ing more like the general every day, though he will seldom have that rapped appearance of the designers of Love. Both men were mentioned as candidates for the vice presidency, and some of the St. Louis papers think the matter greatly in hand. "Why not Sewall?" asked Colonel Grant, in a gold mace. It is New York against Colorado.

Fair, industrious, thinking woman expects to go for her share of voting in Utah this year. And another free South American under who sun she secured the right of suffrage, was compelled to return to her native country at the point. In Knoxville, a female water boiler, three miles from a polling place, as well as dozens over by reason of her health, she will probably be unable to vote at the polling place, on polling day, and go so through the possibilities with sufficient precision made to secrecy.

Young men in politics frequently find their age, or rather their lack of it, against them. Their age could be made the riper wisdom and more nearly approaching judgment that brings or sound follow the men who have seen years of public service. The nominees is sometimes but not always true. If the man be to the "Pioneer test" then as in the case of Mr. Sewall, Maine, Ohio, the much-abused Democratic and the harmonized Goldbeiss, all of whom begins their political career very early in life, yet can to so very be considered a disadvantage. In American politics now government is too amazing to the fresh. The veterans who in the long ago fought for Liberty are being rapidly retired to the comparative quiet of the council chamber. Old men of council, young men for war is an adamantine rule that has an unvarying application.

One of the impressive and argumentative speakers at the Chicago convention was Charles Lodge, a free silver man from Illinois. Lodge bears a strong personal resemblance to the "boy orator of the Platte" and during the great gathering of Democrats was frequently taken for him and after the nomination received congratulations calculated for the young Nebraskan. "A: Mr. Bryan; so glad to see you!" exclaimed one of "Uncle" Horace Boies's erstwhile supporters as he pushed himself through the crowd in a Palmer House rotunda after the convention had adjourned. The Illinois man "turned on" a benign Bryan smile and the Iowa delegate quickly delivered himself of the following: "I worked for you from start to finish and I am so glad you won, sir, by the way." He continued in a confidential tone, "Don't forget about that post office down my way." "O, I never forget anything! you'll get it. Come around to see me just as sure as my name is Bryan." And the prospective p. m. went away delighting himself in the promise that had come to him out of the debris of his own "Uncle Horace" of Iowa.

It is said that Mark Hanna, the shrewd political manager of McKinley first met the latter when a strike was in progress at Hanna's coal mines near Canton. McKinley was acting as counsel for the strikers and Hanna liked his attitude. Subsequently it is stated they found themselves looking in the same room, delegates in the convention which finally nominated Garfield. Hanna was in Blaine and McKinley was a day and night Sherman adherent. At one stage of the proceedings a Blaine plot was in progress, whereby the convention was to be stampeded and rushed for Blaine. The conspirators felt the need of telling Hanna, in the end that he could rely on aid to the upset at the first flip of the blanket. They came quietly in by means of a key of one their number, who had went to the McKinley-Hanna room. In the darkness they mistook the sleeping McKinley for Hanna, and, running into the strikers' friend, he laid self-awakened into visions of their plot. They told him very fully how Sherman was to be rushed, how he, McKinley, was to be nominated, and now, as a chance, the nomination was to go to Blaine for a launchin. "It's all very interesting, gentlemen," said McKinley at the close, "but you've made a mistake. I'm for Sherman delegat." The Blaine delegat, "pronounced a Scots Hanna's accent, under darkest and presently, "Ye Jesus Christ gate o'er that!" McKinley, however, seem to be of it stillness to the Scots Hanna, by he had so thoroughly only been tits.

COLONEL ADAMS.

LAST CHURCH.

A Silver-Lined Sermon Which Is Certainly Worth Having.

D. C. Jones, in the stock of a prominent mining company, was asked a silver lined sermon which he had heard in Denver only yesterday. The location of the property will not be divulged at the text, suffice it to say that the doctrine has been taken from a district which is in a corporation disposed, and is very rich, and that after reading the sermon, a number of men left the church and $4 for the mining property.

