Rectifying Establishments Seized.

CINCINNATI, O., 24.—The rectifying establishment of Howe and Hubbell, and Ammen & Co., were seized to-day, by collector Powell, for alleged violation of the revenue laws.

Picked up at Sea—Beecher-Tilton.

NEW YORK, 24.—Capt. Hurst, of the schooner Mary & Eliza, from Savannah for Damariscotta, and a seaman named Griffin, were brought to this port yesterday, having been picked up at sea while floating on a piece of their wrecked vessel; the rest of the ship's crew were lost.

After recess Porter continued his argument. He said that in describing Beecher as a liar and sneak, Moulton correctly described himself and Tilton. If the blood of Tilton and Moulton were transfused it would find as black a resting place in the heart of the one as in that of the other. After continuing some time in this strain of invective, Porter spoke of the improbability of a lady's saying to a gray-haired clergyman, as Mrs. Moulton says she did in her own house, that he had added four years of perjury and lying to the original sin of adultery. She said, having told him this, she declared to him her belief that he could confess to Plymouth church and be forgiven. The story of Mrs. Moulton had been made to tell, by her husband, and it was monstrous and incredible on the face of it, and furnished its own refutation. Men who had meditated murder, men who talked of their wives lying for them, were capable of devising such fabrications and of inducing their wives to utter them. Moulton was no unworthy minion and consort of Tilton; he also had threatened to drive Beecher out of Brooklyn. Tilton made this threat even upon the witness stand, forgetting that its fulfilment required the aid of each man on the jury. He thought he could make this threat regardless of a jury so long as he had the assistance of his splendid advocates, Frank and Emma Moulton. The case of Franklin Woodruff was an instance of the degree to which one man can corrupt another. Woodruff, who would regret his action in this case as long as he lived, was hurried along from one thing to another by the craft of Tilton and the cunning of Moulton, until he was brought to the stand to deny the word of the most prominent merchants in New York, men of unimpeachable honor, who were true and noble in every relation of life. Porter said he had many notes which he was compelled to discard, because to use them would protract the argument beyond reasonable limits. There was one passage to which he must be allowed to refer. Tilton said he had always thought of Beecher as a big boy, and in the next sentence he accused Beecher of craft and taking advantage of an opportunity to gain an apparent advantage of the cross-examining counsel, and, when he had a chance, during his examination, he thrust a dagger into Beecher's side. He then said that the story of Beecher preaching to his mistresses, the origin of which Tilton said he did not know, was said by Moulton to have been told by Tilton himself when the latter, pretending to be Beecher's friend, spoke of Tilton's threats to shoot Beecher, and said the jury were asked to condemn the latter on the oath of an assassin. When the charge was made against Tilton's wife he did not hasten to put in a vindication of her because he loved his wife, but because he loved Bowen more, and feared that Bowen would be crushed by Beecher. After Beecher's return from Peekskill the charge was changed to adultery. "This impudent cuckold," turning to Tilton, "submitted his short report for the adoption of the committee after Beecher's return. This report did not contain a word about Mrs. Tilton's adultery. Tilton, knowing all the reports in the case, thought this report would reflect credit on all concerned. This is a document prepared by Tilton, and borne to Moulton on the 14th of January. They were about to entrap Beecher in the use of the language used in the document before the committee, and leave the alleged offence committed by him undefined." The counsel then read a large report prepared by Tilton to be submitted to the committee. The report was prepared three days after his wife left his house. He certifies here that the apology did not mean adultery, but was an apology for a mixed up state of affairs, which was the true paper of July 14, which exonerated Mrs. T. and Beecher, and the paper of the 20th which set them forth as shameless, exposed and confessed adulterers. Speaking of Beecher's Life of Christ, and Fullerton's remark about the possibility of Tilton's writing a life of Judas Iscariot under certain circumstances, Porter exclaimed—"We might have suggested whether, if Frank Moulton had happened to have been one of the 12, Judas Iscariot would have pocketed these thirty pieces of silver." He spoke with great severity of the alleged pressure brought to bear upon Mrs. Moulton, to make her swear falsely. Her story of what she had said to Beecher lay in the way of censure of his conduct, and advice as to what he should do, Porter declared to be improbable and inconsistent with her character, and a stir ran through the audience when the orator, with intense earnestness, exclaimed—"That story would never have fallen from her lips if God had not visited upon her the calamity of binding her—I hope not beyond this life—to a man like Frank Moulton." Porter will conclude his argument to-morrow p.m.

"Alabama" Claims Court.

