Death of Mrs. Van Orsdale.

The death occurred yesterday at Fort Logan, near Denver, Col., of Mrs. Van Orsdale, wife of Captain J. T. Van Orsdale, U. S. A. The deceased lady, who was about twenty years of age, was well known in this city, the home of her girlhood, as Miss Edith Shurtliff. She was married but a year ago and only a few months since was on a visit to her friends in Salt Lake, being then in the best of health and the highest of spirits. Mrs. Van Orsdale had a wide circle of acquaintances, by whom she was greatly beloved, and by whom the intelligence of her death comes as a great shock. The body will be shipped to this city for interment, arrival at Union Pacific depot, and is expected to arrive here at 3 p.m. tomorrow. The date of the funeral will be announced later.

Amusements.

The Lunes Famous Thirteenth Regiment Band gave its first concert last night at the Salt Lake Theatre. Mr. Lunes is both popularly and intellectually the band conductor.

The concert last night opened with Rossini's overture "William Tell." It was beautifully rendered and received rapturously. The next number was Liszt's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody," also encored.

A solo by Sig. Nortia was well received. In fact every piece on the programme was encored, which is a substitute manner. Mr. Lunes gave his business solo "Oboe Sheik," which was deservedly encored.

Tomorrow evening will close the Lunes season. There are some choice numbers on the programme. The opening piece will be Donizetti's overture "Marescalco," followed by another numbers. Miss Olivier will repeat "There is a Green Hill Far Away."

The rehearsal last evening at the Tabernacle was as unfavorable as possible. Conductor Stephens had a telegram from Chicago announcing the regrets of the singers. There were some 300 musicians present.

On Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 4 and 5, the Boston Ideal Opera Company will appear at the Salt Lake Theatre. Miss Yohe is simply among comedienne, though, as with all comedienne, personality has as much to do with her popularity as a certain delicacy of manner, grace of art, and intelligence of character.

PICKARD'S PREDICAMENT.

The Acting Mayor Said to Have Placed Himself in a Dilemma.

WILL HE RISE AND EXPLAIN?

Marshal Young Still Hounded by the "Tribune."

The following sharp and suggestive article appeared in this morning's issue of the Salt Lake Tribune:

John M. Young has added another character to the history of his office as marshal and chief of police in this city, he now assumes assaulting line as a weekly chronicler of the doings of diplomatic officers in town. The record on which he succeeded his deceased predecessor, Mr. Mayor Pickard, and said marshal, Mr. Young's predecessor, is known to everyone now that he had added a particular mark to the "Tribune" file.

Shortly after Mr. Pickard became seated with the title of Acting Mayor, a well known lady of this city called on him at his place of business and entered a protest against the manner in which the police department raided the houses of ill-fame. She declared that in a number of cases such houses had been visited by girls, who were unable to pay their fines in full at the time of their arrest, being allowed to go home and get the money, and then released in order that they could earn the balance due. This, she declared, was a shameful outrage, "because the women would have to work all the harder" to be imprisoned. She requested the new appointee of the Joint Mayor to do what he could to remedy the evils complained of.

Mr. Pickard, having had similar views for a long time, gave a ready sympathetic and when such he was Marshal Young was summoned to his office. He was then, during his incumbency of the office of Mayor to reside on the house occupied by James Jackson, and he was called upon and in the absence of his superior, at this office, to the ordinary, the police commissioner, and the marshal, to receive the wishes of his superiors.

On Saturday the Acting Mayor was again called upon, this time by a delegation of ladies, who made the same request of him. They had evidently learned that a raid was contemplated, and viewing the matter from a purely Christian standpoint, they had been with an eye to keep the threatened blow at their work and saving sisters. The Acting Mayor again promised to do what he could, and he evidently offered to again remind the marshal of his duty to the market. This official refused to be reminded, and it is now alleged that all raids he delivered from the mouth of Mayor Weyl and the latter's representative, separated following the aforementioned plea would have to wait the whims of his Christian visitors' whom he had promised to remember. It is necessary when Marshal Young requested him on Wednesday to sign a document, which was to be presented to the mayor, as chief of police, not to and the goodness or greatness, Mr. Pickard signed to the document following is gratitude, and drew a line with his pen through the "Mayor" and substituted "Joint Mayor" with his approval, and without a trace to offend the official signature to the document which, given to the press of this city, some whatever either was desired to be written to be left to public criticism. Marshal Young, it is said, was not pleased with the action of his superior and he at once set to work to "remind" the Joint Mayor of his duty. In three hours after Marshal Young had secured the official order not to raid the houses of ill-fame, he had a number of men assaulting of sundry special officers and sergeants, calling every house in the city and ordering the law in the city. Branches of the fraternity, the hammer and chippers who took the order, were called upon, and they were hustled together, and for the first time in their miserable lives met on a common footing. The raid was carried out, so carefully to do, that a number of the most notorious women were not in the house, although they are known to every man comprising the selling force. But not to another story.

The morning night Mr. Pickard was early informed by a police officer of the raid, and as soon as he had realized the nature of the blunder he had made he gave his indignation free to Marshal Young. He called to the officer now in his presence, and said to the marshal, "Jack, you signed the entry to a Tribune reporter." "Yes," said the marshal.

