SENTENCE DAY

[illegible] the Bedlam [illegible] by Philip Jetter. [illegible]

[illegible] COURT.

The Theft of Cigars from Pendleton's Wine Cellar.—An Alleged Informer Near Bingham Canyon, Etc.

In the Third District court this morning, upon the application of Assistant District Attorney Stephens, the judge made an order that the case of Jack Bolton (alleged false pretenses) which was ignored by the last grand jury, should be re-submitted by the grand jury for the next term. Mr. Stephens said complaint had been made to him that all the witnesses were not examined on the recent investigation of the charge.

A STYLISH DEFENDANT.

F. A. Passmore was arraigned on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, and the trial was set for the 16th inst. W. H. Dickson is the defendant's counsel. Passmore is the stylish young man who has had such a romantic career in California. He appeared in court this morning fashionably attired and has quite an aristocratic air.

The case of Albert Kerm was next mentioned. This morning was set for sentence and also for the hearing of the argument on the motion for a new trial by Attorney Armstrong. It was agreed, however, that the matter should go over for a week. Kerm is the tough who stole a suit of money from the house of Mr. Wm. Wood, under threats. He is a young man of about twenty-five, with a record by no means unsullied.

HE HAD "NO DEFINITE IDEA."

James Ransom, aged 40, came next for sentence, having been convicted of burglarizing the tailoring establishment of Phillip Spry.

In answer to the court, defendant said he was a peddler. His home was in Massachusetts, but he had not been there for a number of years.

Judge Zane—What did you do with the goods you stole?

Defendant—I didn't have them.

Judge Zane—Who did have them, then?

Defendant—I've no definite idea; I cannot tell.

Sentence, two years in the penitentiary.

FOR STEALING CIGARS.

Henry Pugh, who had plead guilty to stealing cigars from the cellar of Pendleton & Co., wine merchants of Main street, also came up for sentence.

Mr. Cherry, the defendant's attorney, said he had made inquiries as to Pugh's antecedents and found that, as an engineer, he had been working in this city for about fifteen years. He was a married man with three children. Counsel handed in two letters of recommendation from his former employers. He had had no employment since the beginning of the year and was tempted to commit this theft to raise some little money toward the support of his family.

Defendant worked merly elevator engineer in the Wasatch building, and got through a partition in the basement into Messrs. Hirschler's cellar, where a considerable number of cigars were stored. He was charged with stealing $5,000.

Defendant, who said he had never before been convicted of a crime, was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

THEY NOW KNOW WHEN.

The sentence upon Charles Ford (assault) will be passed on Saturday, the 19th inst.; also the same on Charles Thiele, convicted of selling liquor on a Sunday.

SOMETHING "OUTRIGHTEOUS."

The trial of the case of Zerubiabel Wood, indicted for maintaining a nuisance near the mouth of Bingham canyon, was then proceeded with. The prosecution was represented by Judge Powers and Attorney Eichner; Attorney Wetmore defended.

Yesterday afternoon William Stowell, the sanitary inspector was tried for being concerned in the same offense, but after the taking of some evidence Assistant District Attorney Stephens, who prosecuted, consented to a verdict of not guilty being entered.

The offense consisted in the alleged boiling down in a furnace, in the locality above named, the carcasses of dead animals and offal, the smoke from which was described by witnesses as being almost "overpowering."

The case, it was announced, would last all day.

The Shooting Match.

At the shooting match of the Salt Lake Gun Club yesterday afternoon some fine marksmanship was exhibited.

Blue rock pigeons were used, twenty singles and twelve doubles, the score being as follows:

IN BLACK AND WHITE.

The Federated Trades Activ Assail the Territorial Legislators.

At the meeting of the Trades Council last night the following resolution was adopted:

Delegate Voss stated that legislation upon this the session of the legislature is all set ready to introduce, having established an existence for yesterday.

