THE CASADY TROUBLES.

Mrs. Casady Began Divorce Proceedings This Afternoon.

Nothing Has Been Yet Heard by Her of the Husband and Kidnapped Pet.

The whereabouts of W. H. Casady are still unknown to those most anxious to obtain information on the point, but Ward, the little kidnapped boy, is believed to be with him. Mrs. Casady's attorney (Mr. Chas. Hilderbrandt) has been diligently working since the last in the interest of the client ever since the child was taken away late last Tuesday, and, after a consultation with Casady's legal advisers (Judge Zane, Montgomery and Kenyon) was sent out on a fruitless ride. The result will take determine which of the parents has the right to Master Ward's custody.

At three o'clock this afternoon Mrs. and Miss Casady and the attorneys in the case were in waiting to Judge Zane's room, the intention being to get an injunction, if possible, and a decree granted before the close of the day's business.

About half the case was so fixed, the only witness being Mrs. Casady being Court Clerk McMillan was simply present on subpoena's convention for subsidy.

Judge Zane granted the decree of divorce and awarded the wife the custody of the three children. Allowing for the support of the children, $40 per month, was showed.

Col. Montgomery said that, on the Court's order, Mr. Casady would surrender the child Ward.

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS.

Mrs. Retta H. Cassady filed a bill for divorce against her husband in the Third district court this afternoon. The complaint states that the marriage took place at Cedarcom, Iowa, on June 7th, 1882, and there are three children, viz., Ward H., aged seven years, Edith, five, and Ward T., three. Plaintiff says that for more than fifteen months last she has had the sole care and custody of these children, the defendant has neither lived with, nor set them, nor has he in any way contributed to their support, having deserted them before that time. "All of said children are now in her possession and living with her, except the youngest, Ward T., who was kidnapped and stolen away from her and detained on the 21st day of September, 1893." On February 16th, 1893, our marriage was dissolved of money to the third district court, and by reason of his character and habits was an unfit person to have the care and custody of young children; and even if he were fit, he has no fixed home to watch to keep them. Defendant, she further states, is a strong, healthy man, and capable, if he so applied himself, of earning money. He claimed to be the sole owner of real estate in Salt Lake county worth, on the estimate, $20,000. Some little marriage has accrued on the property which plaintiff brought to him; she had now no property of any kind and supported herself and children by teaching school.

Mrs. Cassady, in addition to the decree of divorce, prays for the custody of the three children and "for such other judgments and orders with reference to the future support of herself and children as to the Court shall seem right," and for costs of the proceeding.

The defendant through his attorneys (Lowhouse, Montgomery & Kenyon) files a very brief answer, in which he admits having possession of his youngest child and also the convention for solidity. He, however, denies the other allegations contained in his wife's complaint.

A Legal Aspirant.

In the Third district court this afternoon Alexander McMaster made application to Judge Zane for admission to practice at the bar of that court. His honor appointed Judge Judd and Attorneys A. N. Cherry and A. T. Gunter to examine the applicant and report as to his legal qualifications.

AN INDIAN'S HORRIBLE FATE.

He is Ground to Pieces by an Express Train at Willard.

A young Indian met with a horrible fate in Willard on Thursday morning. According to the Bingham Bugler, the northbound freight, on which he had free passage, stopped at Willard for the south bound express to pass. The Indian walked out on the track, laid down and fell fast asleep. Directly the express came thundering along at a thirty-mile rate. The freight conductor saw the Indian's peril and rushed out to arouse him. But he came too late. The engine struck the sleeping man and the wheels of fifteen heavy passenger cars passed swiftly over him and the train speed on, not knowing that it had ground a man to atoms. The horrified conductor stopped his car over the spot the moment the pilot struck the sleeper and thus shut out the awful sight. When the news was brought to a band of Indians camped near Brigham they set up a wild howling and immediately beat the air and rushed about like wild men.

DRYING UP OF THE LAKE.

Nearly 100,000 Acres of Bear River Bay Reported to be Lying High and Dry.

Probably never in the history of Utah was Bear River Bay, the northeastern arm of Great Salt Lake, so crowded and disturbed by evaporation and the shortage of the usual supply of water through its tributary streams says the Brigham Bugler. The lake has so dwindled down that at present a broad white stretch of salty alkali bed is generally submerged by the briny blue in what is the end and wide scope of the bay. This whole bed, without an level as a pancake, and average three miles in width and fifty miles in length. So 100,000 acres of the crystallized stores of Bear River Bay now lie twinkling and blinking under the glare of the sun.

