A DOUBLE MURDER.

Two Bodies Found in a Barrel, Covered With Rags.

ONE AN OLD MAN, ONE A BABY.

Every Evidence of Foul Play—The Police of Chicago Looking for Clues.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Carefully concealed in a barrel and covered with a mass of old rags and cotton, the dead body of a gray-haired man and a new-born babe were found in an alley in Hyde Park today. In consequence the police are working on what they consider a double murder. Only one clue is in their possession, and on the discovery of the identity of a woman, as yet unknown to the police, depends the possible solution of the mystery.

Early this afternoon the office of Hanson's Hyde Park morgue was rung up on the telephone, and a woman, who declined to give either her name or address, asked if the body of a man and been found in Hyde Park. The office attendant replied in the negative, and then questioned the woman, but the best he could failed to get any information of a detailed character, although she told the clerk she was looking for a man who was missing, she was finally prevailed upon to give his description, which she did in minute details. She advised the morgue attendant that he would certainly hear from about the case later on.

Four hours later the barrel with its ghastly contents was discovered in the rear of a house on Indiana avenue. The body of the man tallies in almost every respect with the description furnished by the mysterious woman over the telephone. The police immediately connected her with the case. In the barrel was also the body of a boy not over three days old.

J. A. Nunne residing on Prairie avenue, while emptying a pan of ashes in the alley at the rear of his house discovered a barrel which arrested his curiosity. Breaking open the head of the barrel, he was horrified upon seeing the hacked body of an old man inside. It was entirely nude, and mutilated. Covering the corpse was a thick layer of cotton. The police were at once notified, and the barrel was removed to the morgue. The next day there gave every evidence of foul play, the skull showing several deep wounds. There was nothing upon its give any clue to the man's identity. After the body had been lifted from the barrel, the body of a baby was found. It was cute, save for a thick flannel shirt, and there were two marks on the side of the head, apparently made with a blunt instrument.

The body of the elder male was that of a man between 60 and 70 years of age.

The police laugh at the theory that it was the work of medical students, and are positive in their statements that the man and child were murdered.

Death of a Rear Admiral.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Rear Admiral Henry Walke died in his home in Brooklyn at 3:30 this afternoon.

Henry Walke was born in Virginia 85 years ago. His father, Anthony Walke, was a college student at Yale with John C. Calhoun. Young Walke, young the deceased was taken to Ohio, receiving his education at the Chillicothe academy. In 1817 he became a midshipman in the navy, being assigned to the frigate Alert, under the command of Louis Farragut. He was present at the surrender of Vera Cruz, during the Mexican war, being executive officer of the brig Vesuvius. During the war of the Rebellion he commanded the gunboats Tyler and Lexington, and protected General Grant's army while it was making its retreat on transports. He was also at the battle of Fort Henry, in charge of the gunboat Carondelet. He was successful in getting the Carondelet past Island No. 10 on April 4, 1862, while the enemy's shots fell on it like hail. For this piece of work the commander was honorably mentioned. In 1862 he his cruiser he was made a captain, in 1867 a commodore, and a rear admiral in 1870. One year later he retired, having the proud distinction of being the first officer to do so voluntarily to give the younger men a chance.

MURDERED.

EL PASO, TEX., March 8.—The dead body of an American found six miles below El Paso on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, has been identified as that of a Mr. Doyle, of Cripple Creek, Colo. He had a bullet hole through his head and his neck was broken. His pocket was rifled, evidently Red Jesson him and dragged him some distance with his neck was broken, and then shot him through the head. Doyle was said to be interested in the mining property at Cripple Creek.

LENVER, March 8.—A special to the News from Cripple Creek says:

The Mr. Doyle whose murder at El Paso is reported by the Associated Press is not the millionaire mine owner. It is supposed to be a man who has been here about a year, working on various properties. Little is known of him.

SITUATION IN SPAIN.

A Decisive Step in the Relations to the United States.

LONDON, March 8.—The Madrid correspondent of the Standard, noting the fact that the utmost secrecy of the authorities fails to prevent demonstrations of hostility toward the United States, says the press everywhere deprecates premature conclusions, but plainly expresses the opinion that these impulses may soon be caused for energetic action, as Spain will never confront any contingency, however dangerous, than escape to insult.

Senors Sagasta, Maret, Castellar, Canovas, and other leading statesmen, the correspondent goes on to say, all agree that they are entering upon a decisive stage in their relations with America, and that the recognition of the rebels will have most serious consequences.

