NEWS OF THE WEST.

A Crippled Boy Heavily Rescues a Child From Drowning.

DROWSED HIMSELF IN RED WINE.

Co-wited by a Burglar—Ordered His Divorced Wife—Accidentally Shot—Ruined by Whisky.

L. Bronchette was accidentally shot in the hip Monday afternoon on the San Pablo road, Cal. He was riding on the back seat of a wagon, holding a shotgun between his legs, when the hammer struck suddenly and the gun was discharged. The chances for his recovery are doubtful.

Hansom C. Johnson, a Norwegian steamboat steward, shot and killed his divorced wife, Lois Lane, at San Pedro Monday morning and then ended his own life by sending a bullet into his brain. Mrs. Lane had left Johnson because of her mother, it is said, and had married Lane.

G. M. Schilling, the concerted pickpocket who left Pittsburg April 25, Chicago May 15, Omaha June 8, Cheyenne July 2, Salt Lake City July 14, Ogden July 24, and Sacramento August 21, in his walk across the country, arrived in San Francisco August 24. He wore out ten pairs of shoes on his trip.

An enterprising burglar performed a remarkable feat in the house of Mr. Wallings in South Santa Monica, Cal., Monday night. Wallings awoke and thought he heard a noise. Thinking to head off possible burglars, he took a shotgun and went to the rear of the house, where he hid behind a tree. Never a further sound did he hear, but while he was on his vigil a burglar entered the house unobserved, took a watch and a sum of money from under the pillow on which Mrs. Wallings' head was resting and without waking her, departed with the stolen property.

According to the Omaha Bee-Sunman 2,662 Utah sheep, mostly lambs, were sold at the South Omaha stockyards on Tuesday. The lambs brought $3.60 and $4.00. T. Stuart, of Franklin, Idaho, had consigned two cars of cattle to that market; H. K. Bogart, of Thompson, Utah, sixteen cars cattle; F. J. Gossey, of Montpelier, Idaho, eleven cars, and G. F. Bockstael & Co., of Park City, Utah, three cars. C. A. Reeves, of Utah, also had a consignment of cattle, as did E. O. Turner of Logan. A. C. Rose and D. O. Turner of Logan, Utah, were in town looking after shipments of cattle.

Dissipation and bad associations caused F. C. Laudrum, a well-known spokesman, Wash., attorney, to commit suicide by taking morphine. Laudrum, who has been drinking heavily for several months, returned Saturday night from Seattle and took a room at the Grand hotel. At 5 o'clock Monday afternoon the chambermaid, finding the door locked, notified the clerk and the door was forced open. Laudrum was found on the bed alone dead. Three letters were found, in one of which he said: "I have been driven to do this by business reverses brought on solely by my uncontrollable appetite for liquor."

But for the heroism of Lois Le May, a sixteen-year-old lad, who boards of a wooden leg, six-year-old Gilbert Cope would have been drowned Sunday evening. The child lives with his parents near the north end of the bridge connecting Tiburon and Belvedere, Cal. At the time of the accident he was amusing himself by falling from the end of a spring board that is used by the boys for diving from the bridge. In the excitement attending the catching of a fish he fell from the porch into the deep channel below. Quite a number of people witnessed the accident, but no one ventured an attempt at rescue until Le May made a dive to the water, and though hampered by his artificial limb succeeded in rescuing the drowning child.

There was an astounding showing made at the inquest at Irvington Thursday morning on the body of Frederick Ekenberg, who died there suddenly two days ago. It was shown that Ekenberg and two companions were released from the Santa Clara county jail a week ago, and, to properly celebrate the event, bought thirty-three gallons of sheep red wine. They got an even start on it, and Ekenberg drank his share, or eleven gallons. It took several days to do it, and during the spree none of the trio ate any food. It proved too much for Ekenberg, and he died. As may be supposed, the autopsy showed that death was due to acute alcoholism and the want of nourishment, and the jury brought in a verdict to that effect. Ekenberg was a tramp, and nothing was brought out at the inquest that would throw any light on his antecedents.

