BOUNTY FRAUDS CASE AT OGDEN.

Swan and Conlisk Appear Before Judge Murphy for Preliminary Hearing.

DEMUR TO THE COMPLAINT.

Hooper Boy Charged With Horse Stealing—Business Before County Board.

(Special to the "News.")

Ogden, Dec. 11.—The preliminary hearing of the State vs A. H. Conlisk and W. H. Swan, charged with fraudulently securing money from the First National bank on bounty warrants, was called by Judge Murphy of the municipal court this morning. Defendants' attorneys demurred to the complaint on the grounds that the facts stated were insufficient to constitute a cause of action. The motion was overruled, and the hearing began with State Auditor Edwards as the first witness. Mr. Edwards identified certain warrants, after which defendants' attorney objected to a further hearing of the case, and made a motion to quash on the ground that no one had been defrauded, but that the bank had been fully paid by special appropriation of the Legislature. This point was argued at some length, and will be gone into further this afternoon.

The state is represented by County Attorney Hulaniski, the First National bank by Attorney C. C. Richards, and the defandtns by T. B. Johnson, W. L. Maginnis, Judge Korn and James Devine.

GRAND LARCENY CHARGED.

A complaint was sworn to this morning by Charles E. Peterson, agent for the Studebaker Wagon company, charging Willie Smith, aged 17 years, and a resident of Hooper, with grand larceny. It is alleged that Smith stole a horse belonging to the company, and took it to Salt Lake, where he sold it. He was arrested in Salt Lake and will be brought to Ogden this afternoon by Sheriff Bailey.

BEFORE COUNTY BOARD.

The board of county commissioners received a petition from 125 residents of Plain City, through Bishop Bramwell, objecting to the granting of a liquor license to J. H. Gibson and Daniel Cella. This application has already been denied by the board.

E. W. Wade, local manager of the Utah Light & Railway company, which is now seeking a franchise to build a power dam in Ogden canyon, has amended the company's petition, setting forth that the land to be submerged will be 2,500 acres instead of 2,700 as previously announced. The matter has been laid over till next week.

A petition was received from residents of Plain City asking for a bounty on muskrats, which are now doing much damage in that locality.

PATRIARCH WHITE DEAD.

Passed Away at Family Residence This Morning, Of Bright's Disease.

William White, a Patriarch in the Church, an old and respected resident of Salt Lake, died at his home, No. 259 west Second North street, at 7:40 o'clock this morning. Mr. White had been ill for two weeks with Bright's disease, and on account of his extreme age, his demise was not entirely unexpected. Mr. White was well known some years being engaged in the meat business as the head of the White & Sons company. In the Seventeenth ward he has always been prominent as a religious worker, and for several years has been a Patriarch. He is survivey by nine children. The funeral notice will be given later.

MARRIED AT PORTLAND.

A pretty home wedding took place on Wednesday last at 253 Chapman street, Portland, when Miss Edna Pope of Salt Lake City was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas J. Taffee of that city. The bride, who was born in Salt Lake, has been a resident of Portland for the past year, during which time her attractive manner has won for her a host of warm friends. The groom, who is with John Barrett company, is well known in Portland, and has a large circle of friends there.

During the ceremony, which was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Pratt, Mrs. J. S. Hamilton played "O Promise Me." The presents were numerous and beautiful. Mr. and Mrs. Taffee will be at home to their friends after Dec. 15, at 253 Chapman street.

"LOAVES AND FISHES."

Subject of Interesting Lecture by Dr. James E. Talmage.

"Loaves and Fishes" formed the subject of Sunday's lecture by Dr. J. E. Talmage at the University Sunday school. The re-assembling of the Apostles on their return from the first missionary journey occurred soon after the murder of John the Baptist. The news of this foul crime had spread rapidly afar, and excitement was at a high pitch. Herod had heard of the great things Christ had done, and he feared the effect of the fame and notoriety of this miracle-working Galilean; his guilty soul was troubled at the thought that the man Jesus was none other than John risen from the tomb. The annual Passover feast was close at hand, and crowds on their way to Jerusalem halted to see and hear the new prophet, who had already proved Himself greater than the Baptist.

To escape the multitude, and in search of rest, Jesus and the Twelve crossed the lake by boat and landed at "a desert place" on the opposite shore. But the people had hastened afoot around the north end of the lake, and a great throng awaited the landing, near Bethsaida.