SULALIE'S PRAYER.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The World tomorrow will publish the following cablegram dispatch from Sulalie Estelle of Hoder:

Great rejoicings of the effectition are prevailing given me by the people of the United States when I went to their country, representing my own at the interview in honor of Columbus, live and ever will live in my heart.

During those terrible, soul-rending proofs of sorrow were given by both countries.

I became convinced and still am persuaded, that never, never should that traditional friendship be broken, nor even less should peace be disturbed.

Hope again from office at state, I can only pay that fervently the cordial relations between the two countries may never cease. SULALIE.

SPEECH OF HELP.

MADRID, March 8.—Several military officers, including some Englishmen, have offered their services to the Spanish minister of war, Senor Azcarraga, in the event of war between Spain and America. The official belief however, is expressed that no conflict will occur.

The Evidence all Right.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The naval board which made a dock trial of the torpedo boat Erickson at New London, has reported to the secretary of the navy that the boat is strongly built in conformity with the specifications, excepting that the machinery rose above the line over the weight allotted. They find the craft ready to be turned over to the government.

HEAD-END COLLISION.

The Result of Disobedience of a Motorman.

ST. LOUIS, March 8.—As the result of disobedience of orders by J. Allen, motorman, a terrible head-end collision occurred about 5 o'clock this evening on the newly-completed Kirkwood electric railroad, which connects the town of Kirkwood with this city. Two cars were badly smashed, but none were probably fatally injured, twenty-five being hurt, and between twenty and thirty others less seriously injured.

The Kirkwood electric railroad has just been completed, and crowds were taking advantage of its being Sunday to patronize the line. Every car was crowded. The road is a single-track system with switches at intervals to be used for the passing of the cars.

It was the disobedience of a rule providing that cars going in a certain direction should keep a siding until the next car in the other direction had passed, that caused the accident. As mentioned, two cars, with J. K. Pearce as conductor and J. A. Allen as motorman, stopped at a siding about one mile this side of Kirkwood. The westbound car not appearing, the carmen decided to try to make the town in a flying trip. They had almost reached the end of their journey when the latter saw a train bound in the opposite direction. The motorman did the only thing he could to avoid a collision, but it was too late. The passengers were thrown in a side by the contact, which was terrible.

Twenty-nine passengers were taken up, some with bones broken and others bruised, but it is thought that no one will die as the result of injuries received. Between twenty and thirty were received less serious injuries. Help was sent from Kirkwood, Webster Grove and St. Louis, and the injured were taken to hospitals or to their homes in this city and surrounding towns.

WOMEN GO TO WAR.

Cuban Amazons in the Army—Ready Insurgent and Battle.

HAVANA, March 7.—The Cuban Amazons recently have been playing quite a prominent part in the fighting between the insurgents and the Spanish troops. These women, many of whom have their husbands in the ranks of the army of Cuba, have exhibited upon frequent occasions courage, endurance and fighting still to a greater extent than very many of the men. The Amazons are not as a rule remarkable for beauty or cleanliness. Anything in the nature of dress contents them. As a rule they are quite robust and not young, strong of limb and quick at intrigue, smart at repartee and able to wear a machete, a revolver or a rifle with the best of the men. They are to be found in nearly all the insurgent camps and are increasing in numbers. When said others have engaged they tend the sick and wounded, mend and wash clothes, or cook the meals.

Sheepmen and Cattlemen.

DENVER, March 8.—A special to the News from Delta, Ohio, says: The sheepmen in the western part of Delta county are not satisfied that they, a party of a hundred cowmen that their sheep must be moved at once or they would be killed. The sheepmen have reached a compromise that has forbidden years and their right to it has been generally conceded. Bloodshed is expected if the cattlemen try to carry out their threat.

Engagements in Cuba.

HAVANA, March, 8.—An important engagement is finally reported to have taken place in the central portion of Santiago province. Col. Vicente reports he met a force of insurgents numbering 1,000, led by Maximo Gomez, Antonio Maceo, La Crete and others, in the district of Corral Falso. They were dislodged from their position by the troops, and made a precipitate flight toward San Miguel de los Banos.

The insurgent loss is reported to be seventy killed and forty-two wounded left on the field, as well as numerous others carried off. The insurgents also lost 250 horses. The loss of the troops was three killed and nineteen wounded.

THE NEW SALVATION ARMY.

