An Enraging Mob Breaks Jail and Kills a Convict.

THE HEINOUS CRIME COMMITTED.

The Direct Penalty of the Law Not Satisfactory to the Self-Constituted Judges.

HELENA, Colo., June 2.—Alexander McCarty, who horribly mutilated his young wife, Charles Berry, last winter, was late morning taken from jail and lynched, after being subjected to the most terrible treatment he gave his victim. McCarty was this week sentenced to asylum and yesterday sentenced to the penitentiary for three years, the full extent of the law. At 2 o'clock twenty men accused Alex. Carr, the jailer, clubbed him and taking the key went to McCarty's cell. He was dragged to a tree in front of the building and mutilated the same way he did Berry. He probably died while this was being done, but the body was rushed down to Lakewood gulch over Clear creek and hanged.

The sheriff has arrested John Hielvine and John Koch, the guards for the prisoner. They have given the names of all the others and the coroner's jury is preparing warrants for them.

McCarty assaulted Berry while he slept. He picked the organs he cut from and threw to his wife in Ladville. He escaped and was arrested about weeks afterwards in Indiana. Berry recovered. During the trial of McCarty this week he has been restrained from assaulting him. Berry is eighteen years old and McCarty about thirty.

What these negotiations are both parties refuse to say, but it is believed the Adams Express company is trying to make arrangements to secure part of the stolen money. About $22,000 was cleared in the hold-up which the robber say was divided between Hedgpeth, Dick Wilson and Jim Francis. Hedgpeth went to the Indian nation after the robbery and is believed to have made a "plant" either here or further east. He is under sentence to twenty-five years in the penitentiary, pending the decision of the supreme court.

Twenty Hedgpeth was taken before Chief Harrigan.

Judge D. D. Laughlin, the Adams Express company special counsel was talking to him in the chief's office and he will be found continuous. Hedgpeth was then taken back to jail. It is known however, that when he was at St. Charles, Mo., for trial, Sheriff Steiner tried to take an arrangement with him but nothing was done at the time.

OMAHA'S MURDER MYSTERY.

Theory Advanced by One of the Detectives Working on the Case.

Pawnbroker Examined with a View to Finding a Missing Diamond Ring and Slippers.

OMAHA, Neb., June 2.—The mystery surrounding the murder of Maud Kubel, the 17-year-old girl whose mutilated body was found in an unoccupied house is still unsolved. The detectives are following up every clew which may throw light on the circumstances which led to the girl's presence in the building where the body was found. One of the detectives advanced the theory that she was decoyed south to Tenth street and while under the influence, was met by some person or persons who induced her to accompany them into the vacant building. The girl's youth and beauty, he argues, together with the sight of a handsome diamond ring, would no doubt have prompted the deed. Whoever committed the deed at first decided to carry away her dead together with her rings, but before leaving the building changed his mind, as the rags were found in an adjoining room. The murder theory is accepted by the police and every pawnshop has been examined with a view to locating the girl's rings and slippers.

Havemeyer and Tarrill. Havemeyer secured the senators that the proper protection of sugar would cause an appreciation of sugar stock of 50 points in as many days. A QUESTION OF MORE TRACKS.

Street Railway Companies Present Their Case to Council Committees.

The recent petition by the Rapid Transit Street Railway company to the City Council for a franchise permitting it to parallel the lines of the rival along First South from State to East Temple street and thence south to Second South street has stirred up a great deal of opposition in various directions. The principal contestants are the officials of the Salt Lake City Railway company.

Last night the officials of the two companies and their attorneys had a hearing before the City Council committee on streets and improvements associated. The protestants take the stand that to grant the franchise as asked for will damage the streets along which the additional right of way is desired by the laying of a third track. But more particularly it was argued that it would be taking business that rightfully belongs to the old company and giving it to the new, thus doing irreparable damage to the former.

The petitioners contended that a third track would enhance the value of abutting property, increase business and be a general benefit. Also that there was no inconvenience to any one on the street where three tracks were now laid.

After a rather lengthy hearing the committee went into executive session and granted both companies further time in which to file additional protest and evidence. An adjournment was then taken.

The fancy marching and slipping, in which the little folks took the lead, was exceedingly interesting, the little ones leaving their part admirably. In all the exercises of the evening, the results of the system as taught by Miss Babcock were apparent in the skill and grace manifested.

This evening at 8 o'clock will be the Open Day of the young ladies' class in physical culture, and an entertaining program may be expected.

On June 8th will occur the recital of the advanced in elocution, and on June 7th the Salt Lake people will be invited to spend an evening with Delsarte. The exercises will occur at 8 o'clock each evening.

