SOMETHING IN COURT

An Irate Attorney Uses Some Vigorous Language.

HE WAS BRIEF, BUT TO THE POINT.

The Lake Case in the Commissioner's Court—Mining Dispute Arguments—Other Matters.

There was a little actor in Commissioner Hemmer's court this morning, were the Lake case was called. Mr. James Lake is accused of perjury, it being stated that he made affidavit to having served notice upon Mr. Wright, of South Jordan, when no service was made. The defendant denies the allegation made against him. Today Mr. S. Lewis, his attorney, made application for a continuance for a few days, but the commissioner refused unless there was consent by the prosecution. To a Mr. Lewis started from his room, probably to go to a telephone in another part of the building. He had in his hand the papers in the case, and as he was going the commissioner called, "You here, Mr. Lewis, you cannot take those papers away from the court." The manner of this recall bounced the fiery spirit in the lawyer's makeup; he quickly returned, and with the exclamation "—your paper!" threw the envelope containing them to the floor and left the room. At a later meeting of the commissioner and attorney matters had become smoothed over and calmness again prevailed.

This afternoon an agreement was made by which the Lake hearing was postponed till Monday next, at 10 a. m.

DISTRICT COURT.

In the Third district court today, before Judge Merritt, a continuance was granted in the case of John H. Park vs Hooth Mattie Wilkinson, application for writ of ne exire.

Hans Robert Lindell, a native of Sweden, and now a resident of Summit county, was admitted to citizenship.

In order to show cause why Thos. Kearns and David Keith should not be punished for contempt, in the suit of H. Wallgusney vs the Silver King Mining company, was argued and submitted.

Foreclosure of Charles Reifield et al vs Henry P. Henderson and P. L. Williams, executors of the estate of the late Frank Dyer, on a claim of Deputy Marshals Eaton, Norrell, Mattesy and Redford, against Mr. Dyer as U. S. marshal, was on trial in a interlocutory. E. W. Eaton's claim is for $95, C. N. Redford for $725, W. O. Norrell for $283, and James Mattesy for $60, making $1,035 in all. Testimony in rebuttal was taken in a claim of over $1,000 secured by Mr. Dyer from the government. The demands of the deputies are not questioned as to their legitimacy, except that the respective amounts are in litigation, and will be determined by the court. It is contended that all claims but Redfield's should be cut down 60 per cent. The court allowed all the claims in full except that of Mr. McCleary, which was fixed at $200.

In the case of Edward T. Singer vs the S. L. City Copper Mfg. company, Reuben Lorenzo reported in favor of the plaintiff for $250. The report was filed.

Marriage Licenses.

Permission to marry was today granted to August Swenson, 25, of Salt Lake City, and Gerda Dahlquist, 18, of Sandy.

Southern California Mission.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., October 21, 1895.

To the Editor:

It affords me much pleasure, as the clerk of the Southern California conference, to report to you the proceedings of our session held in this city. Friday afternoon Elder Henry S. Tanner, president of the California mission, arrived from San Francisco, being accompanied by his cousin, N. A. Tanner, and arrangements were made for a Sunday school, a branch and a conference organization.

This morning (Sunday) at 10 a. m. we met and organized a Sunday school with about twenty pupils. Elder Wm. N. Woodland was appointed superintendent of the Los Angeles Sunday school, and Miss Winifred Woolacott as secretary and treasurer, and Oscar Berg assistant.

At 2 p. m. meeting was called to order. After devotional exercises Elder Parley T. Wright was chosen president of the Southern California conference, and Morroni H. Thomas as clerk. A branch of the Church was also organized with H. Jacobsen president and Emilie Berg clerk. There were about forty at our afternoon services, and they received very interesting instructions from Elders Parley T. Wright, N. A. Tanner, William N. Woodland, W. H. Wright and John R. Smith. The brethren treated briefly several subjects contained in the redemption wrought out by the Savior. Mrs. P. T. Wright and Miss Ethel Graham did treasures credit in rendering the famous hymn, "O My Father."

There were eighty at our evening services who listened very attentively to Elder Tanner depict the rise and progress of the Church.

Elders John R. Smith and N. A. Tanner will labor in San Bernardino; Wm. N. Woodland and Morroni H. Thomas in Los Angeles; Parley T. Wright and W. D. Wright in San Diego.