The mine itself is rich enough in conscience and the sermon was preached in Denver, 1893, and it is said, without profit thus far to any one. Without quoting facts from 1893, the Times-Herald will show in the sermon that the property cannot be successfully opened at

INSTRUCTIONS AS TO PROCESSION

The arranging of the processions according to the foregoing directions is in the hands of a committee consisting of Richard W. Young, chairman, David McKean, W. S. Burton, E. A. Smith, Junius F. Wells, F. W. Jennings, J. H. Moyle, Robert S. Campbell, Thomas Hull and A. H. Weeks. In order that the map may be as little confused and confusion as possible in the movement of the cortege the committee desire those contemplating following the remains to form in the order given in the following directions: Carriages for the family, pall bearers and quarterly, will be identified by the Temple gate, Union square and Temple gate. Other carriages will take places as follows: Those in every individuals and their families included within side divisions 9, 12 and 13 will form and be entered at the east gate of the tabernacle, consequence for others not included in the above announcement will form and be entered on Richards street. The committee desires that all conveyances having drivers will report on Main block 3 p.m. to the member of the committee to assign at the proper place as indicated above. Every driver should carefully ascertain where our place is to be driving, and those intending to go in the procession should give instructions to the drivers where and where to report. The committee will provide each driver with a number; those having carriages will report at the time of the services to the committee in charge, and receive proper conveyance with be called up. Those not having drivers will come to the proper place as indicated above as soon as possible after the dismissal of the congregation and will be assigned their places.

The procession will move out of the south gate, passing on the east side of the Temple square. The order of march will be as follows: The pall bearers will move out of Richards's street leaving room at the west of the Office Building. The hearse will be followed by the family in carriages, and will run a number of cars to the country conducting their movements as nearly as this is to the north side of the procession.

DR. BENDRICK'S DEATH.

The End Came Shortly Before Midnight Saturday.

Dr. J. M. Bendrick, one of the best known physicians in the world, passed from the scene of action shortly before one o'clock yesterday afternoon, from Knight's disease after a lingering illness of several weeks' duration. He leaves a wife and two children to mourn his departure.

The deceased began his profession in Salt Lake City, where he resided and practiced his profession for many years. Subsequently he moved to Denver, 1893, and in the Rocky Mountains he made a fortune. Without quitting Salt Lake 1893-94-95. These figures are uniform facts and show in the clearest light how the property cannot be successfully opened at here, to which circumstance he was very active member.

Dr. Bendrick was a genial companionable man, and in a few years received national attention of his talents, which their circumstances, Somebody, which not permit of their paying for such services.

Dr. Bendrick was born at Keith Co., Ohio, 1844, and received his early and medical faculty. In the winter of 1869, he moved to Lake Island, New York, and his parents, in the next five years was a student of Union Hall University, at Jamaica, Long Island. From there he went to the medical department of the New York University, where he graduated, and in the year 1869, with the degree of A.B. and P. D.

The funeral will take place tomorrow at 11 a. m. from the family residence, 326 east, Third South street, and the remains will be in state from 9 to 10:30 a. m.

Be Must Resign.

About the time the News goes to press today the members of the Salt Lake Stock Exchange will hold a meeting. At it, those who are present will learn, through a note from Col. Dennehy, that he will have to resign on resigning from the presidency of the exchange. He will also state in fitting terms than before, his reason for so doing, and likely express to the members his feeling of gratitude for the kindly esteem and respect in which they hold him. His successor will say doubt by Mr. E. H. Allen, one of the vice-presidents of the organization.

The above information was given the News today by Colonel Dennehy himself, when asked whether or not he intended wintering up his resignation. He said in reply, "I will not deny and do so by offering official, as my present duties are more than I am able to bear, without taking on any further responsibilities. I realize the good feeling which the members of that body entertain towards me and their desire for it, but I must respectfully decline from acting longer as the president thereof."

THE DALTON AND LARK

Its Mill Destroyed by Fire Yesterday Afternoon.

The Dalton and Lark mill at Bingham was burned to the ground yesterday afternoon, from an not cause as seems to know. The mill employes were celebrating Pioneer Day and everything was quiet throughout when the electric conflagration occurred. The fire started at the east end of the mill, a distance away from the boiler, and everyone up the lines cannot be attributed to that cause.