The information has an extraordinary right, and no doubt will not well by the Joint Mayor and his colleagues which will immediately follow.

The above article created a stir at the City Hall this morning. It was the talk of officers of discussion during the day to all the municipal departments. It seemed to be the universal opinion, as expressed by a prominent citizen, that the acting mayor had "gotten himself into a bad box, the fit of which was so heavy that it could only be raised by that gentleman disproving the accusation." Such a way

"With a view to ascertaining the truth of the affair, a News reporter called at the Mayor's office to interview Mr. Pickard, but that official was not there. The newspaperman next went to the same gentleman's place of business, on Second South street. He was there informed that he was absent, and that fifty persons had called to see him without having accomplished the object of their visit.

Marshal Young could not be seen, as he had been on duty last night and was buried in slumber.

Rumor says that the "well known lady" who called upon Mr. Pickard at his place of business is the prominent of a "villa" spiritual friend with whom he is "well acquainted." The "girls" who were unable to pay their fines are said to have been to make of the house in question.

"The delegation of ladies" who subsequently waited upon Acting Mayor Pickard, and made the same request of him, "from a purely Christian standpoint, are alleged to have belonged to the same class, and that Rumor has it fully convinced that Mr. Pickard "sympathized" and that he accordingly instructed Marshal Young to allow those "sisters" to remain undisturbed during the time that he should act as mayor. The chief of police refused to do this. The house in question is located just on the bounds of ill-fame and is not at hand, and the department was informed to rally out its established order of business. Finally the story goes, it is alleged to have said "If you are determined, Mr. Pickard, that we shall not disturb those women, I must ask you to sign an order to that effect." The order then, it is stated, wrote the following:

Marshal John M. Young, Boss & Chief Hell:

Mr. You will make no arrests of prostitutes and gamblers during my administration as acting mayor of Salt Lake City.

Mr. Pickard scanned the document, then his pen through the word "prostitutes," then inscribed it upon the "Order" only, and then attached his signature. The gamblers evidently fared not approbation Mr. "Pickard from Christian motives." In other words, they were "out in it." It is now said there was some more existence in the municipal official across than he yet been fully unearthed.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS

Being Made at Beck's Hot Springs by the New Management.

Mr. H. M. McCartney has leased Beck's Hot Springs for a period of one year and will thoroughly renovate the place and additional improvements be those already made.

A swimming pool two hundred and fifty feet in length will be completed by November 15th. Electric lights are being established and steam heating apparatus will be put in the bathing. Mr. McCartney says he plans to be entirely first class in every particular. A bench and refreshment stand has been erected. Temperance proprietors will be sold. Everything will be furnished at Salt Lake prices.

The street car line will be extended from the west end, one will leave the Wasatch corner over the Rapid Transit tracks running along second south to main street, thence north through the Eighth ward to First North and thence west to Thirty West street. Hence south to the Union Pacific depot, near the Grand Salt Lake and Hot Springs car will be connected from the Rapid Transit car and conveyed to the Hot Springs by the steam dummy. A BRIEF SESSION.

The Third District Court Business Speedily Run Through.

THE WHITNEY-MOYER MATTER.

Cases Disposed of Yesterday Afternoon. —Short Notes on Current Events.

Judge Zane sat for a quarter of an hour this morning, and then adjourned his court until ten o'clock tomorrow. The only order made was the following:

J. A. Sparks vs. M. Blackmore et al; continued for the term.

Judge Anderson held court for three quarters of an hour this morning, and then adjourned for the day.

Wm. H. Whitney vs. G. W. Moyer, C. S. Commissioner et al. The demurrer to second complaint was sustained, the injunction denied, and restraining order dissolved. Twenty days were allowed to file a bill of exceptions.

In the case of the Buffalo Park Land Co. vs. Melissa D. Clinton et al., the injunction was allowed as prayed, demurrer overruled and exception taken.

COURT NOTES.

In the case of E. L. Eaton vs. L. D. Kinney, in which the plaintiff seeks to recover money alleged to be due on a promissory note, Judge Zane yesterday afternoon took the matter under advisement.

In Judge Zane's court yesterday afternoon Wm. F. O'Meara, the referee in the case of H. M. Rosin vs. Mars McCormick, reported that on Saturday he sold to Wm. C. Clark, at private sale, the stock, harness, etc., in the McCormick stables. The sale was approved.

In the school tax case of James Lowe vs. L. G. Hardy, collector, the following decree was entered in Judge Zane's court yesterday afternoon:

It is remembered that on this day this cause came on to be heard before said court upon the original complaint and upon the demurrer of the defendants duly filed herein, wherein it appears to be one more from the allegations of said complaint, that the taxes herein complained of are not to be paid upon the property as assessed to the tax assessor for the purpose of raising the revenue of the school districts of Salt Lake City, but are levied upon the property as assessed to the tax assessor for the purpose of raising the revenue of the school districts of Salt Lake City, and that the said taxes are not levied upon the property of the plaintiffs herein and that the said taxes are not levied upon the property of the plaintiffs herein and that the said taxes are not levied upon the property of the plaintiffs herein