With compassion for the people, who, bereft of their leaders, were to Him as sheep without a shepherd, Jesus taught them parts of the Gospel, and lovingly manifested His powers by healing the afflicted amongst the crowd. Already the day was far spent, yet the people lingered to hear more of the doctrine of life. Five thousand there were, beside women and children uncounted. How were these sheep to be fed? Some of the Apostles advised that they be sent away to buy for themselves in the nearest villages. "Give ye them to eat," said the Master. Five barley loaves and two small fishes were at hand. With such provisions Jesus invited all to eat, and they seated themselves to partake of this marvelous feast in the wilderness. They ate till satisfied; and the remnants from the feast filled 12 baskets.

With the record of this miracle as a text Dr. Talmage discussed the philosophy of miracles in general, and showed the inconsistency of accepting part of the miracles of Christ on the authority of Scripture while rejecting the rest because we cannot explain them. What miracle can we explain and what one act of God is other than miracle? Seek not to measure the infinite by a yard stick that man has made and graded.

This meal in the desert aroused the people to a passing confession that Jesus was the Christ. The congregation became a mob; they sought to make Jesus a king, and that by force. The hour in which He was to be proclaimed King of the Jews had not yet come. He sent the Apostles away in the boat; then dismissed the crowd, and withdrew to the mountain to pray.

The vessel was at the mercy of the storm through the long tempestuous night. In the fourth watch the Lord came walking on the sea and entered the boat. His advent frightened the Apostles, but He spake, "It is I, be not afraid."

Crowds again thronged Him; they wanted more loaves and fishes. And ever since have the crowds been ready to run after on who has loaves and fishes to give. For loaves and fishes many a heavenly birthright is bartered today as ever before has been.

After the lecture Mr. Chas. R. Pike sang the inspiring hymn, "I know that My Redeemer Liveth," which was appreciated by all present.

The next lecture is announced under the title, "The Bread of Life." All are invited to attend the sessions, which are held Sundays, beginning at 12:30, in Barratt Hall.

WOOLLENS

It is a well known fact that a great deal of cheap woolens have been used in Utah in the making of clothes for which a high price has been charged to the customer.

The Parisian Belles are as good as the Utopians were bad, and that means that there is a big difference in the box office story of the Lyric this week. The Belles are real artists for the most part and do their turns in a way to keep the audience laughing or at least interested.

The chorus is still young and nimble of foot, while its voices are well trained and its songs new. Sam J. Adams as the central figure of the two skits which open and close the bill, is a familiar figure to Lyric patrons, and bids fair to become a strong favorite. A burlesque on "Uncle Tom's Cabin," gives him a chance to star, while Maurice Burns in the role of little Eva, makes the skit alone worth the price of admission. "The Sultan's Wife" is the first burletta, and "The Girl from Manila" the concluding one. Between them are a number of excellent vaudeville stunts. The Parisian Belles remain until Friday evening when the amateurs will have another chance to show their ability after the regular performance.

Eruptions

Dry, moist, scaly tetter, all forms of eczema or salt rheum, pimples and other cutaneous eruptions proceed from humors, either inherited, or acquired through defective digestion and assimilation.

To treat these eruptions with drying medicines is dangerous.

The thing to do is to take

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Which thoroughly cleanse the blood, expelling all humors and building up the whole system. They cure

Hood's Sarsaparilla permanently cured J. G. Hines, Franks, Ill., of eczema, from which he had suffered for some time; and Miss Alvina Wolter, Box 212, Algona, Wis., of pimples on her face and back and chafed skin on her body, by which she had been greatly troubled. There are more testimonials in favor of Hood's than can be published.

DEPUTY CLERK'S HEARING BEGINS.

Judge Howell of Ogden Takes Up The Case of State vs. D. Beynon Davies.

FULL JURY NOT YET SECURED.

Defendant Granted a Separate Trial at His Own Request—What the Charge Is.

The trial of the bounty fraud case of the State of Utah against D. Beynon Davies, former deputy county clerk, was commenced in the criminal division of the district court this morning, Judge J. A. Howell of Ogden presiding. The entire morning was taken up in the examination of jurors and when the court took its noon recess none of the jurors had been finally accepted.

