MINES AND MINING.

Two Stocks Devoid the Trading on 'Change Today.

MAMMOTH & SUMMIT AND ANACONDA.

Six Stocks Maintain a General Firmness—Sales of Mammoth from the Record—Dips and Spurs.

The moving cause of action on the exchange today was vested in the Mammoth and Summit Anaconda stocks, they registering the entire amount transacted on the regular call, the former went at figures ranging from $1.55 to $1.60 per share, three hand lots changing hands at these figures. Ajax stock was strong as indicating at 95 cents, while would-be buyers were willing to give $5 cents for it. Only was Alice at $1 asked with $1.05 bid. A dividend on this stock is eagerly looked for by those having some of it in their possession, but up to the present no news to the effect of its declaration has been received from headquarters at New York. Dry-West also maintained a good position, receiving a bid of $9, and being held at $9.50. The Mercur stock continues to climb, and if the record of the past few days is kept up it will soon have reached the $7 position that it occupied some months ago. Today, holders commanded $6.87 for the stock, while $6.15 was freely sold. Ontario was held at $10.25 and got a bid of $9.

Swansea and North Swansea of the subject stocks were again strong in the quotations. The former was bid for at $1.40, but holders would not relinquish under $1.50, hence the lack of business. But a few cents was favored with a 30-cent bid for the stock, but its Zenog was at $1.10 and no less. The rest of Swansea's subsidiaries brought a little or none, while any amount was offered at 1¢, with a closing bid of 1½. Yankee Girl was held firmly at 1¾. Yesterday, however, was 2 cents for the stock.

The closing figures were as follows:

TRANSFER OF STOCKS.

Mining in California.

Between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 is being spent in the development of ten Amador county mines, says the San Francisco Chronicle, the latest reports from which show excellent results from a few days ago, and a bright promise in the future for others.

Work was begun in June, 1898, on the Alma mine, one mile south of Jackson, on the Kennedy lode, since which time $60,000 has been expended by its Boston proprietors. A tunnel drift has been sunk to a depth of 300 feet, showing a ledge thirty-four feet wide, with ore averaging $10.67 a ton. A shaft is to be put down to 1000 feet, and levels are to be opened at 800, 900 and 1000 feet and drifts run on the ledge. Two 14-kilk double reel engines of 165 horse power are now on the property, the value of the development of which is attested by the fact that the owners intend to erect a forty-stamp mill in the spring.

At the Oneida, operated by the Kennebec Company of London, a new proposition which has been seen since 1897, it is calculated to strike a ledge between 1,700 and 1,800 feet. The company has put up eighty-foot gallows frames, and are erecting a pair of direct-acting engines of 500 horse power. Ten feet short of 800 feet west of the old north shaft.

The Argonaut is down 1,400 feet, and drifting is being made at 1,250 and 1,350 feet in good ore. A forty-stamp mill will be built and put to work in the spring.

At the Amita, south of the Alma, and owned by the Kennedy crosscuts are being run at the 500-foot level, and it is expected to tap the ledge in twenty feet.

A twenty-stamp mill is being run on the Union Consolidated company's property, and a new thirty-stamp mill will be started up in a few days. The ledge is up to expectations. The shaft is to sink from the 400 to the 1,000-foot level.

The shaft of the Keith Eureka is being sunk from 1,350 to 1,450 feet, and a twenty-stamp mill is being run on good rock. At the Central Eureka the shaft has been cleared out to 700 feet.

Twenty stamps are being run on low grade rock at the Whisman & Mahoney, and the ledge is paying evidence to its Boston owners.

A forty-stamp mill is to be erected on the Mammoth & Alice properties, while the drifting on the Jackson Hill ledge shows it to be similar to the Lode and at some places 120 feet wide.

NOTES OF MAMMOTH.

What Today's Record Says of Things About the Camp.

The lessee of the Carisa mine shipped two cars of ore this week.

Thos. Lewis, sheriff-elect of Salt Lake county, was out Sunday, looking after the Cleveland mine.

Ore is being hauled to the Horn mill from the North Star dump at the rate of about 30 tons a day.

Work on the Opex shaft is being pushed vigorously and this week the 200-foot station has been cut.

The first consignment of two cars of machinery for the new hoist in the Mammoth mine has arrived and the balance will soon be in.

Four hundred tons of ore were delivered at the Mammoth mill from the mines in one day last week over the New East Tintic railroad.

The shipments from this camp during the last week have been as follows: Ajax, 28 cars; Carisa, 2 cars; Horn, 7 cars of concentrates; Mammoth, 2 cars of concentrates.

Harry Joseph was out last week looking after the Lower Mammoth. It is reported that the ledge has been encountered and that another shift will be put on within a short time.

