NEWS OF THE WEST.

An Arizona Town Quarantined for Diphtheria.

DRIVEN TO DEATH WHILE DRUNK.

Shot in the Mouth—California's Primary Election Law Invalid—Verdict of Murder.

Alaska's output of gold for the year just ended aggregates $5,000,000. All the gold produced were from the Yukon placer mines.

A coroner's jury has decided that the bones found in the Grand river at Glenwood Springs had been murdered before being thrown into the stream.

The Los Angeles, Cal., Daily Journal, after a short career as a morning paper with long night service, has given up the experiment and resigned into its old niche as the Daily Court Journal.

The farmers about Anaheim, Cal., are said to be likely to increase the acreage of beets this year for the Chino factory. They are enabled to do this through the railway's having reduced the freight rate from 75 to 50 cents.

At Dunlap City, Cal., Wednesday morning Elmer Underwood, a lad of 17 years, accidentally shot himself. He was crossing onto a three-loading rifle, when the charge went off, killing him instantly. The bullet entered his mouth, coming out at the back of the head.

Judge Van Dyke in the superior court at Los Angeles, on Wednesday, declared the new primary election law for San Francisco, Alameda and Los Angeles, passed by the last legislature, unconstitutional, on the ground that it is not general, and is discriminating in its nature.

A fatal fire occurred Wednesday evening at Tacoma, Wash., in which Jesse Laughlin lost his life through his own carelessness. While in an intoxicated condition he carried a lighted lamp up a stairway, but fell, and the lamp exploded, setting fire to the woodwork. Laughlin caught the flame for a few moments, but was finally overcome by the smoke and suffocated to death. The fire department extinguished the blaze without difficulty.

Phoenix, Arizona, Gazette.—News yesterday from Globe, if true, shows a sad state of affairs, as fifteen children have died of diphtheria within the past two weeks. Dave Herrin has lost his three children, while Tom Curtwise has buried two. The other deaths have not been reported here. The city of Globe is now in quarantine, no one being allowed to go in or come away until the scourge is over. The sympathy of the territory goes out to the good people of the mountain city.

A Santa Fe, New Mexico, dispatch says: Colin F. Huntington is preparing to fight the wings of the Atlantic and Pacific road as a competitor for the western Pacific business by laying the branch running north from the Atlantic and Pacific line at the Yscuna, and spending $7,000,000 to build a cut-off to Salt Lake City. Not only for the people of New Mexico, but of those of Arizona, Utah, Nevada and California the present Atlantic and Pacific complications are immensely interesting.

Tucson, Arizona, News: The stampede among the cattlemen is at an end. During the past our weeks the cattlemen in this valley have been ranking their cattle into the market, and as a consequence fat cows went begging at two cents, and offers for steers were rare at quotations. Happily the stampede is over at an end, for no less than five buyers are in the field purchasing right and left, and three more will be here by Monday. Thousands steers inside of our weeks will be a certainty, as southern California is almost cleaned out of cattle.

Parsons, Arizona, Tribune.—A Mr. Cummings came into Casa Grande Thursday with his family and stated that three Mexicans came to his ranch near Quijotoa the day before an locked for food and hay for their horses. He took them out to the corral for the purpose of giving them the hay, when one of the Mexicans deliberately fired three shots at him with a revolver, fortunately missing him. In return, Mr. Cummings shot and wounded one of the robbers, as they evidently were, and all escaped. The Papago Indians followed the trail by the blood for several miles, but made no capture.

A Story of Ransom.

The Washington Post tells a story illustrating the politeness of Minister Ransom. One day, when he was in the woods, as he was going down the capitol steps, he saw approaching a very full, big winded man. Ransom was alarmed. Brawn is no mental or physical shape to bear the brunt of a full fledged bore just at that moment. He must do something to save himself. As the full one drew near, Ransom, in his desperation, greeted him with cordiality and hurried by. The other had passed, but at this brief dominal, as it were, turned away up the steps. Ransom was smitten of conscience at his own rudeness. It was foreign to his polite and flowery instincts. He must do something to take the sourness out of the man. Ransom turned pleasantly when some two steps separated him from the bore and called out: "Goodby, simplicus! I've been thinking a mighty long time about you lately, simplicus!" At this simplicus began to betray symptoms of returning. "But don't come back, simplicus," remonstrated Ransom, willly unknowing with both hands. "I've been thinking a mighty long time about you lately, simplicus, but don't come back, don't come back!"

There are two remarkable things which everybody should do: take good care of one's health, and if lost, regain it quickly, and to this everybody will agree. And there are a great multitude of people who are agreed that for such purposes Simmons Liver Regulator is the best helper. "I am troubled with torpid liver and nothing gives relief so quickly like Simmons Liver Regulator." — R. H. Savage, Lake City, Fla. 1