The mill was at one time the property of the old Lexington company, subsequently it was sold to the Dalton and leased from that company by the Dalton and Lark people who have been working it for some time past. Its approximate value was $25,000, upon which there is insurance amounting to about $18,000. It is believed that the mill will be a total loss.

Mr. Schenck, manager of the company, was not in the property this morning, and as Mr. Landers, the general representative of the insurance companies, is expected to be here, he will commence an adjustment of the loss at once. The insurance companies are represented locally by W. E. Smedley & Co.

DRILL, DRILL, DRILL.

Slowly but Surely the East Golden Gate is Being Penetrated.

Drilling on the East Golden Gate proceeds very slowly and surely at the rate of from 25 to 30 feet per day. The work is creating considerable interest in mining circles owing to the fact that it is entirely experimental in this section of country, although it has been carried on to a very great and beneficial extent in the African gold fields. Mr. Hendricks, who is interested from the property yesterday, is hopeful that the work will be brought with good results and that when a depth of about 1,000 feet is attained, valuable ore will be encountered.

The drill used is identical with that operated in Africa, and is known as the "South African." The extent of the boring will be about 3,000 feet, and it is what is now an experiment in these calm process consisting in fixed that, there will other companies follow in the wake of the East Golden Gate, and employ Mr. Hedrings, who is doing the work, to perform a similar service for them.

TOUCHING TRIBUTES.

Resolutions of Sympathy and Respect for Apostle Abraham H. Cannon.

HONESTY AND INTEGRITY PRAISED.

Kind and Appreciative Words from the Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade.

The Chamber of Commerce this afternoon entered its appreciation of the life and services of Apostle Abraham H. Cannon by the unanimous adoption of the following tribute to his memory:

ANOTHER HONEST TRIBUTE.

The board of regulation expresses its regret at the death of Mr. Cannon in the following resolutions:

This board having learned of the death of Hon. Abraham H. Cannon, a loved citizen of Utah, and one of the men upon the deliberations of which upon its records a tribute of respect to his memory.

To Abraham H. Cannon Utah had a son of whom she could well be proud. At an early age called to a high office, he discharged the duties with much fidelity and manly dignity so to win for his memory the affection of his people, and as his good fortune, strength and wisdom, to many gazing into the future the form of Abraham H. Cannon loomed up like a prophet pointing to greater days.

Honesty and integrity were conspicuous attributes in large extent for national prosperity. No man stood upon his political shoulders to be more honored, nominated these important duties as if by the manner born, and crowned by his fellow citizens, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." Honest, kind, generous, and in to itself a foreteller of success.

Grateful to every true, his life and work will be a living example for men to follow.

Not a few days ago and he stood before us elegant and lovely, honest and true, and of commanding personality, and now we gather from the ashes and evidence of man's mortality. In a day, as it were, a giver among men has been snatched from us, and hopes of thousands vanished forever.

It remains for us to write these few words and offer our sympathy, that the pride of a father and the hope of a people is gone. The blessed which shines so brightly in high place, the time was to lower which has for all to end and will. A career which would have become illustrious in the annals of Utah's world.

To his family we offer our sympathy, and in common with the people of Utah we mourn.

The members of the board of directors of the Salt Lake Chamber of Commerce, extend to the relatives and friends of the late Abraham H. Cannon their sincere and heartfelt sympathy.

The untimely death of Mr. Cannon comes from his connection with an ideal citizen who generously and unhesitatingly gave to the promotion of every interest has been effective and energy.

His was a generous and imperial mind, and his life, illustrated by conscientious demeanor, and just, and noble endeavors, exists a personal model for the young sons of Utah of this day and generation.

"Thou art himself" and every exertion of the heart, he could not fail to have what he taken from the grave, the affection and affection of every person whose good fortune it was to be admitted to his intimate and cordial friendship.

A faithful adherent to the religion he professed, he exemplified its teaching in every act of his life. He was inherently good, all of his traits were beautiful, and his manifold virtues were given greater splendor by his unfathering trust in his Maker, and by his entire confidence in the rules of his faith.

In his private life he was the embodiment of purity, simplicity and affection—a consideration for those around him.

In positions of trust he was faithful in a high degree.