The Horn-Ajax tunnel is now in 1,600 feet, and a considerable flow of water has been encountered. It is strong stream in which the benefits to the camp and to the company will be very material.

Considerable excitement was created in camp this week over the reported strike of rich ore in the Southern Hercules, but an investigation serves to the reported strike is simply country rock.

Dips and Spurs.

Judge Sherman went out to the Sadie-blue mine this morning.

Colonel Dorey of the Cleveland will return from his Nebraska trip in two days.

The members of the stock exchange are bearing to their assessments slowly, for, it is thought, surely.

If expectations are realized, the Wonder company, operating at Mercur, will have a body of ore to report in a few days.

A local striker who makes a specialty of dealing in mining properties, says that McKinley's election has caused up the prospects for future sales to quite an encouraging extent.

Stock brokers are waiting and watching for the declaration of a dividend by the Daly company. The official announcement will come from New York when it does come, but at the present writing the local office knows nothing of it.

If all reports are correct the curb-stone brokers are doing decidedly more business than those who belong to the exchange. This may be so at present, but every indication points to the fact that before long the exchange will transact business as never before in its history.

The Ontario has declared its dividend of $5,000 after all. The declaration was made at a directors' meeting held last evening. The Utah dividend is still unannounced but it is said that the chances are favorable for its installation before the month expires.

Mammoth Record: About 100 enthusiasts took advantage of the Rio Grande excursion from Salt Lake Sunday, and visited the camp. Among the guests of the town were: W. E. Clubberd, W. W. Jardine, A. C. Cherrick, E. G. George and wife, J. Fred Cutler, wife and daughter, Alexander Hislop and other well-known Salt Lakers. After going through the mills and taking in the mines and other interesting features they returned home delighted and enthusiastic over the outlook for the camp.

AMUSEMENTS.

La Loie at the Theater.—A splendid audience filled the Theater last evening, attracted by the announcement that the famous serpentine dancer La Loie would appear for one night only, giving the dances that have set the country in a furore and brought her fame. But what a disappointment there was when the house program disclosed the fact that there was no supporting company of specialties but a first part by local talent such as we are accustomed to hear at almost every concert given here, and though always good at those times were barely appreciated where a large admission fee was charged and something else expected. But it was expected that La Loie's dancing would certainly recompense the expectant auditors, but not so, for although the effects of the calcimes on the silken folds of her dresses were gorgeous, still we have seen equally effective display here by sisters who have come without the blare of trumpet and the beat of drum. The last of the five dances scheduled was deliberately omitted and the audience treated to a cold "good night" and were dismissed. La Loie has not left a very charming impression with the Salt Lake public.

The Grand.—Inconsiderately the report of the Monday night's performance of Mr. Barnes of New York at the Grand, was left out of last night's issue but it is now opportune to say that with all perhaps an exception this is the best play produced in this present little house whose short history is replete with many successes. Much was expected of the company in this play, prominently as it was lauded as Marion and Mr. Edwards or Barnes of New York and there were no disappointments. Of the former it can be said that she is admirably fitted for the part in this play, exploiting the true Gretchen with all the naiveness and presenting a charming sweetness in her exquisite dresses. Mr. Edwards's Carl was a splendid one and his rich Barnes in this play easily another success for him. Mr. Barnes's Dutch was striking a very clever interpretation of that part and we are glad that sympathetically was presented that would easily lack in abilities and show him to advantage as the old Carl does. Miss Irene made a charming Lena Amthorf and we are sorry to note that the lady is not a well-known star, but will continue to be invariably true from. Mr. Wyngate was good and Mr. Bingham excellent, in fact all did good work. It can safely be said that a better performance could not be seen for double the admission price. The simplicity is bound to increase as the week progresses.

The Tabernacle.—An audience that partly filled the lower floor of the Tabernacle listened to the exquisite rendered on the organ and piano by the pupils of Professor Dorius assisted by Prof. H. S. Goddard. Prof. Dorius is bringing out a number of pupils that do him credit and make an organist for the great organ in the Tabernacle always assured.

Hypnotism, one of the most popular entertainments of recent years, will be presented at the Theater Friday and Saturday and Saturday matinee for the first time here. It is a five act play with a stirring plot of sensational situations and stages with the same care and expense that marked its production at the New York Academy of Music on the occasion of its long and successful run in that city. Manager William A. Brady has given close attention to the details of this strong attraction and he states it is as perfectly organized as any operatic combination, and is quite as large, there being about fifty people employed. There is a real display of magnificent horseflesh, a pack of English fox-hounds, hounds and all the accessories of the chase. The great war scenes of the Transvaal, with a battle with the Dutch Boers and a personal hand-to-hand combat, bomb explosion, etc., are thrilling scenes from real life. Mr. Joseph Gilmore and Miss Davies are the head of the powerful cast.