Bullington Booth Opens the Campaign on the New Avenues.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The famous evangelist Bullington Booth, the deposed commander of the Salvation Army in America in a final cigarette on the trans Atlantic to the note from whose command he was released, met with success tonight. Cooper Union was the scene where the first gun was fired, the echo of which thrilled the hearts of 5,000 loyal soldiers, who since the commencement of the international strife, which had sundered Bullington Booth's allegiance to his father, Gen. Booth of London, have remained loyal to the deposed commander on his wide, lonely seat in the long auditorium was occupied. The aisles were crowded and the streets outside were thronged.

The women wore the regular Salvation Army costume, but the yoke had was absent. The men, too, had their badges, and wore no red jackets. Shortly after 7 o'clock and before the vast audience had time to be seated, Capt. Commander of the Bowery corps entered on a chair on the platform and waved an American flag with a painting of George Washington. The audience cheered lustily. Order had scarcely been restored when Major Peter Ohm, who was among the first officers to send in their resignations after Ben Booth has taken command, appeared on the platform waving a American flag, and placed a lifesize oil painting of George Washington on an easel in front of the speaker's desk. This was the signal for renewed outbursts of applause. It was only when Bullington Booth and his wife arrived from their apartments that the audience had control of itself. Their presence on the platform was the signal for an outburst of enthusiasm such as never before has been witnessed in Cooper Union.

There was single cheer and singing, and the customary religious introduction, after which Bullington Booth rose and said:

"Mr. Booth and myself have not come here tonight to attack in the address and lectures, it is hope we have, after mature deliberation, decided to inaugurate a new movement. Could we have avoided it, it would most sincerely have been done so very gay.

"Recognizing, as we do, that this is the largest field in the world, and still further recognizing that there was born in America for one, two, age 100 Salvation armies, we have resolved, to the best of our ability, to win over the minds and hearts of the citizens of the country. We wish no strife with the Salvation Army.

"I believe that the cause of the failure of the so-called religious organizations of the present day is that they are not come down to the living places where Jesus Christ wants to be represented.

"I want to assure those officers who have stood by me that I am in the direction of a movement which night has resolved in impulse to this great gathering. I do not want anything that exists in the air, but a practical demonstration of our effort to the faith of Christ.

"There are at least forty-six per cent of the wage-earning population of the community who are not identified with any church or place of religious worship.

"It is these we want to reach, and extend to them the love that inspired the Nazarene on the streets of Jerusalem nearly 1,900 years ago.

"Oh, how much sorrowing and how little anything is there is today.

"Mr. Booth and myself have, with in the last few days, been sending the prayers of the great Christian hosts, George Washington, whose portrait stands on this platform tonight. We thought of him and his goodness of heart and love of God, as he turned away for a moment from the frightful scene of Valley Forge and repaired to the woods, where he knelt in prayer to the God of his country.

"Whatever be the mission we undertake, it will bear the right stamp and will be directed in the right direction."

Conference of Reformers.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—The arrangement of the national conference of reformers to form a new party, which is to be held in this city on Tuesday, have been completed. A meeting of the executive committee will be held tomorrow. Hon. E. E. Evans, Mark Freeman Gray, J. C. Ellis and other national leaders will be present. A large portion of the reformers who are in the conference movement favor the call for a new party convention in this city on May 20th, 21st and 22nd. Indications point to a union of reformers on the basis of free silver independent of other governments and the abolition of the liquor traffic.

Terrible Fatality.

ST. LOUIS, March 8.—A special to the Republic from Galena, Ark., says: Mrs. Calhoun, wife of a farmer, lives in the western part of this county. Was turning some trash yesterday, when a spark ignited her shirt and burned her totally. While she lay suffering agonies, she was forced to witness three large dogs devour her two-months-old child, which she laid on the ground while she worked.

Burned by Boiling Tar.

New York, March 8.—Five workmen employed by the Standard Oil company at Bayonne, N. J., were severely burned today by the overflow of boiling tar from one of the tanks at the company's yards. The injured are:

Michael Doyle and Timothy Callahan, seriously injured, taken to Bayonne hospital; James Donohue, John St. John, Ernest Gunzer, feet and ankles burned.

The men were at work at stills from which the tar oil was being pumped into a tank. The tar boiled over the sides of the tank in a torrent and flooded the floor. It was found impossible to close the pipes, and the men made a dash to escape. The burning fluid poured over them before they could get away. An received very serious burns.
