country. At present the Bell is practically worthless, owing to the scarcity of water. It will not let $20,000 of respectly irrigate into ship at scarcity. Now if the people could borrow the amount of money from the government without interest, or could be paid in their land at cost, it would be a great benefit. In order to carry the expense of the negotiations, say that 1 per cent of the amount so saved would be sufficient. This would give the people $20,000. Four per cent of the total would be $1,200. That would leave an annual surplus of 28 cents an acre to pay back the borrowed money in twenty-five years."

A LOCAL ATTRACTION.

General Clary told me and helped that Salt Lake owned its own water-works system, but that it didn't own its own city, gas and electric light plants. Commenting upon that and its sale "Now people tell me that your city owning and operating these plants are worth $1,000,000—I assume they are worth considerably more, but the figures are immaterial. Then suppose together that the Salt Lake City Council came before $1,000,000, funding it for twenty-five years, without interest, and offered them with the general government. The government could then start the engraver and printer to work and issue a million and a half bill legal tender currency, redeeming one per cent or $15,000 to pay expenses of making the money, and employing a bookkeeper at Washington. This would cover the entire cost of the money, which would promptly go to waste in the Salt Lake City treasury. And in part out of street car and electric plants, thus enabling the stores and hands of both these concerns, which would neither have to pay dividends or interest after long. The revenue would go into the city treasury and 4 per cent of the money borrowed from the government, or $60,000 per year would be taken out of these revenues and sent to Washington and added to the government surplus each and every year for twenty-five years, at the expiration of which time the whole amount borrowed would be paid back to the government and the money retired, cancelled and destroyed. The bond would then be cancelled also and the debt paid. The balance of the revenues of these institutions with the revenue of the waterworks system which thereby now saves some, probably more than pay the running expenses and lose falling about the abolition of municipal taxes altogether.

LABOR AND TRADES UNIONS.

"A few words on labor and trades unions. Under the present condition of things they are only to give temporary benefit to an unstable currency. The wage earners are forced into asserting their rights by organizing for protection. They are often compelled to adopt extreme measures. But when it comes down to a fair point they are invariably no worse off than the capitalists, merchants and big employers. The government must come into connection with the employers of labor. The wage-earner will and he all right until the government makes money by giving all men work who will work and pay them not less than a dollar and a half for a day of eight hours. Then no one outside of the government can engage any one for less than that."

NO MORE COMMONWEAL ARMIES.

"Will there ever be another commonweal army in this country?" asked the News man.

"I don't think so," came the reply from the lips of the leader of the now happily defunct unemployed hosts who created such consternation throughout the country a couple of years ago. "But it is hard to tell."

"What was the cause of the army's failure?"

"The ordering out of government troops and the law on the part of the men that they would have nothing to eat when they got to Washington."

"What was your object in marching your men to Washington—what did you expect to accomplish by it?"

"I simply desired to present the true condition of affairs among the unemployed classes to those who are in power. They didn't believe that the people were idle, as long as their own interests were well filled and they getting wages for a few hours work each day. The movement was a success after all. We wended to attract attention and did so to the extent of starting the ball to roll. At that time everybody was talking tariff reform. Today it is a dead issue. From one end of the country to the other we are but on city and that is for a new and better money system."

Eunice S. Hall came in the Third district court with an appeal for the enrollment of the marriage existing between herself and her husband, F. W. Hall. The suit was filed this morning, and a divorce is asked for on many counts.

As a result of the treatment the plaintiff contracted a severe cold and fainted, and the husband refused to provide the necessary medicine the only way to alleviate plaintiff's illness.

Then, on or about January 10, 1896, the defendant, according to Mrs. Hall, the wife and twelve her arm and were so to cause it to swell, at the same time calling her abusive names.

Afterwards, about the first of February of this year, the husband threatened to break the head of his wife with a chair, used abusive language towards her all that day and the next and chased her before the house, which, however, she did not do.

FORCED TO TAKE REFUGE.

Mrs. Hall further alleges that about February 20 her husband assaulted her with such vile, abusive and threatening language that she was compelled to take refuge in the house of a neighbor. Since that time Hall has been guilty of cruelty at six with every species imaginable, mingled with threats, keeping the woman in such mental fear and dread as to completely prostrate her.

CHASED HER WITH A HATCHET.

About the 3d of April, 1896, the the plaintiff further complains that on Wednesday her husband followed her with a hatchet and followed her into a neighbor's house, where she took refuge, and there threatened her with the hatchet in the presence of the neighbor, saying he would "fix" her. Mrs. Hall sincerely believes that her material welfare was only restrained from executing his threat by the intervention of the neighbor.

GOOD IT NO LONGER.

On the 15th of the month the plaintiff left the family domicile, being no longer endure the anguish she was compelled to undergo. The lady says that all time the defendant has refused to provide anything but the barest necessities in the way of food and neglected to furnish her essentials clothing, at seasons when it, although he was amply able to do so.

WANTS CASH AND FURNITURE.