Only eight jurors were in the box for examination this morning. They are Oliver Pierson, Harry Bowen, C. T. Husbands, Hyrum Nielsen, T. J. Nipper, C. W. Midgley, L. E. Hall and T. Lindley. Of these three, Messrs. Husbands, Nielsen and Midgley, were challenged for cause by the attorneys for defendant and were excused by the court on the ground that they had formed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant. The examination of the others by the district attorney was not concluded at noon.

The defendant, with several other men, is charged with criminal conspiracy in which they defrauded the county out of thousands of dollars by bogus bounty claims. The defendant Davies asked for a separte trial and his request was granted. Dist. Atty. Loofbourow is prosecuting the case and Attys. McGurrin & Gustin are representing the defendant. It is not likely that a jury will be secured today.

SUES ATWOOD HEIRS

Millen Atwood Wants Permission to Lease Property.

Suit was filed in the district court this afternoon by Millen M. Atwood et al, trustees under the will of Millen Atwood, deceased, against Millen M. Atwood and 13 other heirs under the will to secure permission of the court to lease certain property belonging to the estate to Gus. Holmes. The property is located on the north side of Second South street, running from the east side of the Grand theater to State street, including the Grand theater property.

Mr. Holmes desires the lease on the property for 50 years, and agrees to erect a building on the same to cost not less than $500,000. In order to get permission to execute the lease, it became necessary to have one of the judges of the district court to pass on the matter. Hence the suit was filed.

DAMAGE BY FLOODS.

Three suits were filed in the district court this afternoon against the Utah Copper company to recover damages for injuries to the land of plaintiffs alleged to have been caused from defendant flooding the same with the tailings from its mill and thereby rendering the land unfit for farming purposes. It is alleged in the complaints that defendants allowed the tailings to run into Bingham creek and thus into the Jordan river and onto plaintiff's lands. Kesiah A. Beckstead is plaintiff in one action and he asks damages in the sum of $3,500, Hyrum Beckstead asks damages in the sum of $1,999 and Elsine Peterson asks damages in the sum of $2,750.

COURT NOTES.

An attachment suit was filed in the district court this afternoon by the Baer Bros. Mercantile company against F. C. Donohan to recover $521.74 alleged to be due for merchandise.

The Bingham Coal & Lumber company filed suit in the district court today against John Barratta to foreclose a lien upon a lot in Bingham. The lien was filed to secure the payment of $371.94 alleged to be due for lumber and material used in the construction of a house upon said property. Judgment is asked for the amount named above and also $25 as attorney's fees.

GRAZING FEES.

The Forestry Bureau Announces New Schedule for 1906.

The forestry bureau at Washington has announced that in order to protect and assist home builders, special concessions will be made in the grazing fee on cattle for the season of 1906, as follows:

Permits of each state or territory for the year 1906 will be listed in the order of the number of cattle covered; then beginning with the smallest one-half of the permits will be counted off and the number of cattle shown by the largest of these permits will be taken as a basis for this concession.

Applicants for grazing permits will be charged only half rate on cattle up to the number thus established for their state or territory, but the cattle over this number will be charged for at full rates.

Under this concession small owners of cattle will be called upon to pay but half rates for the coming season. The size of herds entitled to the half rate will vary in different states, but will average about 75, so that owners of this or a smaller number of cattle will be called upon for half rates only. Grazing fees to be charged will depend somewhat upon the nearness of the reserves to transportation facilities, and will average 20 to 25 cents per head for cattle for the summer season and 25 to 40 cents for the entire year.

Sheep rates for the summer season in Utah, Wyoming, Colorado and Idaho will be 5 cents per head. Oregon and Washington rates have not been established, but will be maximum rates, probably 10 cents per head for sheep for the grazing season.

CHANGES ON ROCK ISLAND.

Three Freight and Passenger Men Resign From Their Positions At Local Agencies.

WILSON, BIBLE AND YUNDT.

Geo. Bible Will Leave Railroad Work To Enter Mercantile Business At Rock Springs.

Following the resignation of Robert Wilson as city passenger agent of the Rock Island come two more in the same office, which will leave the remaining force somewhat depleted for active and aggressive work.

George A. Bible, traveling passenger agent for the system, who has been connected with the road for 10 years, three of which have been spent in Utah, resigns Jan. 1 to take a very good position with Cosgriff & Cougens Co. of Rock Springs, Wyo. Mr. Bible has made many friends here during the time he has made Salt Lake his headquarters; however, he thinks that there are better prospects for him in the mercantile business than in railroading.