From beginning to end, there never was a session where the majority of the members—Democrat and Liberal alike—developed an earnest desire to carry out the wishes of the working people, as expressed at the polls. From beginning to end labor measures have been shelved or emasculated, and the only one which passed, the eight-hour law, underwent such a mutilation after debate, again and again, that at the hands of men who stood their pledges to the voters, it was so far from being a measure for the benefit of the working men to use the weapon which the Farmers' Alliance so effectually used against the billion-dollar Congress. Party platforms are made to amount, political honesty, therefore, no trust should be placed in them. Our legislators, the workers should be forewarned. Vote for no candidate for the Legislature who is not pledged in black and white over his own signature. Respectfully submitted.

PETER CORRIGAN, Chairman.

The committee appointed to visit a Main street clothing establishment that carried a stock of "cash" tailor goods (that had been manufactured by non-union workmen), reported that they had called on the proprietor and he was extremely sorry for being so "unwise" as to purchase that class of goods. Hereafter he would avoid such action and be found on the side of right. The visit was the cause satisfactory.

A circular was submitted by the Brotherhood of Carpenters. The circular so far been mailed to every builder in the city. It announces that commencing May 1st eight hours will constitute a day's labor, and that it shall be the minimum wages. It was decided that all the affiliated trades should sustain the carpenters in their demands.

The other business was of a routine character.

UTAH LEGISLATURE.

COUNCIL.

SATURDAY MORNING.

The bonding bill, labeled C. F. 87, providing for the issuing of bonds for current and other expenses was returned from the House with amendments.

The amendment made by the House to section 1, raising the amount for bonding purposes from $200,000 to $300,000, was concurred in by the Council, and the bill passed, Hayes and Moran voting "no."

Greaves introduced the following bill:

Sec. 1. That the office of Territorial librarian, as created by the act of the Territorial Legislature, approved March 13th, 1890, entitled "An act providing for and regulating the Utah Territorial Library," be and the same is hereby abolished, and all the duties of said office, as defined in said act, are hereby devolved upon and shall be performed by the clerk of the Supreme Court of said Territory; and the sum of one thousand dollars is hereby appropriated of the moneys of said Territory not otherwise appropriated to be drawn by said clerk as compensation for such services for the years 1892 and 1893, one half to be paid in the year 1892 and one half in the year 1893, payable quarterly."

Rules suspended and bill passed and sent to the House.

A communication was received from the governor, nominating Josiah Burnett, cashier McCormick's bank, as Territorial treasurer. Communication referred to the committee on judiciary.

The committee on contingent expenses submitted the following expenses: Jerome Schneider, official stenographer, $65, H. C. Beadale, assistant enrolling clerk, $75; sanitary expenses, $331.75. Report adopted.

An informal recess was then taken at 12:30 p. m., subject to the call of the president.

HOUSE.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON.—THE CLOSING HOURS.

At 1:10 the bonding bill was taken up and passed. It fixes the amount to which the people may become indebted at $300,000.

C. F. 153, relating to the management of the Territorial library, was taken up and passed. It provides that the clerk of the supreme court shall be ex officio librarian with an allowance of $100 a year therefor.

At 2:15 the session was still dragging its slow length along, the members sitting around and assuming somewhat the appearance of a flock of bears whose hives has been robbed.

At 2:30 the situation was unchanged, the thermometer had not returned the appropriation bill or given any intimation as to its pleasure regarding that or any other measure since the communication sent in early this morning.

THE DAVIS-FIELD CASE.

The Defendant Admits Guilt in the Grand Jury, but Says he was Entrapped, etc., etc.

Yesterday, Caldwell substitution took place between Ninth and Tenth Federal, was investigated in Commissioner Greene's court this morning, Mr. Dickson, United States District Attorney, Varian prosecuting and Attorney J. H. Moyle defending. The hearing did not occupy more than twenty minutes.

The first witness was John W. Dangerfield, son of the defendant by the legal wife, who gave evidence to the effect that his father slept at home every night.

