attachment, Judge Dey filed with Deputy Clerk Lemmie a bill for a receivership in behalf of the following plaintiffs:

The Ogden Gold Mining company, Mrs. L. D. Milner, John Milner, Bourne Gold Extraction company, Pole Mining company, Mrs. S. S. Milner, Lizzie Rae, G. R. Bothwell, Robert E. McConnaghy, receivers being named in Bothwell & McConnaghy, H. G. Milner, John Sudro, Thomas Spencer, Mrs. Louisa Kennedy, V. F. Stanley, J. E. Beatrice, John C. Harper, L. S. Milner and John Doe, as partners under contract in the Alice Gold Mining company, Nine Hundred mine, Cyrus Thelbourn and L. J. Moore, engaged as mining reporters on the Salt Lake News company, J. R. Rapier and Mrs. C. E. Erickson.

The defendants in the action are The Salt Lake City Gold Mining company, J. W. Ross, Robert Sedgwick, J. H. Bacon, H. M. Bacon, F. L. Hollon and W. B. Howard.

It is alleged in the petition for a receiver that prior to February, 1894, James H. Rae was president of the American National bank, which at that time was in such bad financial condition that the comptroller of the currency was about to place a receiver in charge, but President Rae, it is charged, managed to gain the confidence of the depositors to induce the transfer of the bank to a private bank without informing them of the true condition of affairs.

It is also alleged that the four men, the two Raes and the two Hollons, advertised themselves as constituting the bank's officers, and that no depositor knew that J. H. Rae's alone was interested.

The allegation is made that F. W. Rae for two years past has been a resident of Idaho, where he only has been in conducting. He is characterized as an "adventurous and speculative person and has for many years past been scheming and speculating in real estate and town sites and various other enterprises in the state of Idaho." The belief is given that Rae was summoned to Salt Lake by Bacon for the express purpose of acting as his assignee to keep and conceal from creditors the assets of the banks and of Bacon not reported in the schedule. It is stated that Rae was a director in the American National bank, and is now interested with the defendants in various schemes. The statement is made that Mr. Rae has not sufficient property in Utah to afford ample protection to Bacon's creditors, and that he has not yet obtained possession of the First bank of Marmat.

The property, according to the bill, is all of uncertain and speculative character, consisting of mining stocks, building sites, etc., a large portion of which is hypothecated and pledged to intimate friends and relatives, who will obtain it by Mr. Rae's inability to satisfy their claims.

Transfers and hypothecations of collateral for the benefit of special creditors are said to have been made upon the eve of and in contemplation of assignment. In this charge are included 300,000 shares of the "most valuable stock held by the bank"—Hallion & Lark is named—which has been transferred to J. Bacon to secure a pretended liability of $122,000. Unless this stock is sequestered by the court it is claimed that Schenck will apply the securities to the payment of the indebtedness in such a way as to leave no balance, though an equity of $145,000 is included in the schedule.

Sanitarium and canal stock of a reputed value of $100,000, it is alleged, has been transferred without consideration to D. G. Tuckwell, brother-in-law of H. M. Bacon and a former director of the American National bank.

Thousands of shares of stock are charged to have also been given into the possession of S. M. Jarvis of Kansas city to secure a pretended loan.

Many valuable assets are alleged to have been omitted from the schedule, and it is stated that though upward of $208,000 in deposits are shown, less than $200 was on hand at the time of the failure. No explanation of where the money went is given. In the case of the Marmat branch the deposits amounted to more than $20,000, and only $100 is in the vault.

It is alleged that all the defendants named, and the money and collateral of the bank have been used for their private speculations. Antipas Ross, in the opinion of the petitioner, owes the bank more than $35,000 from the assets of the bank.

The removal of Assignee Rich and the appointment of a receiver are asked for.

STATEMENT FROM BACON.

Mr. Bacon has issued the following letter in reply to rumors which have caused anxiety among the holders of his notes:

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, June 25, 1896.

To My Creditors—In view of the many false assertions and unwarranted rumors concerning the failure of the Bank of Salt Lake, I am prompted to inform the creditors of that concern that the transfer of all of my securities, made by a responsible expert bookkeeper of Salt Lake, and checked by my books, was thoroughly, I thought, in accordance with the requirements of the occasion. Said examiner has been instructed to open, and do open books in my connection to the Bank. Upon his assurance I was satisfied the transfer was consummated with entirely my creditors that there was here nothing sold or my from room.

JAMES H. BACON.

THE MONEY "CHASED."

Commissioner Marvey, who put out the Rich attachment, says it will soon be known what was the matter with the bank and that the public will know where the money has been "chased." Mr. Marvey says there will be no trouble in breaking the assignment.

B. Y. A. Summer School.

MINOR MENTION.

Workmen are busily engaged putting in a new floor at the department station No. 1.

The Republicans of precinct 15 meet at Smith's hall at 8 this evening, and those of precinct 17 at the Sixth ward hall at the same hour, to elect precinct committees.