The other resignation which is effective the same date, is that of James T. Yundt, the veteran traveling freight agent, who has been connected with the Rock Island for a number of years and was a pioneer in the aggressive wool-loading campaign that was inaugurated by the railroads some years ago.

CONGRESSMEN FOR A SHORT SESSION.

House Favors One But Senate May Lengthen Out With Much Talk.

SPEAKER CANNON'S REPLY.

Why Representative Tawney Was a Good Man For Chairman—Two Veterans.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, Dec. 8.—From the beginning of the present Congress there has been manifested a strong desire on the part of Republicans of both houses to rush things. The cry is for a short session. All the leaders have pointed out how unnecessary it is to remain here late in the summer, and all who are not leaders have been made aware that it will be much better to be at home among their constituents explaining how promptly Congress has performed its duty rather than in Washington writing letters to their friends at home. While this urgency may affect members of the house, it will not be a very potent argument in the senate, for the senators will talk as much as they please without regard to extending the session.

FITZGERALD FOR PRACTICAL REFORM.

Representative Fitzgerald of New York, who is one of the Democrats of Brooklyn that survived the storm of November, 1904, thinks that the most practical way to discourage the application of the ironclad rules of the house would be to enforce them rigidly. He would not allow anything to be done by unanimous consent. That would shut off much business. Bills could not then be considered unless a special rule was evoked, and that would require so much time that little business could be transacted. He thinks the members of the house who want to get their bills through would revolt and force a change. Mr. Fitzgerald will try to get the Democratic caucus to adopt this plan.

TWO VETERANS SIDE BY SIDE.

For several terms of Congress Gen. Grosvenor of Ohio and Col. Hepburn of Iowa, veterans of the house and soldiers of the civil war, have occupied seats side by side. This year they secured the same seats. "Hepburn got his honestly this time," remarked Grosvenor, "but I had to scheme for mine—that is, another member got it for me." In fact, there are always several members who make it a point to give these two men the same seats they have so long occupied, and no matter what may happen in the drawing they always find themselves in the places they have held for years. All members of the house are glad to see these men get what they want.

UNCLE JOE'S IDEA.

When it became quite generally understood that James A. Tawney of Minnesota was to be chairman of the committee on appropriations one of the members went to Speaker Cannon and said:

"Uncle Joe, don't you remember that it was Jim Tawney who led a fight in the house once that overturned the house leaders?"

Tilting his cigar a little more skyward, the speaker answered by asking a question: "Don't you think," he asked, "that a man who can do that trick is a pretty good man for chairman of an important committee?"

CLAIMS FOR CHURCH PROPERTY.

"Claims spring up like flies," remarked Thad Mahon of Pennsylvania, who has been chairman of the claims committee for many years. "As soon as we clear up a lot," he continued, "another set are presented. Last Congress we passed a bill to pay $8,000 for the use of a church during the Civil war. Within a short time there were ninety bills before our committee of a similar character. These churches were located in Virginia and West Virginia, and they all wanted money to reimburse them for being occupied by Union soldiers."

From the manner in which Mr. Mahon discussed the subject the prospects of these bills are not very bright.

IN THE "CHEROKEE STRIP."

Two of the Republican leaders of the house—Hitt and Mann of Illinois—found themselves in the 'Cherokee stip" when the drawing for seats was conducted. This "strip" is a block of seats on the Democratic side which are occupied by Republicans who fail to get their seats on their own side of the house. Many years ago there was a prolonged discussion on an Indian bill as to the disposition of certain land in Indian Territory known as the Cherokee strip. From this grew the designation of the "Cherokee strip" in the house. The seats are not desirable, but everything is on an equality when the drawing takes place, so old members are often located in the "strip."

IN OTHER DAYS.

Years ago when there was a drawing of seats the dissatisfied members would secure the adoption of a resolution calling for a new drawing. As there was always a majority which was dissatisfied, because only a small number drew the desirable seats, a new drawing could always be ordered. The result was that soon after one drawing another would be ordered, and this sort of thing kept up during the entire Congress. Now the rule is inflexible. After one drawing there can be no other during the term.

THEY TRADED SEATS.

Some of the old timers in the house get good seats by trading. A new member surrenders a good seat to one of the leaders, and he always finds that it pays. He has made a good friend of the old member, which helps the new man with his legislation.
