OGDEN.

OGDEN, UTAH, - MAY 7, 1896.

Ogden News.

It was reported yesterday to the police that a demented woman was tramping through the pastures at Slaterville. Sheriff Wright went out and found her near Plain City. She was brought into town and taken to the Crittenden home and will be cared for. From what could be learned she is a small woman about 30 years of age and had been employed as a domestic at Salt Lake and Bountiful, but left her employment on account of some trouble which affected her mind. It is expected that kind treatment will bring her all right again.

Yesterday a young Sioux Indian got drunk and his conduct frightened some ladies in Lester Park. When Officer Murray attempted to arrest him he gave him a lively chase and on being taken in had to be handcuffed.

In the Second district court yesterday suit was filed by the New England Loan & Trust Co., to foreclose a mortgage of $8,334 in the amount involved. The action is brought against W. G. Chiles et al.

Judge Johnson gave the defendants a severe talk and stated if he should impose a sentence commensurate with the offense, according to his point of view, it would be imprisonment for life.

New Gold Find.

Provo is in the throes of a violent mining excitement. Several parties left last night and early this morning for a new Eldorado located about twelve miles west of Spanish Fork, on the south end of Utah lake. The cause of the migration is samples of ore brought in yesterday by Phil. Beesley and others who have made locations in the new district for some Provo people who have known of the new field for several weeks. The samples brought in are full of free gold. It is so rich that even experienced miners thought there must be some mistake, but tests made at the Brigham Young academy brought forth the welcome assurance that no mistake had been made. The mineral was first found about eight months ago by a young man from Benjamin, who had gone to the mountains for a load of cedar stumps. He supposed the yellow flakes were pyrites of iron and thought nothing more of it till one day, a short time ago, he showed a piece of the ore to his father-in-law, who is an old prospector, and who at once pronounced it gold. A few friends were admitted into the secret, and they made locations, endeavoring to keep the matter quiet, but yesterday their good fortune became generally known, and the result is that everybody is trying to get in early and avoid the rush. The ore is rich, streaked with spar, and appears to be a water formation; it crops through the soil in different places, but so far it has not even definitely ascertained whether it is a blanket formation or not. No accurate assay has been obtained, but it is agreed that it will run up into the thousands.

Wasatch Stake Conference.

The Wasatch Stake quarterly conference was held Saturday and Sunday, May 2 and 3, 1896.

Saturday, 10 a. m.—After opening exercises Elder Eaton greeted those present, and trusted all would have a good time. In the course of his remarks he regretted all who had lived in Nauvoo to date. The result was fifteen men and twelve women. There were also five men and three women who had lived in Kirtland in the early history of the Church. He read from the Deseret News of March 25, an account of the laying of the Nauvoo temple. Elders John M. Murdock, P. C. Mardsen, William McDonald and James Wilson followed, relating their experiences in the Church and testifying testimony to the divinity of the latter-day work.

2 p. m.—Elders J. Gillen Kimball and Edward Stevenson, of the First Council of Seventy, having arrived, Elder Hatch announced that we would hear from them. Elder Stevenson read a portion of the 17th chapter of Jeremiah; said it was good to search the Scriptures and become acquainted with the doings and spirit of the ancient Prophets; the work of God was onward and upward, and it would be so in spite of all opposition; exhorted all to be firm and keep the commandments of God. Elder Kimball exhorted all to build on a solid foundation, as everything that could be shaken would be; tell the work of God would accomplish all that was designed it should, and the prophecies of the ancient prophets would be fulfilled.

Saturday evening at 7:30 a Priesthood meeting was held and largely attended. Much valuable information was given.

Sunday, 10 a. m.—Elder J. G. Kimball received to patriarchal blessings and the great condition of some of the mothers in Israel; we will have fair weather for hay and beet; read part of the 16th chapter of Matthew, to which a certain woman desired blessings for her two sons; also read from the Doctrine and Covenants, 121 section; Mormon was called but few authentic revelations; blessings promised upon the head of any man by the servants of the Lord would never be realized unless he lived for them.

Elder Stevenson was the next speaker, reading Zechariah, chapter 2, and referring to the first revelatory messenger to Joseph Smith. He was the young man spoken of by Zechariah that the angel spoke to.

2 p. m.—After the usual opening exercises Elder Stevenson addressed the vast congregation. While the sacrament was being passed, after which Elder Kimball read the declaration of the general authorities adopted at the recent Conference. When the vote was called for there was but one contrary vote.

The clerk then presented the general and local authorities of the Church and Elder Hatch offered a brief report of the Stake, speaking a good word for all.

After singing by the choir conference adjourned for three months.
