GOOD GAME AT OGDEN.

Short Lines Defeat the Local Nine by the Score of 8-4.

Twenty-five hundred people witnessed the game in Ogden between the Short Lines and the home team yesterday afternoon. The boys of the railroad town suffered defeat to the tune of 8-4 but it was a good game.

Fully 400 people in the crowd came from Salt Lake and they had money to bet on the event too, consequently there was some reported dollars in town this morning while up the line there a quite a smoking of rare sports.

At 2:30 the Short Lines took the bat and Miller opened the ball and pounded Walker and Taylor then stepped up in the order and fanned the study all, being unable to find Hansford's curve ball.

McCausland, who went up to the Junction city to catch for the Optimes did not don the mask, on account of the protest started by Charley Pulsipher and kept up by others equally as persistent, the Salt Lakers was retired to the bench and Henry caught the game.

For the railroaders Miller, Marquette and "Sandy" MacPartlane played good ball while Taylor, after he settled down to business, twirled the sphere to the demolition of the Ogdenite corps.

The home team played good ball and fought hard to capture the game, but Captain Smith in the right field had battered fingers at a critical point of the game and two Short Lines arrived home ahead of the ball.

The afternoon was an ideal one and neither the weather nor anything else squelching marred the game at any stage.