In all matters of public concern he took an intense interest, and by that he found a place in the hearts of people which irresistibly set in their course.

In all scholarly attainments he had reached a position very nearly the highest in the country. Of a generous nature, which made him honored by every hearth involved in the home.

Honest and honorable, he never was filled with anxiety and was characterized by commanding ability.

Many, and of great men, were the attributes of Mr. Cannon, and because of them—though dead—he will still live in the affections of the people of Utah.

For many years he was an active member of this chamber, and at the time of his death was its first vice president. To the interest which he took in its affairs, in his wise counsel and sounding judgment, is due in great measure the success of some of the chamber's recent years. He has to this time been irreparable, and is a loss to the commonwealth which he so long and so faithfully served.

A SACRAMENTO LOCATION.

The Prospector's Company Prepares for Active Operations.

Mr. Hugh Cleary of the Prospector's Gold Mining company, owning properties in Centerville canyon and elsewhere, informed the News today that Mr. Howard, one of the same company, had made a good location in the Bullion canyon, Marysvale, assays of ore from which were now being taken up by the Salt Lake City.

The samples sent in by Mr. Howard were from the face of the tunnel, and the indications are that the shaft now being sunk will be reached in a few days. If it comes up to expectations, it is the intention of the company to commence development work at once. Mr. Cleary also reports that work is being actively prosecuted on the Centerville properties.

NOT A SICK DAY For Over Thirty Years!

RESULT OF USING

AYER'S PILLS

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills for thirty thirty years have kept me in good health. Since I first used them, I have not a sick day. Before I was twenty I suffered almost continually—as a result of constipation—from dyspepsia, headaches, neuralgia, and other results of the disease. When I became convinced that nine-tenths of my troubles were caused by constipation, I began the use of Ayer's Pills, with the most satisfactory results, never having a single attack that did not readily yield to this mild cathartic. My wife has also found them so for years, she begins to use Ayer's Pills, and her health was quickly restored. With my children I find no trouble in regard to constipation, and I attribute the absence of sickness among them to the fact that they have been kept free from this obstacle to health by the use of Ayer's Pills."

A LIGHT FOR THIEDE

Is It Possible That the Condemned Man Is Innocent?

A LAWYER OFFERS HIS SERVICES.

And Ex-Judge Hiram Rich Thinks the Evidence Insufficient to Hang by.

What at present appears to be a streak of promising light through the dark and lowering cloud hanging over the doomed head of Charlie Thiede, has developed itself within the past few days. On Wednesday last Mr. C. A. Schmidt of Salt Lake received a letter from Attorney J. M. Hamilton of this city, which contained cheering news for Thiede.

Mr. Schmidt is a brother-in-law of Thiede and is very much interested in anything that would tend to lighten the sentence or free the man against whom circumstantial evidence seems to be so strong. The letter was as follows:

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah,
July 22, 1896.

To C. A. Schmidt, Esq., address:

Dear Sir—I feel that something can be done for your relative, Charles Thiede, and believing so I do this I can do certain evidence tending to show that some person other than Thiede killed Mrs. Thiede. I will undertake to secure another lawyer to assist me, if, in my opinion, etc., provided I am paid the sum of three hundred and fifty ($350.00) dollars down, the next five ($5.00) hundred and fifty ($550.00) dollars when the case is tried, and the remainder, two hundred ($200.00) dollars when the case is decided, if parties about have commenced said Thiede's sentence from death to imprisonment for life. In the event the death sentence is carried into effect, I am not to have any sum or sums except the above mentioned one hundred and fifty ($150.00) dollars.

Yours, etc.,
J. M. HAMILTON.

Mr. Schmidt had an interview with the lawyer in which he learned that he (Hamilton) was for the present going to Nebraska and Nevada for important witnesses. However, the family had decided to let the matter drop when another letter was received as follows:

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 23, 1896.

To Charles J. Schmidt, Esq., Sandy, Utah:

Dear Sir—I drop you this line to advise you that I am called to Omaha early on Saturday morning. I take it that you and your friends have concluded to wait the result of the trial, and that the interest before doing anything in the line I have suggested. I certainly hope that when the evidence heard the trial shall decide he will see no way clear to have the sentence commuted to life imprisonment, and thus avoid any further trouble or expense. However, should the favorable action be taken, I would like to have you and all parties in interest call and see me Tuesday between 2 and 3 o'clock p.m.