WASHINGTON, D. C., 24.—In the court of Alabama claims, to-day, cases 81 to 84 inclusive, in all of which Isaac Van Winkle is plaintiff, were submitted on the testimony. They are claims for losses suffered by Van Winkle and Duncan, of Sacramento, Cale., by the capture and destruction, by confederate cruisers, of the Anna F. Schmidt, Crown Point, Commonwealth and Lizzie Lewis.

Awards by the Court of Claims.

The Court of Claims, to-day, confirmed the reports of Special Commissioner Eveleth, with several amendments. These cover a number of claims involving large amounts of cotton. The first found, consisting of Vicksburg and Natchez cotton, which was so intermingled as to destroy its identity, was ordered to stand at the sum of $948,000. In addition to the above, judgments were rendered in about thirty-eight separate cases, covering 5,500 bales of cotton which, at the sum paid by the court, gives a total of nearly a million dollars. Col. Robt. M. and Stephen A. Douglass, sons of the late Stephen A. Douglass, receive an award for 1,457 bales of cotton seized in Mississippi.

$66,000 Fire.

ST. PAUL, Minn., 24.—Last p.m. the extensive lumber yards of Gaines, Cooke & Co., and Pettit, Robinson & Co., Minneapolis, were burned; both fires were set by incendiaries, who were seen by some persons, but were not arrested. Kerosene oil had been spread over some lumber in both yards. The losses of Gaines, Cooke & Co. are $15,000; of Pettit, Robinson & Co., $20,000; Gibson & Tyler $30,000, and other small losses $4,500, total about $66,500. Gaines, Cooke & Co's. insurance is $11,000, Pettit, Robinson & Co's. $8,000, Gibson & Tyler's $25,000.

Married.

BALTIMORE, Md., 24.—Lieut. J. L. Clem, U. S. A., once familiarly known as the Little Drummer Boy of Chickamauga, and Miss Anita R., daughter of Gen. Wm. R. Fitch, commandant of Fort McHenry, were married this afternoon, at St. Luke's Episcopal Church; a large and brilliant assemblage witnessed the nuptials.

Still Alive.

BOSTON, 24.—Mabel H. Young, victim of the atrocious outrage in Warren Avenue church, yesterday, is still alive, but unconscious; physicians think her life may be saved. Cumulative evidence strengthens the belief in the guilt of Sexton Piper.

FOREIGN.

MEXICO.

Government Troops Beaten.

CITY OF MEXICO, 15.—The federal troops are reported to have suffered a reverse at the hands of insurgents in San Luis Potosi, the loss being forty killed and 150 taken prisoners; the government is taking measures to inaugurate a severe campaign against the revolutionists.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Business in the Commons—Going to Cross the Channel.

LONDON, 24.—In the House of Commons, to-day, Disraeli, replying to a question put by the Marquis of Hartington, said it was not true that the government of the Queen would make representations to Germany respecting the relations between that power and France; these representations had been made, and were of such a nature as to correct misconceptions and ensure peace. England had received a satisfactory reply, but it would not be to the public convenience to lay a copy of the correspondence on the table of the House.

Fawcett moved that, in the opinion of the House, the government's measures of reform in local taxation are insufficient, and not in accordance with its promises, and that delay in the matter impedes the progress of the country; the motion was rejected, 175 to 249.

Paul Boynton will leave Boulogne harbor in his safety dress, and paddle to Cape Grisnez, where he will go ashore in the evening, and next day, at three o'clock a.m., he will enter the water for his second attempt to swim across the Channel. He will strike out for Folkestone, which he expects to reach before six o'clock on Friday evening.

BELGIUM.

Trying to Frighten Bismarck.

BRUSSELS, 24.—The Echo de Parlament says that the Belgian government intends to introduce in the Chambers a bill making the intention to commit a crime punishable as an offense, even if unexecuted.

AUSTRIA.

Still Trying to Frighten Bismarck—Probable Mischief Brewing.

VIENNA, 24.—The News Freie Presse publishes a report that a person named Wiesenger, who attempted to extort money from Father Bek, General of the Society of Jesus, has been arrested, suspected of offering to assassinate Prince Bismarck; he is supposed to have accomplices. A judicial inquiry will be instituted.

A meeting of the Emperors of Austria, Germany and Russia has been finally decided on; it will probably take place at Ems.

Credentials Presented.

Orth, the new American minister, presented his credentials to the Emperor to-day.

SPAIN.

Suspended—Retreating.

MADRID, 24.—The publication of the Imparcial has been suspended by the government for a fortnight, for an offense against the press laws.

The government troops are retreating on Iqualder in good order; the losses are slight, although the Carlist attacks have been incessant.

Vermont clergyman are never permitted to kiss the ladies they have just made brides. The dear creatures put up their hands with the remark: "There, that'll do. I've seen you fellows afore."
