THE meeting of the Wasatch Improvement club in the Third precinct last night was well attended and the speeches of Governor West, Judge Henderson and Hon. F. S. Richards unusually interesting. Another meeting of a similar character will be held in the near future.

Elder Lyman's destination is California, where he has gone to attend some missionary work. It is expected that he will be absent until April. His headquarters and address will be San Bernardino.

OUR VIEWS, 1890.

A Davis County Farmer who Objects to Closing Artesian Wells.

EFFINGHAM, DAVIS COUNTY, UTAH, January 30, 1894.

Editor Deseret News:

In the semi-WEEKLY NEWS of Jan. 30 I see a statement that the closing of artesian wells in the fall is not approved from in Davis county. This may be the case in some parts of the county, but it is not the result in this place. We have tried it and our wells have never been stopped, and we have suffered more than we have before since we have had them. We do not find that our wells have any more water than others in drawing of their waters. I am informed that Wm. Blanchard has made a dollar at his farm this fall, while on his family the water cost him 125 in the end. Before the water commenced deepening and our wells by water for home and farm purposes, as the water in them was in the high and in drain. Where is some case the shutting off of the water might prove a benefit, in others it would prove an injury. Yours truly,

J. H. CRANE.

Arrested in the Rocky Mountains.

Deputy Marshals Maxwell and Reed returned with their man Alva Ogden on Saturday and brought him to Huntsville on Sunday, says the Huntsville Advocate. The deputies had to go to the Rocky mountains after him and then him a merry chase. He was brought before Commissioner Jones and bound over in the sum of $1,000 to appear before the grand jury. He was unable to find bonds and was put under bonds of $1,000. A complaint of grand larceny was also filed against Chas. Gardner, by U. S. Deputy Marshal Jones, before Commissioner Jones. He was pleaded not guilty. Mr. Gardner was put under a $1,000 bond. Trial was set for February 9th when the prosecution will be ready to test of some new developments.

PROSPEROUS PROVIDENCE.

A Great Social Success.—Fruit Raising Industry Followed.

PROVIDENCE, Cache Co., Utah, Jan. 30.—As it is not often that any news is sent from here for publication, I thought I would let you know a few of our doings.

Last Friday evening, in response to a call from the Bishop and a committee appointed for the occasion, the married people assembled together in a social party, and to say we had lots of fun would be drawing it very mild. Well, it seemed as everyone had just taken hold to a $1,000, they were so pleased. We had songs, recitations, speaking, dancing, and to top off and round, and if you could have seen the smiles spread out, you would have felt that the country is suffering with hard times. We had supper, music of all, unsolicited fun, then went home feeling well.

We have a fine settlement here; it is well adapted for fruit of all kinds as well as hay and grain. Brother Peter Hansen has shipped hundreds of dollars worth of fruit from here for the people the last two years. We have trees of small fruit and orchards of the larger kinds of fruit are being planted every year, and we are spraying our trees, so we can furnish the market with good, sound fruit. Our Bishop takes active part in the fruit industry and has had the matter well laid before the people, till the town is almost a solid box of fruit from one to the other, and the consequence is there is a little to spare coming to town on the pay roll.

I can also report our meetings are well attended, and our Sabbath school is a great success; there is 275 people from 130 families in and a bad showing.

Well, not wishing to weary the patience of your readers, I will close, subscribing myself

TRAMP.

Z. C. M. I. Reunion.

For the first time in several years the employes of Z. C. M. I. met an old-fashioned reunion and dance. The committee consisted of the officers and heads of departments, which formed a full attendance. The music was excellent, the hall (the 16th) warm, and the floor in good condition for those "tripping the light fantastic toe." The ladies in best attire were all smiles, the gentlemen genial, conversational, and all worked for an operation from after ratchiking, which was completed early in the day (Thursday).

Refreshments had been provided and the company were served upon by the ladies of Z. C. M. I. with that tact and interest which raining in a store is usually supposed to confer. The gathering was a success, and Hugh Weller has reason to be proud of the love who with their families are employes and beneficiaries of the great institution.

FROM WAYNE COUNTY.

Much Sickness, Little Snow, Victims of Diphtheria.

CAINSVILLE, Wayne Co., Utah, Jan. 29, 1894.—We have had a very mild winter so far. There has been so snowfall to speak of—beautiful weather for those who were building in our new town. It has not frozen the ground deeper than eight inches at any time. The health of the people has been marred by the dreadful disease diphtheria which has taken a number of our children from us; but we hope its progress has stopped now. With the exception of this winter the people in this valley have had excellent health. We expect to hold sunshine in our new buildings, as there is a good future before us. The people are generous, industrious and enterprising. This will make our place thrive.

