SUNDAY SERVICES.

Elders Hull and Penn Address the Congregation at the Tabernacle.

Religious services were held in the Tabernacle, Salt Lake City, Sunday, February 26th, 1893, Elder Angus M. Cannon, President of the Stake, presiding.

The choir sang the hymn commencing:

Let I, Thee will hear me when I pray;
I am forever thine.

Prayer by Elder Henry P. Richards.

The choir sang:

Angels we meet around the board,
We Jesus, our redeeming Lord.

The Priesthood of the Seventh Ward assisted in the administration of the Sacrament.

ELDER THOMAS HULL

addressed the congregation. He spoke of the necessity of divine inspiration for those who instructed the people in the principles of the Gospel. The Latter-day Saints enjoy a blessed privilege in the opportunity they have of assembling one day in seven and uniting one with another in praising the Lord and by partaking of the Sacrament renewing their covenants with Him. The Sabbath is a day when they can lay aside the cares of worldly strife and turn it, and come together in peace and holiness to receive a renewal of spiritual strength. This assembling is a happy type of that which is to come, when the Saints who are perfected through their faithfulness will be eternally united in the love that prevails in the heavenly kingdom.

The partaking of the Sacrament called to the speaker's mind the occasion when the Savior assembled with His disciples and brake bread and gave to them, and they also partook of the cup—an ordinance which He directed should be observed in commemoration of the offering of His life for the redemption of mankind. In partaking of the Sacrament, the Saints pledge themselves to serve the Lord and keep His commandments. When they go forth in the labors of the week do they forget the solemn covenant made each Sabbath day to walk in the Savior's footsteps and live as He did? His life was one of humility, charity, gentleness, and love to all. To take upon ourselves such a life, it is needful that we be in harmony with His example; that we put away evil-making and give voice to peace and kindness for each other; that we seek to be honest and upright in all our dealings; that we be patient under afflictions, and follow the inspiration of the Holy Spirit in all things.

When the Savior was about to depart from earth He promised His disciples to send to them the Comforter. This Spirit we should use seek to be in possession of, as it will, in the midst of the allurements and temptations of the world, enable us to be true to our Father in heaven, to keep ourselves unspotted from the world, and will fill us with the teachings of Jesus. It rests upon those who hereunto their lives with the principles of the Gospel. Though we are weak and have our faults and make mistakes, yet by following the guidance of this Spirit we may overcome sin and be led into all truth.

The requirement on the Saints is that they regulate their lives by the example of the Lord. When we do this the Holy Ghost will be with us to sustain us, and even in the darkest hour will fill our hearts with peace, and love, and joy. We are living under peculiar circumstances. For many years the people in these valleys were free from the presence of the vices of the world, and children could grow up in freedom from the temptations which abound in modern civilization. But now association and contact with the world is such that the greatest care is necessary that children be not thrown in the way of temptation. It is necessary to heed the inspiration of the Holy Spirit that we may have wisdom in our present position. There rests on parents a grave responsibility to instruct their children in the principles of the Gospel, and to instil its spirit into their families, that their homes may be indeed the sanctuary of God, that when our families go out into the world they will have strength to resist its evils and to abide in the liberty with which Christ has made them free. The speaker prayed that the Saints may be blessed so that they may live as worthy members of the Church of the Lamb.

ELDER JOSEPH H. DEAN

was the next speaker. He said that if the Elders of Israel lived in harmony with the truth, when they were required to act in their sacred calling they would not be unfruitful in the things of the Lord. In the meetings of the Saints the congregation should not have the speaker to himself, but should pray and exercise faith in his behalf that they may receive through him the word of the Lord.

Elder Dean dwelt upon the sacrifice made by the Lord for the redemption of man, the offerings made by Israel in ancient times in token of the Great Sacrifice, and the ordinance commemorating it, instituted by the Savior and taught to His disciples. He also pointed out the necessity of engaging in this ordinance in an acceptable manner, or if the Sacrament was partaken of by unworthy persons, these ate and drank condemnation to their souls. When there are ill feelings between individuals these should be made right, and all become fully reconciled. If our brother or sister has ought against us we should go and have it made right. If, when we do this, the other party will not be reconciled, we should call in another, and so on until the desired reconciliation is effected, or all means exhausted, according to the Church rule in such matters. When we have done all in our power in conformity to the law of God, then we are justified. It takes moral courage to convince our faults, but such courage is necessary in developing a saint.

There is need of repentance among the people today. We are willing to let the Lord to forgive us, but sometimes it does not seem so easy to forgive our brethren and sisters. Yet as we forgive we shall be forgiven. We have now before us an event to which we have looked with joyous anticipation. That is the dedication of the temple. To be properly qualified to engage in that sacred duty we should appear before the Lord with clean hands and pure hearts. We should be fully reconciled to our brethren and sisters, if there has been any ill feeling. We should come with speaking, if we have been guilty. We should repent of all our sins, that we may have our record clean.