Awaiting you that I feel that Thiede should, be executed on the evidence given, and especially in view of the information I believe that I can get, I am in haste, yours truly,

J. M. HAMILTON,
O'Marie block.

ADAM PAUL, JR.

Ex-Detective Adam Paul also claims to have important evidence given by Thomas Knight before his death, which would show that Mr. Tobias was murdered by a gang of men who were trying to establish an illicit whisky still in the vicinity and who wished to use Thiede's place as a blind for their work. Mr. Paul says Knight, being a chemist, was offered a position as operator of the proposed still at a salary of $150 per month. Knight refused the offer on the ground that of the gang to the danger connected with such an enterprise. One night later Mr. Knight was accosted, and, in the course of the conversation, Tobias was mentioned. Later he was talking to Mrs. Thiede, who knew all about the effort to establish the still, when one of the gang came in and Mrs. Thiede was warned Knight to mind his own business. That night Mrs. Thiede was murdered.

A representative of the News saw Mr. Hamilton this afternoon and he makes the following statement:

"I am very sorry that circumstances force me to consider an article in this morning's issue of the Tribune. I dislike very much to discuss a question so very intimately bad as the question of Thiede's guilt, but I am forced to explain that the article referred to may not cast any reflection upon me.

"Shortly after the trial a reputable person came to my office and unconsciously remarked that they had seen a person coming from Thiede's house in the morning after the murder. Mr. Tobias, who was known to be a very vicious man and had what was supposed to be blood on the left side of his coat, and other suspicious circumstances, I will simply say that it occurred to me that it was possible that this party and not Thiede himself had committed the murder and I mentioned the matter to Mr. Cherry, the attorney on the case, and also showed an interview with the local editor of the Tribune, and the fact was published in that paper a few six or eight months ago.

"This is the testimony that was referred to, I presume, I was asked by Mr. Neely, who was one of the deputy sheriffs of this county, to call and see Thiede. I did not solicit an interview and had no intention of giving anything to Thiede's friend until I was asked.

"The first letter in the Tribune's article of this morning attributed to me was written not by way of soliciting business but at the request of Mr. Schmidt in order that he might show it to his wife and other friends of Thiede.

"The second letter I wrote, thinking that perhaps they might call and secure during my absence in Zoome country.

"I trust that you will publish this explanation, and that I cannot it is be an article of sympathy Thiede, but simply that the public may know that I was asked to act and did not solicit an opportunity to make an effort to save Thiede's sentence commuted.

"I will say in this connection that if my part I would shudder if an outrage and a shame to have the death penalty carried out in Thiede's case, and only by reason of the fact that the evidence was circumstantial, but by reason of the further fact that it is a crime so sudden, the prospect is dark.

"Yours, etc.,
J. M. HAMILTON."

Judge Rich, who is a member of the firm of Rich Brothers, and who is well known to be an ardent Democrat, was seen by a News representative this afternoon and said: "I have read the evidence in the case of Thiede and I think it is insufficient to hang by. I believe that Thiede is innocent, and I think that the board of pardons should commute his sentence to one of life imprisonment. The sheriff will doubtless be compelled to do so."

WANTS FREEDOM.

Mrs. Rose Perry Sues Court to Grant Her a Divorce.

Belle B. Rose is seeking freedom from the bonds which unite her with Louis F. Rose. This morning the lady filed a complaint in the Third district court, alleging that the defendant is at divers times called her vile names and addressed her in a very opprobrious manner, that he has threatened to kill her, using language loud and to be heard in the complaint, and even went so far as to assault her on a certain occasion and inflict injury to her marriage vows. Mrs. Rose prays the court to grant her a decree of divorce and to allow her to resume the maiden name of Belle Brown, and further that in the meantime the defendant be restrained from disposing of his property. The couple were married on October 9, 1895.

District Court Orders.

The following orders were made in the third district court today:

Orders vs. Hamilton; demurrer to complaint sustained and five days taken in which to amend.
