position to ease the pain. After I had taken three doses of Favorite Remedy I commenced to feel better, of course the pain and swelling continued until the stone was all dissolved. From the time I went to bed and commenced to use

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

FAVORITE REMEDY

Until I was all right again, was just four and a half months. I have recommended this remedy to a great many people, for nobody knows how highly I value it."

Many other instances of the kind are widely talked of here in Rochester, where Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has effected cures after physicians had given up hope. It restores the liver to a healthy condition, and cures the worst cases of constipation. It is a cure or a cure for all diseases peculiar to females, and affords great protection from attacks that originate in change of life. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, rheumatism, dyspepsia, all kidney, bladder and urinary diseases, gravel, diabetes and Bright's disease. In this last disease it has cured where all else failed.