There are many who put off repentance as long as possible. They seem to think that because there is much joy over one sinner that repenteth" they will create a great sensation in heaven by the magnitude of their repentance, and they go on making a dark and sinful record. This class will find out their mistake. The Lord will judge men by their works, and if they put off the time of repentance, thereby sinning away the day of grace, the harvest will close and their souls be not saved. The man who sins cannot blot out that fact. He may repent, but the fact of his commission of sin remains; therefore we should be care ul to do no wilful wrong, for we cannot change the record. Excuses will not avail to set aside the law, for justice will claim its own. It should be the earnest endeavor of all the Saints, old and young, to make a clean record of home, fireside, tradition, nightly a life, that their minds and bodies may be pure and holy, so that the Lord may confide to them His power and grace upon them. The time of greatest necessity for such a life is the present.

Elder A. M. Cannon announced the Stake Conference on Saturday at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., and on Sunday in the Tabernacle at 10 a. m. and 2 and 7 p. m.

The choir sang the anthem:

Gabriel, ye praise everlasting.

Benediction was pronounced by President Joseph F. Smith.

THE STAR COURSE.

A Lecture on Wendell Phillips by Charles Ellis in the Theater Last Night.

The prelude to the lecture at the Theater last night was a piano solo by Miss Minnie Folsom and an encore, both given in very fine style.

The lecture was an enthusiastic presentation of Mr. Phillip's life work by a man who had sat at his feet in early life and learned from him devotion to freedom, justice and right. The speaker said that nothing he could advance in eulogy of "Wendell," as he called his man, could be "partisan" because the man never affiliated with any party and never cast a vote in his long life. The general course of the anti-slavery agitation was tersely presented with a correct knowledge of the work done by the Abolitionists.

In the course of the lecture reference was made to Mr. Phillips' love of the quaint music of the negroes, and a banjo duet was introduced by Mrs. Carpenter and Schettler that elicited an encore.

When the lecturer came to the death of his subject he introduced Master Schettler, accompanied by Mr. Ames, who gave the "Miserere" on the violin in an effective manner and was recalled.

Mr. Ellis sketched in tremulous voice the sorrow of Boston over the man it had hated in earlier years for his championship of right against their prejudices, and closed with a high tribute to his memory.

Miss Annie O'Maily sang with great acceptance and was recalled. The lady possesses a remarkable voice.

A Spear Family.

Information is wanted of a Mrs. Abigail (Fox) (Woodworth) Spear, who was the widow of a Frederick Spear. It is stated that she had two daughters, Celester or Celiste, and Catherine, and that mother and daughters united with the Latter-day Saints at Nauvoo in 1845. It is desired to know the date and place of the mother's death, and the names of her daughters' husbands, with such further facts as can be obtained concerning the family. A gentleman in the east wants preparing a genealogy of the Spear family desires this information. Address, H. F. Cummings, Jr., Box 695, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Mr. Caine Objects.

The Tribune this morning published a letter from Hon. John T. Caine to Attorney General Miller at Washington in opposition to the appointment of Owen O. Nielsen as probate judge of Sanpete county. The grounds of objection are that Mr. Nielsen is unversed in law and a non-resident of the county seat of Sanpete county. Jacob Johnson recently resigned from the office to which Mr. Caine objects having Mr. Nielsen step into.

THE SANITARY CONFERENCE.

The Committee Meet and Discuss Preliminary Matters.

On Saturday night a number of the members of the committee recently appointed to solicit subscriptions and devise means for the reception and entertainment of visiting health officers and medical men at the proposed sanitary conference, met in the council chamber. There were present Mayor Baskin, Councilmen Hardyand Beatley, Drs. Beattie and Root and Hugh Anderson. Two circular letters designed as invitations were submitted by Dr. Beattie. That gentleman also read letters from the officers of Denver and other western cities from health officers, expressing themselves as being satisfied the congress would prove successful.

An adjournment was taken until Wednesday night next to allow the finance committee more time to report.

VISIT TO THE GAS FIELDS.

A Party of Salt Lake Business Men Astonished at the Feelings of the Torcadora.

Yesterday morning General Manager Bamberger of the Salt Lake, Hot Springs & Bountiful Railway and Mr. McCartney of the same road ran a special train to the Bountiful natural gas wells, or rather within two miles of them. On board were the following gentlemen: Simon Bamberger, H. M. McCartney, S. M. Green, Otto Stallman, W. E. Hubbard, Wendell Benson, W. C. Dalton, Milando Pratt, O. P. Pratt, W. C. Allen, Colonel Jones, J. H. Melland, A. Wyss, secretary Pearson of the Business Men's Association and a number of others.

When the party left the train they were driven in carriages to the gas fields, where the wells were unwapped for the amusement and instruction of the visitors. True to its title and reputation the "Torcadora" belched forth more wind and spouts than ever before. When the gas was ignited the display was very fine. The flame shot into the air for 100 feet, making a noise that could be seen miles away. Some of the visitors had never witnessed the operations of the big spouter before and were very much surprised when it was unwapped.

On returning to the train the party was again surprised by being served with an elegant luncheon prepared on the train.

Patriotism at Fountain Green.

The good folks at Fountain Green, Sanpete county, celebrated George Washington's Birthday in grand style. The people assembled at the meeting house where music, recitations and instrumental music were appropriately rendered. There was a dance in the evening.
