OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM GOATES.

Brother William Goates, who was born at Wimple, Cambridgeshire, England, May 11, 1817, was the son of James and Ann Beckery Goates. He was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints December, 1840, by Elder William Pierce and was confirmed a member of the Church and ordained an Elder thereof at the same time by said William Pierce, and was sent to Cambridge to labor in the ministry, where he was successful in raising up a branch of the Church, over which he was appointed to preside. Said branch was then a part of the Bedford conference. By the earnest and untiring labors of Elder Goates in Cambridge, Cambridgeshire afterwards became a conference. Brother Goates here left an influence which to this day lingeiken of among his fellow-laborers in terms of the highest praise. He emigrated to Utah with his family on the ship Allen Marie, leaving England Feb. 10, 1855, arriving at New Orleans after a passage of eight weeks and crossing the Plains in President A. O. Smoot's company, arriving in Salt Lake City, September 2nd, 1855, and settling at Lehi, where he has since remained and has honorably filled the following offices, viz., president of the Elders' quorum, before Utah Co. was a Stake of Zion; he was afterwards ordained a High Priest and set apart as first counselor to Bishop David Evans, and was subsequently appointed to preside in the Lehi branch of the High Priests' quorum; he was elected a member of the Lehi city council. He has left a wife, four sons, two daughters, thirty-six grand-children and two great grand-children.

Bro. Goates was a man of unblemished character, his unfailing honesty was proverbial; his faith unshaken, and his enthusiasm under trying circumstances admirable. His example was a living evidence of the truth of the Gospel, and honored and loved by all, he has passed to the world of spirits with the honors of a well-spent life upon him. C. D. EVANS.

JANE BAILEY.

Died at Moroni, Utah, Oct. 20, 1895, of old age, Jane Bailey, daughter of Langley and Elizabeth Allgood, born July 4, 1810, at Horsham, Staffordshire, England. She embraced the Gospel in 1846; emigrated from Whitwick, Leicestershire with her husband and children in 1856; crossed the Plains in Edward Martin's handcart company, enduring the hardships and sufferings which the company had to undergo with much patience and fortitude, reached Salt Lake City on Nov. 8th of the same year and continued her journey to Nephi where she resided until the year 1860. She then moved to Moroni, Sanpete county, and remained there until her demise. She presided over the Relief Society for over twenty years with dignity and honor. The poor and the afflicted always found a true friend and a wise counselor in Mother Bailey. A few hours before she passed away, she bore a faithful testimony to the Latter-day Gospel as taught by the Prophet Joseph Smith, and encouraged all present to keep the faith.

A large procession of the relatives and sisters of the Relief Society followed the remains from the house to the tabernacle, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The services were presided over by Bishop Irons. Four of the Elders and two of the sisters, the latter her counselors in the Relief Society, spoke of her honor, virtue and faithfulness in the discharge of her duties. She leaves three sons, also thirty grandchildren and thirteen great grandchildren. Her husband preceded her four years ago. She was beloved by all who knew her, and died, as she had lived, in full faith of a glorious resurrection.

JOHN ESPLIN.

John Esplin, one of the first settlers at Orderville, and one of the most zealous workers in honest toil and in being a faithful, died at his residence Saturday the 19th of October, 1895, at 5 o'clock a.m. His illness was that of a severe pain in the head with vomiting. Some few weeks before he had a fall, hurting him about the ear; he seemed to be somewhat paralyzed and crawled on his hands and knees for ten or fifteen rods to reach the house. He recovered so far as to be able to do some work until within two or three days before his death.

He was the son of Alexander and Margaret Esplin. His mother's maiden name was Campbell. He was born January 1, 1820, at Wardend, County of Perth, Scotland. While in his teens he labored as an apprentice to James Jack at laboring. On August 4, 1840, he received baptism in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, by Elder Richard Brown, in the river Tay at Dundee. He was confirmed by Elder Hugh Findlay. In August, 1856 he sailed for Great Salt Lake City in the ship North Atlantic, under Captain Cook. He arrived to his destination September 29, 1856. He married Margaret, daughter of Henry and Ann Webster. On May 18, 1857, he was ordained a Seventy, and was a member of the Forty-ninth quorum. At his death he was a Elders' member in the Eighty-fifth quorum of Seventies. In 1861 he moved to Nephi, Juab county. In 1861 he crossed the Plains to Florence to emigrate some Saints. September 25, 1866, he was called on a mission to the Muddy to raise cotton, and was called with the rest of the Muddy Saints to settle in Long Valley in the year 1870. He was a faithful worker in the United Order for war ten years, and did all he could to help along the cause until it was broken up. He was the father of thirteen children, had a goodly number of grandchildren and a host of friends, who feel to sympathize with his family in their present affliction. He never was heard to murmur, but was anxious to carry out the counsel given by the Priesthood.