Mrs. White, mother of Little Morris, the defendant's alleged plural wife, testified that she was in the habit of visiting her daughter's house about twice every week. During the last three years she had not seen Mr. Dangerfield there at any time. They did not visit together at witness' house.

Little Morris, the second wife, stated that her eldest child was about nine years of age and the youngest would be two years and three months old on the 19th inst. From the birth of the youngest child down to the time of the hearing of the Cutlich incident the defendant occasionally called at her house with small results for some length of time, but this was only when she herself met him on account of the sickness of the child, who was a little invalid, and during the greater part of the time since its birth had been sick. About the time the incident was noised abroad the defendant mutually agreed to obey the law, and had done so ever since. Although Mr. Dangerfield had called at the house on various occasions since then, it was only to see the sick child, and at her own request.

A brother of Miss Morris, who has been accustomed to pay frequent visits to the sister's house, said he had not seen the defendant there more than twice in the last two years. On each occasion he came to see the sick child it was in the evening. The last time was quite six months ago.

Mr. Varian submitted the case without argument, and Mr. Moyle followed the same course.

The commissioner, after about five minutes' consideration, said—I think under the circumstances this case is one which the grand jury should investigate, and therefore I will hold the defendant. In my opinion there are circumstances in it which go to show that possibly there was an offense committed within the statute. I think the grand jury should decide upon it, however, and therefore I will fix the bond at $1000.

The fund of the alleged plural wife, as a witness, was fixed at $500.

Mr. Moyle—The defendant's bond is not a continuing bond?

The Commissioner—No.

Thrown From a Buggy.

Henry Merrill, an engineer working at one of the Bingham mines, met with a serious accident on Thursday afternoon while journeying from South Jordan. The horse which he was driving—a spirited animal—took fright at a railroad train and bolted, throwing Mr. Merrill from the buggy. He fell a distance of about twenty feet and was quite severely bruised. The injuries are thought to be not dangerous, however, and he will be able to be about in a few days.

The horse landed in a gully not far from where Mr. Merrill fell, with the vehicle on top. After some difficulty it was rescued from its awkward position.

RELIEF SOCIETY JUBILEE.

Important Notice to the Members of the Organization.

The Relief Society Jubilee meeting which is to be held on Thursday, March 17, at 10 o'clock a. m. in the Assembly Hall, or Tabernacle, is for the city wards and all the Relief Society members and brethren, sisters and friends of the same residing here are most cordially invited to attend the services, but this meeting is not expected to interfere with the whole-hearted in the several wards, in which gatherings all are expected to participate in some way, and can be reached and made happy and happy better than in one great gathering. Each branch of the Relief Society is requested to be prepared to have a programme of some sort and to include in it the reading of the sketch of the Relief Society, that all who can may be informed concerning its inception, benefits, and most like our family in harmony and in praise and thanksgiving to our Father in heaven for the birth of this important organization, which has through His blessing accomplished so much for the benefit of the needy, the sick, the afflicted, the sorrowing, and for the uplifting of humanity.

Jottings From Randolph.

(Correspondence of the DESERET NEWS.)

On the 4th inst., the much-talked-of Rich County concert took place at Randolph. It was a great success. Professor Wesley E. Walton and Peter McKinnon conducted. About seventy-five voices, with organ, violin and cornet accompaniment, was something new for Rich County. The singing was excellent, both solos and choruses. The Lake Town brass band from the roof of the court house, made themselves heard all over the town. In the concert they received a full share of applause. The band is a little more than one year old, but under the leadership of Prof. Joseph Robinson the members are making rapid progress. The hall was filled on the occasion.

The Garden City Dramatic Troupe played Saturday night, also at Woodruff to full houses, for the benefit of Emil Valentine, a young man called to go on a mission to Germany. Brother Emil will receive over $50 from the two towns to help him on his way.

Spring is here again and the cattle are being turned on the ranges. The snow is fast disappearing from our streets, but plenty is stored in the mountains for summer use.

Our town now boasts of five stores, two sawmills, planed lumber, two blacksmiths' and one carpenter's shops. We are here to stay. J. S.

