CITY COUNCIL.

Three New Branch Fire Departments Ordered.

MORE INSPECTORS APPOINTED.

The Combination Pole Question Again Comes up for Action.

PAVING ORDERED TO PROCEED.

The Street Grader in Plat E Should all be established at One Time.

—Other Business.

An adjourned session of the City Council was held last night. In the absence of President Loofbourow Councilman Simondi occupied the chair. The members in attendance were: Rich, Folland, Carrick, Hardy, Moran, Horn, Bell, Lawson, Kelly, Evans, Beardsley, Wautland, Halsey—15.

INSPECTORS APPOINTED.

The board of public works reported that it had appointed S. H. Carlisle inspector of curbing and paving of the work to be done by the Culmer-Jennings company, at a salary of $100 per month. Also that it appointed T. J. Williams as inspector of the North Temple street conduit at a similar salary.

Rich said he did not see the consistency in employing two inspectors. Mr. Ramsden was thoroughly competent and could easily attend to the work. He moved to reject the report.

Horn moved as an amendment that the appointment of Mr. Carlisle be confirmed.

Lawson and Bell objected to the adoption of the report.

Wautland was of the opinion that the report should be adopted; the appointments could be revoked at any time.

Horn thought that the board knew what it wanted.

Hardy referred to the notorious Gas Works case as an example of what the board wanted.

More discussion followed after which the matter went over for one week.

AD TO STREET GRADER.

City Engineer Doremus sent in a report recommending that a petition for a grade on Main street north of North Temple street be granted, but suggested that at the same time the grade of all the streets in plat E be established at the same time.

PREPARING FOR HIGH WATER.

The city engineer reported that he and the watermaster had made an examination of City creek channel, above the masonry conduit on State street, and found that some repairs should be made in restoring the cobblestone paving, which was damaged through high water last spring. The channel for a short distance above the conduit, he says, should also be cleaned, and to make room for the gravel which will be brought down and lodged there by the high waters of next season, otherwise the gravel will be carried into the culvert, from where its removal will cost many times as much as it can be taken out for above. Referred to the irrigation committee with power to act.

COMBINATION POLES AGAIN.

The city engineer reported that at a meeting of representatives of the companies interested it was generally agreed that the street car, telephone and telegraph companies could use combination poles without any disadvantage to them. It was, however, agreed that the electric light wires ought to be strung on separate poles, as the great number and weight of the wires strung on the same poles with the other companies would cause much annoyance and possibly many accidents. The matter of underground wires, he said, found no advocates among the representatives of the various companies, and he thought that that question might be allowed to rest for the present. He suggested that the electric light wire be strung on poles along the sides of the streets just within the sidewalk curbs, as thus the danger from the breaking of the wires leading into the various buildings would be less than if the poles were in the center of the streets. Laid over until next Tuesday evening.

A SURVEY ORDERED.

City Engineer Doremus was ordered to make a survey of Social Hall alley with a view to having it culverted.

TELEPHONE POLES.

The city engineer reported applications for telephone poles on Sixth South street, between Tenth and Eleventh East streets. Under the present rules the poles would be assigned to positions in the center of the street, and it had been suggested that the poles on this street be placed on the side of the street on account of the boulevard which was now being constructed on that street. Committee on streets.

SETTLE THE MUDDLE FIRST.

In the matter of a petition for grades on Current street, the city engineer reported that grades on that street alone were impracticable, and that the grades on the abutting streets could not be fixed until the muddle in plat E was settled. Filed.

WANT THEM REMOVED.

The city engineer reported that in order to place the curbs for Main and First and Second South streets the awning posts which were out to the edge of the twenty-foot sidewalks would have to be removed, and in order that the contractors should not be delayed, he asked for instructions as to the removal of those posts. City attorney and city engineer.

UNTIL NEXT SPRING.

The city engineer and street superintendent reported cobblestone gutters on both sides of State street north of North Temple street would cost about $1600, but recommended that the work be not done until next spring, as the big fill ought to have time to settle. Adopted.

BRANCH FIRE DEPARTMENTS.

The committee on fire department recommended that three district fire houses were needed, stating that the estimated cost of the three houses fully equipped would be $75,000, and they recommended that this amount be appropriated. The D. A. & M. society, they said, would donate a site for the station house in the southeastern part of the city.