A WOMAN'S WAY OUT OF IT.

SHE SCORED A VICTORY BY STARTING DISCUSSION ON BLOOMERS.

(Chicago Post.)

The new woman smoothed out her bloomers and looked at her husband thoughtfully for a few minutes before speaking.

"Henry," she said at last, "there is a little point in parliamentary law that I would like to discuss with you."

His bosom swelled with pride, for it was not often that she came to him for information or advice, now that she had assumed bifurcated garments.

"There are some rather intricate points in the rules of parliamentary procedure that would puzzle a novice," he asserted, and the deuced you get in points like this nuts—we wicked pa—because that it is a right handy thing to have the old man around occasionally to refer complicated questions to. What is it you want to get at now?"

"Why, you see, a most important matter came up at the meeting of our club last night," she explained, "and just as we were about to take a vote on it I discovered that I was backed up a minority only. Consequently it was necessary to postpone action and the question with me was how it could be done."

She paused and he knitted his brows and looked wise.

"The other side had a good working majority, I suppose?" he said inquiringly.

"Oh, yes," she answered, "I found that we didn't have a ghost of a show as matters stood then."

"Yes, yes, of course," he said, thoughtfully. "I admit it was rather a knotty problem for a novice to solve, and yet there are several things that might be done with some promise of success, although not with a certainty. Now, if I had been there I——"

She was looking at him with such evident scorn that he stopped.

"With all your boasted experience and assumptive pose you couldn't think of a parliamentary move that would make success certain," she said.

"Certainly not," he replied. "Could you?"

"Easily," she answered. "It was the easiest thing in the world to say one who was being resurrected. I started a discussion of bloomers and elements was the meeting suddenly broke up in a row before a vote could be taken on anything."

HUNTING SEALS.

Of a Dangerous Character of the Position of the Hunters.

The responsibility of the reporter frequently involves and hunters to danger, says a writer in the New York Press. The seals are shot from a promontory. Then the hunter is lowered on a rope by his comrades 100 or 200 feet to the slippery spot where the seal lies, where the dead seal lies. He quickly slips the animal. A small boat from the ship waits outside for surf line ready to carry the hides away. A small line is fixed adjacent to the hunter, who ties the hides as it one by one, and the last is hauled, the hunter is drawn to the top of the cliff, and another hunter is sought for more game. The surf about these deserted islands is very high and is one of the obstacles of the seal hunter.

The hair seal is from the seal's mouth are highly prized by Chinamen, and large quantities are exported to China. The Chinese mount these hairs with gold for use as toothpicks and cosmetics. Many parts of the animals are dried and shipped to China for use in the native medicine, who claim that they effect marvelous cures with the medicine made from these parts.

The sea lions are rather rare in their way. They make a good deal of sea food occasionally. When the gulls are flying overhead, a lion will dive and swim some distance under water from the point where he disappeared. He approaches the surface carefully, allowing merely the tip of his black nose to show above the surface. By giving his body a rotary motion this nose tip makes circles on the ocean, and, to the eye of the flying gull, resembles a wounded or prey. With a scuff, the unwarned gull rushes down from its station above like a bolt from a gun. The lion spins a few inches, and as the gull hits the water with tremendous impetus the jaws close mercilessly on the sea fowl, and it is hauled below the surface and devoured.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before the properties—gentle effects—pleasant effects—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and in every where esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skilled physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Lock of vitality and color-matter in the hair cause the hair to fall out and turn gray. We recommend Hall's Hair Renewer to prevent baldness and grayness.

The hair when not properly cared for, loses its lustre, becomes crisp, harsh and dry, and falls out freely with every combing. To prevent this the best dressing in the market is Ayer's Hair Vigor. It imparts that silky glossy appearance so essential to perfect beauty.

Mr. Natonial Mortonson, a well-known citizen of Hopewell, Mich., and editor Superior Pointer, who, for a long time suffered from the most excruciating pains of rheumatism, was cured, eight years ago, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, having never felt a twinge of it since.