RANDOLPH, Utah, March 7, 1892.

WE BOUGHT THEM.

From a Number of Whom Name and Whereabouts the Said on Kin Whether.

Jerome Rivers, a negro and sneaky Texan, was ushered into the presence of Justice Goss, this morning, on a charge of appropriating a couple of shed crowbars from the tool box of some of the city's workmen. The crowbars were found in his house when at the time of his arrest, but he protested that he was innocent and said he had purchased the tools from a man whom some minutes of reflection he knew nothing of. This scheme was desperate resort to establish innocence was not transparent. The court adjudged him guilty of petit larceny. Sentence was deferred until this evening.

The Davis is explained on the trial under a petty theft. On Monday he will have an opportunity of explaining matters to the court.

Rivers was also charged having drunk sufficient whisky to "make a fool" of himself. This admission cost him $5.

VIENNA, March 12.—A blizzard is raging in Northern and Southern Hungary. The snow has made the roads impassable, the trains are imbedded, and the traffic in Vienna has been suspended for hours.

Yellow Fever in Brazil.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 12.—The city Monitor February 16, says: According to private accounts from Santos, the yellow fever situation has become intolerable. The authorities are utterly incompetent to cope with the epidemic. Assistance from private sources are totally inscrutable.

It blames the authorities for stirring up the fever germs in the river, paying no attention to sanitary requirements, and allowing great accumulations of freight and Merchandise of shipping, and yellow fever vessels not to clear for that port.

Of the situation in Rio de Janeiro it says: We have now reached a death rate of over thirty daily which may be considered an epidemic. Shipping is beginning to suffer severely and unless something is done soon, it is more than first hand in a position little better than that of Santos.

The stories about the hospital treatment in Santos are terrible. A man named Beemer sent a boy to Misericordia Friday afternoon with a note. Saturday evening he went to see the boy and was told he had died. Any care or care until he went to the dead house, where he found the lad still alive and conscious.

The Appalling Mine Explosion.

BRUSSELS, March 12.—There is still excitement about Charleroi, near which place the appalling explosion occurred in Anderlue colliery yesterday. A fire is still burning in the lower gallery. Debris and carcasses of forty horses block the approach to the gallery where the bodies lie known to be. Twenty-one persons, two hundred and seventy persons were working in the mine at the time of the explosion. Most of them were saved. The fire in the place where the greatest damage was done. Mining experts say that probably every person working in the lower gallery must be dead, and they are expected to be rescued from the upper gallery which is filled with deadly gases. Thirty bodies have been recovered. The fact that many women and children were employed in the mine and not death by the explosion, can well afford an almost unanswerable argument against employing female labor in underground employment.

That you can make your own hand lotion, to be used in case of fire, by adding one ounce of glycerine with the following: Chloride of lime, one drachm; twenty parts common salt, five parts; water, seventy-five parts? Those who have used this lotion report that they keep this solution handy, and throw it with the pump.

That you can clean your lace kettle with a solution of sal soda (washing soda)? Apply with thumb, wash off, and polish with chamois-skin.

That, if you drop acid on your clothes, and have no ammonia, application of ammonia will destroy the effect?

That you can keep butter and milk fresh a long time in warm weather by adding a little saleratus to the milk or put in a wet cloth and inverting it over the butter or milk? The external evaporation cools the contents.

That you can make your own white-wine vinegar by adding five gallons of rain water to 16 pounds of washed raisins and letting it stand in a warm place for a month?

The Double Kettle.
A double kettle is a very excellent thing for some kinds of cookery, but there are many dishes which cannot be prepared satisfactorily with it. It is impossible for one such utensil to be used successfully for everything, though some of our cooks seem to be under the impression that it is rather bitter cooked in a single pound-land kettle, which in the way it is cooked is fried meat, though there the kettle is not used at all. Fried meat is a dish better in the new stand we have to make soft custard in a Hollenshe stew and many other things. You cannot make chocolate successfully in it, however.—New York Tribune.
