SPECIAL BUSINESS NOTICES.

To the Citizens of Salt Lake City.

The small pox of Ogden City has proved to be of a very malignant and fatal character.

All persons suspected of having been recently exposed to the disease should be immediately placed in quarantine.

Railroad conductors and train hands in general are respectfully requested to watch their trains closely, that no infected individual be brought to this city and allowed to mix with the public.

Disinfectants should be profusely used in every passenger car, box car and caboose, that are constantly on transit between this city and Ogden.

A kettle of burning tar should be kept in each car sufficiently long to permeate every interstice and crevice with the fumes thereof, at least three times a week.

Carbolic acid and water, 20 per cent. solution, should be sprinkled freely over the floors and platforms of every car, every day.

I trust that all railroad officials and citizens throughout the city and county will take all possible preventive measures to keep away the dreaded scourge from their midst.

Respectfully,

SEYMOUR B. YOUNG, M.D.,
Quarantine Physician for Salt Lake City. d 50 4

Bobbed Over.—The examination of Lee Bob Wing, who shot and wounded another Chinaman, at Alta, was concluded yesterday afternoon. Justice Pyper held him, in $1,000 bonds, to answer to the grand jury.

Complimentary Benefit.—The Union Glee Club and other excellent vocalists of this city have tendered to Mr. Henry Gardner a complimentary benefit, to take place at the 15th Ward Assembly Rooms, on Tuesday evening, Jan. 29th. The entertainment will comprise songs, glees, quartettes, catches, recitations, &c. The Glee Club alone is sufficient attraction to draw a large audience, and besides that fine body of singers a number of the most favorite vocalists and instrumentalists will take part in the performances. Prof. C. J. Thomas will direct the entertainment and Mr. H. E. Giles is the accompanyist.

Museum.—Brother Robert G. Bertrett, while traveling in Wiltshire, England, made a purchase of an old Roman coin for the Deseret Museum. Yesterday he donated it, giving its recent history, which leaves no doubt as to its genuineness. The coin. It bears the impress of Constantine, who is said to have been born at York, in 274. This emperor had the credit of establishing Christianity as the religion of the Roman empire, soon after A. D. 312, when his conversion took place. A number of Roman coins were obtained at Canterbury, England, by Brother N. H. Felt, of this city, while on a mission there. With these and exchanges made, some coins of the Empire collected by Brother O. F. Due, formerly of Copenhagen, the cabinets of the museum are becoming exceedingly interesting and valuable. The coin presented by Brother Bertrett was dug up near Westbury, in Wiltshire, in the neighborhood of the celebrated "White Horse," an object which can be seen for many miles around. The entire country is famed for Roman, Saxon and Danish antiquities, is well known to many of our people, and is historically connected with the battles of the ancient battle fields of Alfred the Great, against the Danes.

The White House above alluded to is a likeness of that animal, cut in the chalk cliffs by removing the green sward. It is a conspicuous object at great distances, and is preserved from weeds from generation to generation. Tradition asserts that it was prepared by direction of Alfred the Great as a perpetual memento of his victories.

Primary Meetings.—Remember the primary meetings on Monday evening, at seven o'clock, for the election of delegates to the Municipal Convension.

First Municipal Ward—Primary at the 9th Ward school-house.

Second—Primary at the County Court House.

Third—Primary at the 16th District school house.

Fourth—Primary at the 20th Ward schoolhouse.

Fifth—Primary at the City Hall.

St. George Temple.—A large amount of work for the dead has been done in the St. George Temple, as the following figures will show:

Baptisms, 30,331; endowments, 13,160; ordinations, High Priests, 7; Elders 5,095; marriage sealings, 4,101; sealings of children to parents, 238; adoptions, 30; besides other ordinances for the dead. The administrations to the living during the past year have been comparatively extensive.

Annual Conference.—We are in receipt of a letter from Elder David Milne, from which we learn that the Annual Conference of the Scottish Mission was held at Glasgow on the 30th of December. The average attendance at the meetings was about one hundred. The missionaries from Utah present were President A. F. Macdonald, Elders Aurelius Miner, Daniel S. Macfarlane, George Meldrum, Andrew Watson, J. Allan, Aaron F. Macdonald, and David Milne. The long distance of his field of labor from Glasgow and the inclemency of the weather prevented Elder A. F. Macdonald, Jr., from attending. He labors in Ross-shire, in the north-western part of Scotland.

The teachings given by the brethren were of an inspiring and encouraging character. Elder Milne states that comparatively few people are being baptized, yet the Elders have much to console them in their labors. He represents society generally as being in a woefully demoralized condition.

Drowned.—At Milville, Cache County, about 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, the 23d inst., Henry Griffin went to the water ditch for a bucket of water, and his mother went a little while after to her daughter's, Mrs. King, and asked her if she would go and see if anything had happened to Henry. Mrs. King and her sister Susan went to the ditch, where they found him lying upon his face in the water quite dead.

Deceased was 33 years of age, and from his youth had been subject to fits, many times barely escaping death from scalding and fire. He had for a number of years been of unsound mind, but able to attend to little chores such as he was engaged in when he came to his death. The water was only about three inches deep.

The funeral services took place at the residence of Mrs. Griffin, where appropriate addresses were delivered by Bishop Pitkin and Elders John King and Charles C. Shaw. Much sympathy is felt for Mrs. Griffin in her bereavement.

Good.—The performances by the pupils of Prof. T. B. Lewis' school in the 20th Ward, last evening, were excellent. The audience was large, the hall being filled. A "Visitor hands us the following in relation to the entertainment:

Professor T. B. Lewis with his school gave one of their very pleasant entertainments, and, considerd the inclemency of the weather, had a very good sized audience. The programme consisted of singing, recitations, dialogues, etc., in which the children displayed considerable talent, and reflected much credit on their teacher. But the gem of the evening was the closing piece, entitled "Cinderella," in which Miss A. Sanson, as Cinderella, and the Misses A. Savage and R. Young as the haughty sisters, and in fact all connected with it, acquitted themselves very creditably, and would have graced a stage of much larger pretensions.

Much credit is due Prof. Lewis for the manner in which his school is conducted and the training of the children, as testified by his pupils and their parents generally. The means obtained at these exhibitions is used for the benefit of the children in procuring maps, instruments, etc., making the school appointments more complete.

Home Industry and Tanning.

NEPHI, January 23, 1878.

Editors Deseret News:

I read a letter in your paper of Jan. 13th entitled Tanneries and Tanning, soliciting communications from others that might feel interested enough to write a few lines in its defense for the good of our common country. I shall not say anything on the article published, but to recommend it as a step in the right direction, based upon the observance of rigid economy, but will add a few lines for the benefit of the readers of your valuable paper. The art of making or tanning leather is not beyond the comprehension of any ordinary intelligent person. But the main causes of our failures in producing a good article in years gone by in many cases has been through ignorance and reckless neglect, prompted by a desire to make money. The question, will tanning pay in Utah? has been asked a great many times, and has been answered with about the same amount of ignorance as it was asked. If the tanners and curriers in Utah to-day can, by constant perseverance and practice, be supported, in the art of making good leather it would take but a short time to answer the question upon its own merits. But our country so far has been anything but reliable for the mechanic, on account of its desert and uncultivated condition, and the skill of mechanism has almost been eclipsed from view. But the condition of the country is changing fast, and the people are changing and improving by it, and mechanics will find their places and develop what they possess. We must make tanneries pay, for it is readily understood to be the foundation of all branches of leather industry.