The following deaths have occurred since I last wrote you:

Edward, son of J. E. and Isabella Stockington, died Jan. 8th, 1894.

Lawrence Isabel, son of John and Louisa Sophia Yost, born Dec. 8th, 1893, died Jan. 14, 1894.

Sarah Jane, daughter of Geo. Wm. and Agnes Clarke Carroll, born Dec. 25, 1893, died Jan. 24, 1894.

OUR POULTRY DEPARTMENT.

A Good Guess.

To an Old Subscriber.—Remove all pillows or bolsters adjacent and keep them so; then give half a teaspoonful of coal oil in a quart of water to drink; change the water every a day and wash out drinking vessel. Give each infected bird a teaspoonful of gum camphor about the size of a pea; it will make their weight or more and the strong odor of the camphor will cause the worms to be forced or pulled to come out; feed and water will not poison enough to do harm to the bird. This makes the infected worms will give sure bird (probable (?)) in eight days; repeating for several days if necessary. Give a teaspoonful of tea, 4 to 6 drops of "Joy" and put on the tea; Joy's remedy as you can try as a last resort, and [illegible] with tea and shows or oatmeal; give your birds grit and warm quarters and they will improve.

Now you must kill or drive those gnats where one is your yards and coops. Sprinkle a liberal quantity of carbolized lime, so it no better, you must move to your coop, and dig deep up and use this will help you to destroy the worms. All birds that die, burn them if you put them into the manure heap the lime will not hot the whole and live to say the best authorities and your birds, when they seem sick, will find the worms and worms with in birds. Sump is cut! Don't bread from those birds, their constitutions are weakened and so been their pantry and more liable to disease than those chicks that have not been exposed. G. H. C.

TOLSTOI EXPLAINED.

HIS PEASANT DRESS CAUSES HIS TROUBLE AS A GENTLEMAN.

The young aristocrats at Tula, Russia, not passing a few weeks ago to give Tolstoi's "Fruits of Revelation" for the entertainment of the serenity of nobles, which not in the city at that time. The dinner neither himself happened to be in Tula, and a message was sent to him to say that he would the not received and correct possible selection of the participants in the entertainment of his guests.

The rehearsal began with Tolstoi sitting in the row nearest the stage. Among the players was a young baron who took the part of a servant. In one of the scenes he is obliged to throw several peasants out of the hallway of his master's house because of their impertinence. The young man has performed his part to show a satisfaction, when the famous Russian came from his seat. The scandalized performer stood aghast waiting his instructions.

"Take it as right, that is nothing," called the Count. "You must throw the man out in a more natural way—just as I was thrown out of the hall in my old clothes when I tried to enter it a few minutes ago."

Naturally there was general astonishment at the comic finished his little speech, and the amateur hurried to him to ask for an explanation. The Count soon satisfied their curiosity.

The janitor of the hall had (based a portion of politeness, at the entrance of one building with orders to let no one pass save Count Tolstoi. Just as the play was about to begin a beggarly peasant, dressed in a blouse, with coat, wearing a cap, with long beard and hair and the general appearance of a peasant, or poor peasant, came to the door and stated to guard the entrance

HIS PERSONAL EXPERIENCE.

HON. JOHN W. HYDE, while serving his sixth term as member of the Assembly of the state of New York, writes:

"State of New York, Assembly Chamber, Albany, Jan. 15, 1894.

I desire some more to bear my testimony to the value of Dr. Miles' Nervine Pastors. I have used them for twenty-five years past, and can conscientiously commend them as the best general remedy that I have known. Years ago, when thrown from a carriage and seriously injured, I gave them a thorough trial. In a very short time the pain that I was suffering disappeared, and within a week I was entirely relieved. On another occasion, when suffering from a severe cough, with threatening pulmonary difficulties, which I was recommended to give Pastors a trial, I determined to test the matter with the utmost care. I applied them to my chest and between the shoulder blades, and in less than a fortnight was entirely cured. On still another occasion, when suffering from an attack of rheumatism in the shoulder to such an extent that I could scarcely raise my arm, I again resorted to the pastors, and within a very few days was entirely free from the disagreeable sensation. I have been constantly at me, whether at home or abroad. My family as well as myself have found them to be a convenient remedy for external and internal troubles. I never had any one kidney difficulty in my life, and the sensation of the pastors acted on the kidneys. I believe, as I said before, to bear my testimony in a public way in their efficacy, and I know of no better way to bring it than by giving you my personal experience."