The Tickets.

A movement is suspected for the Citizens' committee of fifty to put up a taxpayers' ticket composed chiefly of Liberals, to run against the Independent citizens' ticket. Hence, in hope of dividing the majority of the latter. As the strong-armed women claim the Liberal party to power, it is much more likely that a combination of the two citizens' movements will be made, in a harmonious effort to secure the city to good and honest government.

WITHIN OUR GATES.

On Tuesday a gang of thieves arrived in Lodi, says the Herald, stole bicycle and disappeared, in spite of seven foot-sawing Gough and gunsmen.

The trustees of the soldiers' home, Idaho, have accepted the gift offered by ex-Senator Kinz. According to his design the building will cost $17,000.

J. T. Keegan, Chicago (Idaho) county's nominee, is in the city, says the Idaho Daily Statesman. The day before a year ago, he says, he received electricity. Dallas, he says, prisoners are being imported from Washington.

Messrs. N. S. Nelson, L. J. Jones and W. D. Crawford of the Mount Crescent Wool and Live Stock Commission company, were met in Kansas City and Chicago with the sad news of a loss of about 3000 mutton on Sept. 20th.

The Brickbayers' Protective association has gone on strike on a demand of higher wages and settlement of other grievances. All negotiations on the part have been fruitless. Leaders say the strike will be general unless the demands are met.

A fire broke out in the machine room of Spring City last Tuesday and for a while very seriously threatened to burn down the city. Fortunately, however, the wind was light and the work of destruction lasted some time.

W. S. Jones has been found guilty at Fresno, Cal., of burglary in the first degree. Jones is a member of the notorious James and Dowell gang, to whom eleven have been arrested and but a dozen remain at large. Intelligence is given to the effect that in the attempted murder of Wizard Hoch, who was stabbed at Tulare, Jim Dowell, James has several times charged of cowardly and robbery against him. He was finally made to trial on a charge of robbery, and he is the principal witness against him.

The identity of the human skeleton recently found at the bottom of the Monitor mine shaft near Silver City is still a mystery which will probably always remain unsolved. The skeleton is still lying at the mouth of the old shaft from which it was exhumed, and will be kept there until it is decided what final disposition will be made of it. A careful examination of the dirt removed from the shaft in exhuming the bones will be made as soon as the remains are laid out, and for the purpose of ascertaining if it contains any articles of jewelry or other articles that may aid in the identification of the corpse.

Colonel Francis W. Gary, of Tucson, A. T., was seized with paralysis at Arizona, on Wednesday night by three masked Mexicans. They entered the hotel where he was willing to retire, and also shot at the proprietor, a bystander, both of whom fled. Colonel Gary was a graduate of the university of California at Berkeley, a man of great social, varied accomplishments, with a multitude of friends. He was complimented for his ability among building engineers. He was a son of William Gary, first president of the society of Antiquarians, and a nephew of General Gary, the first Democratic delegate to Congress from Arizona, and was at the time of the outbreak a colonel on the staff of Governor Hughes.

The bodies of the Oakland theater fire were again, says the San Francisco Chronicle, on Wednesday evening the theater, closed down because the ghost refused to walk. The theater has had a remarkable career during the past three years. No sooner than an official manager have tried in vain to keep the doors open. The house was always on deck and ready for second fiddle in the box office. John Hancock, who has had some experience in the theatrical business, thought he could make the theater go with low prices. So he opened the place with The Shamrock of a Great City. A week passed and the actors began playing to empty chairs. The week was attempted with Rip Van Winkle. This play ran for one night, and then the crisis. The house was immediately.

Seven Chinese were brought to San Francisco from Bombay, New Mexico, and arrived in the United States territory. They were under sentence of deportation and were locked up in the city prison to await the departure of the China steamer. The commissioner issued by United States Commissioner B. F. Sullivan of Denver stated that the Chinese were not in the country in violation of the law, because they had entered this country illegally. A habeas is the opinion secured in San Francisco informed them that the Chinese had been ordered deported for not registering. This was reported to Attorney Thomas D. Riordan. To restore the Chinese with the commencement was impossible. He telegraphed to the authorities at Denver. They replied that the order Chinese had been arrested at El Paso, Tex., for failing to register thousands of Chinese in the country. They were sent to Denver to be convicted. The charge could not be sustained. They were then charged with not registering and were found guilty. In some way or other the commissioners were made out to be violator of the law, which they were before innocent. Mr. Riordan will attempt to have them released on writs of habeas corpus, so he claims they are in prison and an offence they never committed.
