SUNDAY SERVICES.

Elders Taylor and Penrose of the Stake Presidency Speak at the Tabernacle.

In the absence of President Angus M. Cannon, the services at the Tabernacle yesterday afternoon were presided over by his first counselor, Elder Joseph E. Taylor.

The choir sang:

[illegible]

Prayer was offered by Elder N. V. Jones.

The choir further sang:

[illegible]

Elder Joseph E. Taylor of the Stake presidency was the first speaker. He said that in arising to speak, he was possessed of peculiar feelings, and while he had spent a great part of his life in the work of God, he realized that there were before him men and women who had spent just as many years in the Church and were equally as well versed in the law of God as he. These brethren and sisters assembled together from Sunday to Sunday to be fed spiritually and in their gatherings together they became acquainted with the drift of the sermons and could generally tell whether or not the speaker was actuated by the proper spirit. There were also present perhaps people who were temporarily sojourning in this city and the remarks which he might utter would no doubt seem rather peculiar to them, especially if they had not heard the Gospel expounded before.

The Prophet Joseph Smith was the instrument in the hands of the Lord in bringing His work before the people of the earth. In these latter days, He, when but a mere youth, was led to ask the Lord to show him which of the churches then extant was true. The result was that the boy was favored with a visitation from God the Father and His Son Jesus Christ. [illegible]

[illegible]

Joseph Smith revealed many things in great plainness; in fact nothing that he advanced was at all ambiguous. He made known man's pre-existence and final destiny. [illegible]

This Priesthood if lived up to would give to those who were recipients of it, blessings untold and bring unto them true joy and happiness, but if they neglected to honor the authority given them, their path would soon become dark and they would eventually fall away into unbelief.

Elder Charles W. Penrose also of the Stake presidency, was the next speaker. He had been highly instructed and edified in listening to the remarks of the previous speaker, and could voice the sentiment that apart from Jesus Christ, the Prophet Joseph Smith was the greatest prophet that ever lived upon the earth. [illegible] … [illegible]

[illegible]

Choir and congregation sang:

[illegible]

Benediction was pronounced by Elder Henry P. Richards.