Sister E. Woolacott will give an entertainment for the Saints in this city next Thursday evening. She deserves special mention for her extensive hospitality. She has done everything in her power to make this part of the mission a success. Her son H. J. Woolacott, has also been very kind to us, and showed his faith by furnishing a hall for us to hold services in, not for little special meetings, but for the entire time since our arrival.

During the last year there have been twenty-eight baptisms, and in Los Angeles alone Brothers John R. Smith and M. H. Thomas have been blessed with the privilege of baptizing six souls. The Elders and Saints are very much elated with the past success and future prospects. After the entertainment above referred to the Elders in the southern Conference will depart to their fields of labor.

M. H. THOMAS, Clerk.

SUITS FOR POLL TAX.

and jurisdiction that are or may be conferred or exercised by justices of the peace in said Territory under the laws thereof."

This draws the line tightly on the subject, say those who have criticised the action of going outside of the city police courts to commence such suits, and the United States commissioner has no jurisdiction of such cases, hence his action is void.

Yet under that action suits have been commenced and tried. For instance, Vernon S. Hardy paid $2.45 costs in addition to his $5 poll tax, and if the judgment he sought to claim, has a legal record, as suggested, and possibly is a set for damages as well.

Then there is the case of O. J. Anderson, on an illegal ration. He has left the city. Another specimen is E. S. Oppenheimer, who is over the legal age when the tax can be collected. As in cases of this kind the plaintiff is liable for the costs, these are taxable against the city.

On the other hand, if the suits had been instituted in the city justice court, as the law is claimed to require, the city would have had no costs to pay, since the law provides that the city justice under a salary as he is in Salt Lake shall hear the cases without any additional charge to the corporation, his salary covering the bill. Then the service of summons would be by policemen, without cost to the city in case of failure of the suit.

Hence the matter stands thus: If the commissioner has jurisdiction, the costs in these suits must be met by the plaintiff when a case is lost and won, and by the action of a board of supervisors, the city is forced out of money for costs that would not accrue against it in the city justice's court, or if the commissioner has no jurisdiction, and the plaintiff has guaranteed the costs, then in every case the burden will be on the city, and it will be forced out of a large sum.

Again: If a void judgment is executed upon the justice defendant, such as those mentioned in yesterday's News, then there is a flooding of the courts in that direction, or the street supervisor has no right to proceed illegally.

Still further: If the whole proceedings are void, as is confidently asserted, then if the parties in suit are insolvent, the city also refuses to pay costs unlawfully incurred, then the sheriff's office, which in these cases has been from the papers to serve, is forced out of pay of work performed under what the office had to presume was a legal order of a court having jurisdiction.

It is said that City Attorney Hoge doubts all proceedings of the suits having been instituted. Suppose it was done without the knowledge of Messrs. Hogan and Van Horne, what position does it place them in when they petition the use of their names in such business without a speedy and effective disclaimer? I am sorry for the public will ask upon the statements of the case now being made. Or if the signature of these attorneys has been used without authority by the rest supervisor in his business, why is such lawless permitted?

The foregoing are some of the statements made and questions asked upon the subject. It will be a wonder now or the street supervisor of the city attorney to explain or defend the institution of these poll tax suits, and in the usual channel of the city justice's court.

BLEW HIS HAND OFF.

Mr. Wm. Clark, of This City, Meets With a Sad Accident.

Mr. Wm. C. Clark, aged 47 years, of 112 South First West street, has been figuring on going a-hunting on Sunday next, and with that purpose in mind took his shotgun, a double-barreled one, into the back yard at his residence this afternoon and proceeded to clean it. As has been done so many hundreds of times, and will probably occur tomorrow and every day thereafter, a shell was left in one of the barrels and while Mr. Clark was cleaning the gun the cartridge was discharged and practically blew off the left hand of the unsuspecting man. The hand is so badly mutilated as to make amputation of the few remaining fragments a necessity. Dr. Fisher was called in and made the patient as comfortable as possible.

Waiting for a Storm.

The sheep owners of Skull Valley, Tooele county, are anxiously waiting for a storm. Peter S. Condie, who came in from there this morning says the sheep are suffering some because of lack of moisture, and would be greatly relieved by a fall of rain or snow.

BRAUN FOUND GUILTY.

The Hebrew Sentenced to Pay a Fine of $100 and 30 Days in Jail.