BRIGHAM YOUNG.

Anniversary of his Birthday Observed by a Family Party at the Lion House.

The descendants of John Young, father of President Brigham Young, have an organization known as the Young Family Association. The first family gathering under the auspices of the association occurred yesterday, June 1, the anniversary of the birth of President Brigham Young, and was a fitting tribute to the memory of the illustrious member of the family, who has permanently left the impress of his life on the history of this land.

About 4 p.m. members of the family began to assemble at the historical Lion House. The old parlor where so many notable social gatherings have taken place in days that are past was now made filled, as were also the reception rooms (formerly the parlor of Eliza R. Snow Smith), the passes, which are reserved for special and private occasions of the late President—one of these rooms erected by his death, which occurred August 29, 1877—and a portion the long dining hall was filled with the family and friends, though it would not look crowded in the streets.

And all had filled their wee program of exercises rendered in the parlors, opening with some explanations by Dr. Seymour B. Young and prayer by President George Q. Cannon, and music and recitations by members of the family. The great enjoyment of the occasion, however, was the interesting and friendly greetings of members, elders, sisters, uncles, aunts, sisters, cousins, nieces, and the little friends characteristic and loving letter from the venerable Patriarch Lorenzo D. Young, the only surviving brother of the President and one of the Pioneers, was read by Dr. S. B. Young, preceding greetings by his wife and the assembled aliens, expressing regret at his inability to attend the party. The illumination of the Salt Lake Temple in honor of the day was viewed from the several positions of the Lion House by the ordinary, the exercises being suspended during the illumination.

SOUTH OF THE RIM.

The Third Year of Drouth More Severe Than its Predecessors.

No Feed for Stock—Prospect of Heavy Losses the Coming Fall and Winter.

L. G. Hardy, Esq., of this city, returned last evening from the south, where he has been for the past month. The report he brings of the condition of the stock interests south of the Rim of the Basin are no more encouraging than the accounts previously given. He says that at Kanab and all that region the drouth in this its third year is more severe than during the preceding two years, causing a failure of the grass on ranges and even in the hills. In looking through the country he saw not less than 5,000 head of cattle, and not a beef amongst among them, they were so poor from lack of food. What little grass there is this year is so far back in the mountains from where the streams are that the cattle, which have to water at least every other day, cannot make the trip to and from. He says he has seen cows come down for water and they were so entirely that they would fill themselves to an extent that they would fall and have to lay there for a day before they could get up.

The animals are feeding on sagebrush and greasewood. If there was plenty of browse for them the young animals would get along, but there is not. Mr. Hardy says that unless there are some good rains in June and July the animals that live through the summer will be in such poor condition that when winter comes there will be immense losses.

The crops are not suffering from the drouth, but only the range cattle. The streams from which to irrigate the water is taken have a fairly good supply. At Kanab, for instance, there is four times as much water as when the settlement was made first. The full effect of the drouth comes on the stock interests, which are in a deplorable condition.

West and his good wife Mrs. Josephine Romaine West, of Ogden. Miss Janie West, one of the Junction City's most lovely daughters, was led to the altar by Mr. John L. Herrick, son of the late Mayor Herrick, and a similar ceremony between Mr. Walker West and the charming Miss May Eunice Littlefield made them man and wife. A shower of congratulations will attend both couples, the first named to make their home in this city and the latter on the auspicious and happy event.

The convention reassembled at two o'clock. Mr. Tarpin, chairman of the county committee, stated that the committee had not been able during the interim to secure another hall.

The report of the committee on credentials was read and gave to the different precincts the number of delegates indicated in the apportionment above.

The committee on permanent organization and order of business failed to respond when exposed and Judge Norrell was called on for a speech. That gentleman came forward and for twenty minutes held the attention of the audience to an address that was full of Democratic assurance. The Democratic party, he said, was active and energetic today. So full an attendance of delegates was a good omen. It meant that when the real contest came in the next election campaign that Democrats would win.

The committee on permanent organization and order of business came in at 2:35 and submitted the following report, which was adopted:

5. Miscellaneous business.

6. Adjournment.

The report was after divers motions adopted in the amendment only, that relating to the selection of a chairman of the county committee, who under the amendment will be chosen at large.

A committee, consisting of G. W. Snow and G. H. Backman, was appointed to escort Mr. Moyle to the chair. Mr. Moyle made a brief, characteristic speech, after which a recess of ten minutes was taken to allow the delegates to go into caucus on the question of selecting members for the county committee.

The convention had not reassembled when the News went closed at four o'clock.
