SITUATION IN CRETE.

The Austrian Foreign Affairs Minister Considers It Serious.

CORMENTS OF VIENNA PAPERS.

One Hundred and Fifty Turks Killed in An Engagement Yesterday with Insurgents at Amigadelo.

NEW YORK, June 10.—A special to the Herald from Vienna says:

In an address to the Austrian delegation Count Gołuchowsky, minister of foreign affairs explained the foreign policy of the government, in the course of his remarks declaring that the situation in Crete was of such a character that it was impossible to say what would happen next. The condition of things prevailing in the island, he said, was due to the maladministration of public affairs by the Turkish authorities. Turkey, he added, ought to take measures to act European and Asiatic provinces which would justify confidence in the vital interest of the Ottoman empire, otherwise, he said, Turkey's last friends, including Austria, would be unable to prevent the catastrophe.

An inspired article appears in the Wiener Tagesblatt. According to news emanating from Constantinople the Porte is said to apprehend that there will be further complications in connection with the rising in Crete. Matters are not thick so. The news from Constantinople as from Athens is misleading. In Constantinople they are sick to hear that Greece wishes to annex Crete and that Russia and France will help.

The Greeks say they absolutely do not wish to annex Crete. Greece has sent out a memorial to the foreign powers which sets forth the grievances with Turkey that order may be restored in the island. All the powers supposed Turkey in that direction. Greece is wrong, they say, in Constantinople they should seek to place the responsibility on Greece. Russia has intervened in a most energetic manner and it is interesting to know that Germany has decided to act with Russia. The Austrian embassy acted in the friendliest manner so as to influence Turkey. Russia should reconsider her in Crete and give necessary reforms.

This, of course, as the editor of the Vienna newspaper, is highly important, as every one knows nowadays that Russia rules Turkey's foreign policy.

The editor of the New Free Presse said that to him the Cretan question has left its mark form and taken into the range of diplomacy. The question was a serious one. If it had been supposed Samuel Pasha Russia would have to go with for against Turkey. Turkey's only plan was to give way.

At the office of the Freemden Blatt the foreign editor insisted, as did others, that it was unfair to say that England had stirred up the Cretan insurrection. It could not, according to him, be even calculated as reasonable, for England had absolutely nothing to gain therefrom. The Armenian question was easily settled. The Cretan question is a trifle in comparison. Austria would uphold her colleagues. He said there were two ways of looking upon the question as one purely of local growth. Matters are in a fearful condition in Crete, and large quantities of guns are being sent from Greece.

The Neue Freie Presse received the following from its special correspondent at Athens:

"I met some newly arrived refugees at the Piræus this morning. They say that on Friday and Saturday fighting took place at Amigdelo, when 150 Turks were killed or wounded in Crete.

"In consequence, excitement again became great. A Turkish warship embarked several cross villages and more Christian villages have been burned."

On a Burning Stairway.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Forty cloak makers who are employed at 62 South Michigan avenue were driven out of the building by a fire last evening. Both men and women are employed in the cloak making establishments. When word of the fire had been given everybody made a race for the stairway. Those on the third floor made their way down to the first, but here they were stopped by employes from the first floor who were afraid to run down the lower stairway which was beginning to burn quite briskly.

Thereupon the men and women ran back to the stairway which the flames ascended rapidly. Just as a stampede came began leaping at the feet of the foremost of them, some the stairway, one of them darted swiftly down the burning structure and escaped without a scratch. Some behind him followed his example, quite a number but about three of the employes had escaped without serious injury. Those remained on the third floor until the firemen had arrived and had they made their way down a ladder which was hoisted to a rear window.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The Herald this morning says:

Portugal Offers to Mediate in the Pelotas Affair.

NEW YORK, June 10.—A special to the Herald from Rio Janeiro says:

Full details of Portugal's offer to mediate between England and Brazil in relation to the Pelotas affair have been received by President Moraes.

FREE SILVER PROGRESS

Mr. Eckles Sees the Silver Men Control the Convention.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Jas. H. Eckles, president of the treasury, arrived in the city today. Mr. Eckles came and had to be was born on any political mission. "I make now as if the silver faction will control the convention. As to Wolcott it will gain the sentiment—well that's a different matter. The epidemic has been so strengthened by the action of the state conventions in Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio that it is useless to deny that the free silver people have the controlling power of the party. Six or seven weeks ago, prior to the convention, political history is made in a short time in this country and there's many a slip."

When asked his opinion as to the prospects of a fight in the convention he excitedly said: "I don't hear so much talk about a split up along the sound money men as reports would seem to indicate. It seems that all such talk emanates in the camp of the opposing sound money silver democrats rather than from the Indian which is expected to hot."