Ed. Washington Discharged—A Ripple of Laughter in Court.

Martin Braun, the accomplished Hebrew assayer who was jailed on Wednesday night last charged with performing the services of Alfred Ray D. H. Wanger, appeared before the justices in the police court this morning. The defendant's appearance indicated that jail life was not congenial to him, but nevertheless he had been charged with petit larceny, and being unable to give bonds, had to undergo the trying ordeal. Attorney W. T. Hunter appeared for the defense, while Daniel Harrington handled the prosecution.

Witnesses were sworn and examined, the most important of these being the second-hand dealer's clerk, whom Braun sold the overcoat for $4.25. The demandant, when selling the coat, gave the name of Lyman and stated that it had been made in St. Louis. While in the second-hand store, Braun took from the coat pocket, before selling it, several articles of intrinsic value.

The defendant took the stand and testified that he came to this city direct from New York a few days ago and took rooms at the Knutsford. He was on his way to Butte, Montana, to take charge of an assay office in that city. He stopped over in the city to see a gentleman from whom he expected to get money to carry him to his destination. On the Wednesday in question he passed out of the hotel and across the street, and there was accosted by a stranger, who asked him or the cause with which to get meal. He gave the stranger the money, and was afterwards asked if he wanted to buy the overcoat worn the stranger were. At first he stated that he was well supplied with clothing, and didn't need an overcoat but finally bought it from the man for $3.50, on going over to the Kneisford and getting change of a $5 gold piece from Clerk Harris. He then went to a tailor and asked if the coat could be made to fit him and when told it would cost $14 to have it fixed he concluded he had better sell it and so went to the second hand store and sold it at the price stated. The name he gave to the clerk was the name of the party from whom he bought the coat, although he had been asked by the clerk or his own counsel. He had come to New York from Germany a month ago, although he had been in this country before. He had had trouble with a woman in Kansas City (or which he was well rested and had also been in trouble in Germany. The street car pass books belonging to Attorney Williams were in the coat pocket when he bought it.

At the conclusion of the defendant's testimony, Attorney Hunter pleaded earnestly for a dismissal, stating that the mere possession of stolen articles did not show larceny, and as the defendant had not been seen taking the article, notwithstanding the fact that the Commercial building was a public one, and the fact of a busy one, in which it was alleged to have been stolen, he did not think the court would be justified in acting otherwise than granting the dismissal asked for.

Prosecutor Harrington followed, in a short argument, stating that the evidence introduced, showing the peculiar actions of the defendant giving another man's name as his own and also in carrying a coat when he had been well supplied with them, was enough to secure a conviction although the defendant had not been seen taking the article alleged to have been stolen by him.

Judge Smith stated that although the evidence did not plainly show that Braun stole the article in question, still he was convinced of the man's guilt and would impose a fine of $100 and 30 days in jail.

Counsel for defendant pleaded for more leniency but the court felt that a fine should be imposed commensurate with the offense and ordered it to remain unchanged.

Ed Washington, colored, was this morning arraigned for using indecent language to Ella Griffin, a 14 year-old girl who resides at 60 Franklin avenue. The only witnesses in the case were Miss Griffin and Washington, the girl testifying that the man had made indecent proposals to her and Washington testifying to the contrary.

After Washington had given his testimony, Mr. James, after waiting a few seconds, turned to Attorney Armstrong and asked if he was through.

"Wait a minute," was the reply.

Judge Smith—There being no corroborative testimony of the prosecution, the court would not feel to hold the defendant and will therefore order his discharge.

Attorney Armstrong—Oh, very well, your honor, we'll rest then. (Loud laughter.)

Mr. James—Then I take it, your honor, that the case can be submitted without argument. (More laughter, in which the court and a number of attorneys joined heartily.)

George Bireo, for selling rings without a license, was discharged, on his promising to be good and not do so more.

Frank Knight, a tomale vendor, left his horse unled, which offense cost him $2.

Louis Duval forfeited $9.50 for prostitution.

W. R. Mesick was arrested this afternoon for violating the bicycle ordinance. The hearing of the case was set for next Wednesday at 2 p. m. and the defendant allowed to go on his own recognizance.

Jim Wood, the hack driver, who stabbed Ed. Sandberg, was yesterday held to the grand jury in bonds of $500.