There have been no children born in the family, says the complaint. Hall is a peddler and pawnbroker and is thus enabled to accumulate money to save up five or ten hundred dollars which he carries around on his person and which Mrs. Hall desires to share. The therefore, she, the plaintiff claims as her own, but the defendant, she says, threatens to dispose of it for his own benefit. The court is asked for a restraining order to prevent the sale of the furniture or the disposition of the cash. The plaintiff wants temporary alimony during the pendency of the suit, permanent alimony and the privilege of resuming her maiden name of Eunice S. Weems.

Fred G. Wells is the plaintiff's attorney.

BLOOD FOR A DOG BITE.

In the Third district court this morning J. A. DeValley filed suit against F. J. Fulton for damages to the tune of $5,000 for a dog bite. The complaint alleges that on July 27, 1894, the plaintiff was bitten in the ear by a savage and vicious cur belonging to the defendant, whereby the plaintiff immediately became and has ever since remained sick, sore and lame.

TALK OF THE MINES.

Observations of a Leading Mining Man at Park City Yesterday.

THE DISTRICT PRONOUNCED O. K.

The Diggers for Hidden Treasures Busily Engaged—Work of the Brokers on 'Change.

A gentleman who spent yesterday in the Tintic mining district, in conversation with a News reporter today, stated that things in that locality were at present looking O. K.

"The Bureau Hill," he began, "has to carry new stamps hanging, although it will be a month yet before they are started. The company has concluded to ship the vast supply of bullion in small lots and yesterday witnessed the sending off of forty-five bars of the precious stuff. These bars are made up of copper, silver and gold and the average weight of each is 1,000 ounces. Like shipments will continue daily until a quantity with an estimated value of $250,000, has entirely disappeared from the mill at which it was beaten into shape.

"The Mammoth mine looks exceedingly well, as does also the Humboldt and the Bullion-Beck. The latter is the only company in the district which is at present working full force in their mine and mill, and great developments are being made between the 500 and 600 levels. Great activity is also noticed at the Mammoth and big things are looked for from that property in the near future.

"The West Circle employes are engaged in drifting from the 500-foot station and consequently a strike of mine is anticipated, which gives the management the sole argument and hope that there is something visible in sight, as such a situation has been and is characteristic of the near approach to one of exceeding richness. No highgrading dirt has been received yet, but the management is cheering its men by saying that there's a good time coming" and that at no distant date.

"The Godiva is producing work on a vein which will be immediately adjacent to the Eureka lines, and with the possession of ground which shows every indication of containing something rich and glittering, the company is going ahead and expects to some day be able to report a strike which will make even the tenth of a Barney Barnett wave with envy."

ON 'CHANGE TODAY.

Seventeen Hundred Shares Represent the Day's Trading.

As usual the bulls and bears met up on 'change again today but did not succeed in transacting a very great deal of business. Mammoth was the only stock dealing any amount of interest on the Sated side and it met with sales of 200 share, which brought an extra good figure, the buyer being willing to pay down $7.00 for every share that came into his possession. Ontario came nearer receiving a heavier today than it has in any time since the exchange opened hour and after getting within 50 cents of each other. Mercur was sold at $7 with $6.50 bid, while that old-fashioned security Centennial Eureka was offered at $20 and no lower.

Three of the noblest essays closed in the trading, Beaucoup coming out first and morning with a 25-cent transfer at $1.65, after which Nevada Ophir came out with a sale of half a thousand at 3 cents. A like block of Keystone Amazonia found a taker at 5 cents, and upon the final call of Blue Lake no "chance, last chance was offered at 25 cents but did not succeed in finding a taker.

The closing figures were as follows:

OGDEN, UTAH, JUNE 15, 1896.

Junction City Items.

Ogden canyon was visited by several hundred persons on Saturday to witness the explosion of a number of heavy blasts on the power dam work. But four blasts were exploded on Saturday and yesterday about 11 a.m. the heavy blast of about 500 kegs of powder was fired. It was scarcely heard in town but did good work throwing an immense quantity of rock into the depths below. Several photographers were successful in getting good pictures of the explosion. There were but few people in the canyon yesterday to witness the explosion.

The tabernacle choir's concert concert given last evening at the Grand opera house was well attended and every number received enthusiastic applause. The quintette consisting of Messrs. Anderson and Goddard, H. Tout, Mrs. Allison and Miss May Driver was especially well received.

Silver Men Will Meet.

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—Delegates from the silver producing states have not yet held a formal conference but expect to get together later in the afternoon. There have, however, been several informal meetings at which the program to be pursued by the radical silver forces has been sufficiently discussed without leaving a doubt that it is their intention to bolt the convention in case their demand for free coinage of silver is not accepted. They have decided, however, to go out without any display. Before they take their departure a resolution probably will be offered providing for the coinage of the American silver product, but while the men from the silver producing states will support this in lieu of absolute free coinage, it will not be offered by one of them, but probably by a delegate from a non-silver producing state.