Hess said the locations as selected were: The southwest district station at Second West and Sixth South; northeastern station at Fourth and E streets and the southeastern station in the southeastern corner of the block owned by the D. A. & M. society. The detailed estimates were: Southwest, $[illegible]; southeast, $6000; northeast, $[illegible].

Lawson wanted to know why it was that the station proposed to be erected in the southeastern part of the city was going to cost less than the others. He wanted a fair test. Unless the parts of the city were equipped with the same apparatus as the others and at the same cost he would oppose the whole proposition.

Horn—The man Lawson has again shown his small soul and narrow selfishness. He is narrow minded—

"Rap, rap" went Simondi's gavel with the words "you must not be personal, Mr. Horn."

Horn—Well, I'm going to say what I think.

Lawson said that he was willing to concede that his mind was narrow and contracted; that he was incapable of comprehending as much as Mr. Horn, the broad minded, intellectual giant from the Fourth precinct, whose understanding was without bounds and whose charity had no limit; that he did not live on an aristocratic boulevard, but he was as much a councilman as Mr. Horn and his vote would count just as much.

Hess said that the adoption of the report meant an outlay of $25,000 and an annual expense thereafter of about $15,000, simply to protect the insurance companies. He believed, however, that the southeast station should be built. It was needed, but he didn't think the other two were this fall. The southeast and southwest stations could be built later. He moved as an amendment that the northeast station be built and equipped this fall, and that action on the other two stations be deferred until next year.

Folland said that there were various reasons why the report should not be adopted. Competition bids had not been asked for the erection of the houses and because while the council had no information as to the exact location of the houses, men had gone around and entered or tried to secure options on grounds where it was said the stations would be located. He urged other objections to the adoption of the report, that nothing definite had been reported by the committee as to the cost of maintaining the stations, as to place, etc. The report asked for the appropriation of $75,000, and without knowing definitely as to where the money was to be spent.

Hardy said he had figured out that the present departments cost annually $450,000. The city taxes amounted to $500,000. The question was, could they raise the balance of the money from other sources? If the City Council kept on at its present pace they would bankrupt the city. Appropriation after appropriation was asked for. He couldn't see where the money was coming from. Business men and property holders were asking him daily when the City Council was going to stop its extravagance and when the end would come to the present reckless method of handling the people's money. The situation was becoming alarming. It was time to go slow.

Wautland intimated that the minority (the Democratic members) were talking for the signals day of November.

This caused Messrs. Rich and Hardy to spring to their feet simultaneously and resent the imputation. They wanted it distinctly understood that they were not making political speeches; it was their answer who was guilty of that wrong doing. He should be careful what he said. Wautland then took it back and apologized.

On motion of Horn the report was adopted by the following vote:

Ayes—Beardsley, Bell, Horn, Horn, Kelly, Lawson, Moran, Simondi, Wautland—8.

Nays—Folland, Hardy, Carrick, Rich—4.

Evans excused.

TO PUSH PAVING.

Wautland moved that the report of the board of public works, presented Tuesday night and recommending that no asphalt or concrete paving on Main or First or Second South streets be laid this fall, be returned and that it be declared the sense of the council that the work be prosecuted vigorously according to the terms of the contract. Carried.

The Council then adjourned until Friday evening.

Why do I cough so much?

Ask another. Because of the repeated and unanswered call for something to stop the cough. Because the cough is a symptom of that dreadful disease, Consumption, which is fastening its fangs on the lungs of this little girl whose sister and grandfather died from the dreadful complaint.

Please tell Scott's Emulsion to cast pearls on the body.

The judge called the nervous Bluffington to his bench and said: "Bluffington, you are fined $10 for contempt. Kindly also tell Scott's Emulsion to cast pearls on the body." The bailiff leaped and knocked straight into the judge's wine cellar.

"Well, sir, fellow don't wear boots, he's got wooden legs. I wasn't fined in any thing of the sort, sir, that's all."—Lotsville Tattler.

The casting out of the devil of disease was once a sign of authority.

Now we take a little more time about it and cast out devils by thousands—we do it by knowledge.

Is not a man who is taken possession of by the germ of consumption possessed of a devil?

A little book on CAREFUL LIVING and Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil will tell you how to exorcise him if it can be done.