Forest Dale M. I. A.

The Bishopric of the Forest Dale Ward and the presidency of the M. I. A. for Salt Lake Stake met last evening in the old Farm House at Forest Dale and effected the organization of a Young Men's and Young Ladies Mutual Improvement Association. Elders Joseph H. Felt and Mrs. Freer addressed those assembled on the importance of mutual improvement work, and the Bishopric with Brother Felt and Brother H. C. Iverson set apart the following officers.

Robert Ure, President Y. M. M.I.A. with Arthur J. Castleton and Edwin Wright as his Counselors.

Mrs. Zina D. Cannon, President Y. L. M. I. A., with Sarah Sommerhays and Josephine Jensen as her Counselors.

The newly installed officers spoke briefly on the M. I. Association work and expressed their willingness to perform, with the assistance of the Lord, the duties required of them. The other officers of the two associations will be announced at the next meeting which will be held next Tuesday evening at the meeting house.

Mormonism in Oldham.

(Oldham, Manchester, England, Chronicle, October 31.)

For ten or twenty years a branch of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints have been in existence in Oldham, and on Sunday the occupancy of a new meeting room at the House and Mill company's office, Union street, was inaugurated by three special services. The Latter-day Saints are more widely known as Mormons, and they follow the teaching of Joseph Smith, who in the early part of the century claimed to have divine assistance in translating the Book of Mormon, a work purporting to be a history of the aboriginal inhabitants of America commencing with the early days of the Jewish nation. Years ago the Mormons were mainly noted for the encouragement they gave to the practice of polygamy in their extensive settlement in the Territory of Utah, one of the western states of the Union. Elders are now sent out from Salt Lake City as missionaries of Mormonism, and in what is known as the Manchester Conference there are thirteen Elders, including the president, Mr. J. Widdams. These individuals mostly stay—at their own expense—about two years prior to England, and Elders returning to America are succeeded by other brethren. At present Messrs. James R. Broadbent and Joseph Nelson are the presiding Elders of the Oldham branch, and in the person of Mr. R. R. Brodbent the small local community has another Elder. There were about two dozen persons present at the service on Sunday morning, when Mr. Broadbent presided. Prayers were offered, hymns from a book of sacred songs and spiritual songs sung, led by Brighton Young, Parley P. Pratt and John Taylor were sung to the accompaniment of an organ. Addresses and testimonies were delivered to prove that baptism by immersion is essential for the forgiveness of sins. The speakers were Messrs. Nelson, Brendel and J. R. Moss, sister of Heywood. In the afternoon at a better attended meeting Elder A. M. Wilcy of Tyldesley spoke on the personality of God, and Elder G. H. Bradshaw, of Manchester, expound the Gospel of Christianity, and compared it with teachings of Latter-day Saints. The room was well filled at the evening service, when Messrs. Brendell and Williams conducted the delivery of the Book of Mormon. They sought to explain the authenticity of that book as a divinely inspired record, and Brendell with rolling text it based on the same principles as the Bible.

The Hayes Case.

Judge Powers was in the city yesterday to see Harry Hayes, who is now waiting to be remanded for the crime of murder, the Supreme court having sustained the lower court and so sent the defendant a new trial.

Judge Powers has not been consulted with the case up till this time, although one of the members of the law firm of Powers, Sharp & Lippman was associated with Mr. Edwards in the defense in prosecuting the case before the Supreme court.

The interview between Judge Powers and the condemned man took place in Harold Brown's office and lasted nearly two hours. Mrs. Hayes was present a part of the time but nothing of interest transpired. Judge Powers refused to say anything in regard to what passed between himself and his client. After Hayes was taken back to jail in the Bee, Hayes was seen to go in a wagon, but he was loaded with a number of clothing, etc., coming to indicate a need them any more, saying that he would return the time he returned to the city. This may simply be an expression of the Mormon temper to sometimes exhibit, or it may be that the condemned hopes the Judge could hold out to him, after meeting his case, was not the sinister he might be remanded to the penitentiary next.

Notes.

Chas. E. Shoebridge and Sarah Ann Shoebridge have commenced suit in the Fourth district court against Anna Marie Moore to recover possession of a piece of real estate in block 30, plat A, Provo City survey, of which plaintiffs allege themselves to wrongfully be possessed. Plaintiffs also ask for $100 damages.

It was reported here, on seemingly good authority, yesterday, that an effort would be made by prominent Salt Lake attorneys to contest the November election on the grounds that the Australian ballot used at the election is not a secret ballot, and consequently contrary to the provisions of the Constitution.