John Baker unlawfully took his horse from the custody of John Powell while the latter was relating it for damages and trespass. He was fined $5 in the police court today.

Mr. L. C. Smith, the News advertising agent and wife, will have the sympathy of their friends in the loss of Amber Elde their youngest child. The little one passed away this morning from an attack of pneumonia. It was aged three months and seven days.

Hanover Hywater of the fire department, who injured his hand some time ago by being precipitated to the ground with a falling ladder, is still carrying the member about in a bandage. It will be two or three weeks before the wounds will be entirely healed and the hand made strong again.

The filing of warrants in the Grow Mining company's directory a few days ago left the official list as follows: C. E. Ream, president; J. S. Grow, vice-president and general manager; Elmer G. Rutter, secretary; F. M. Grow, treasurer, and Lee Grow. The company owns properties in Rocky Canyon five miles north of Highland, from which carloads have been taken, which assay good to eighty ounces.

Spokane Enterprise: Mining interest was again revived last week by a gold find in Ada Handle company, west of town. The rock assays $40 to an ounce in gold, 70 ounces in silver and 15 ounces lead. C. M. Freeman has advanced Cora Hile and Grace Hall $100 to make work in the claims and some development work will be commenced in a week.

THE U. P. MUST PAY.

Decision of the Supreme Court Confirming a Judgment

AGAINST THE RAILWAY COMPANY.

James B. Busey Goes on an Unpaid Contract for Furnishing Building Stone.

Chief Justice Zane, Justices Barlow and Miner sat in banc, today handed down an opinion affirming the judgment of the lower court in the case of John C. Sharp and Charles M. Morris against E. H. H. Clark et al., receivers for the Union Pacific railway.

The action was originally brought in the First district court to recover damages in consequence of the failure of the railway to carry 3,129 sheep from Milford to Omaha. The sheep were loaded, on October 14, 1890, upon transportation rate under the usual bills of lading and contract. The sheep so received by the railway company were landed in Fremont, Nebraska, 40 miles west of Omaha and Council Bluffs. From Fremont the sheep were carried over the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad company and the Chicago & Northwestern to Chicago, passing 15 miles north of Council Bluffs and Omaha. The testimony in the original case went to show that the general usage in the shipment of sheep was that the stock could be watered and fed at any point before reaching the billed destination. The sheep in this instance were billed through to Chicago, the Union Pacific agreeing to carry them at set as Omaha. Instead of doing so the sheep were transferred to the other lines at Fremont, before Omaha was reached. The plaintiff's testimony showed that it was usual, when sheep were billed to Chicago and sold at Omaha, the railway company charged freight only to Omaha. The fact that the sheep were switched off at Fremont prevented the plaintiffs from selling at Omaha but they so desired.

In consequence of the failure of the railway company to carry the sheep to Omaha the plaintiffs lost considerable money, because the market at Chicago, on the day the sheep arrived there, was very bad, while on the day the train would have reached Omaha the market at that place was good.

In charging the jury the court instructed them that the defendants had the right to compel freight to Chicago, though the sheep might not be carried that far, and that they should deduct the sum paid by the plaintiffs for freight between Omaha and Chicago.

The jury in the case returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs in the sum of $4,000, and upon, based at $13,335. Judgment was rendered on May 28, 1891, and from this judgment the railway company appealed to the Supreme court. The latter, however, discovered no reversible error and the decision of the lower court is affirmed.

ON A CONTRACT.

Suit on an Unpaid contract for Building stone.

James B. Busey this morning filed suit in the Third district court against James Jenkins, Sarah Jenkins, William Varley, Frank Kunkel and Robert Bates for the recovery of $522.62 and interest from December 3, 1895.

The complaint says that on or about September 25, 1895, the plaintiff entered into a verbal contract with Frank Kunkel and Robert Bates to furnish stone for the erection of a building for Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins at the corner of South Temple and D. streets. William Varley was the superintendent, having charge of the work and Kunkel and Bates were sub-contractors for the stone work.

Under the terms of the verbal contract above referred to the plaintiff was to receive 20 and 18 cents per superficial square foot of stone furnished, according to size, and that the stone was so supplied, in fulfilment of the contract, by Busey, between October 3 and December 19, 1895. According to the agreements the plaintiff was to receive his pay for the stone as soon as it was all delivered, the total amount being $580.62, but that instead he had received only $58, leaving a balance due him of $522.62.

On January 3, 1896, according to law, the plaintiff served and filed a notice in writing containing a notice of intention to hold and claim a lien, and a statement of his demand.

The plaintiff therefore prays that an order of the court issue to the effect that he claim be made a lien against the building and the land as which it is situated, and that the same be sold to satisfy the petitioner's claim.

James A. Williams is attorney for the plaintiff.

"Comrade Villa, shake hands with Comrade Jennings!"

"Why, I know you!"

Both spoke at the same time the same words, for they had not seen each other since 1864, when Vilas was a captain and Jennings a private in the Thirty-fifth Wisconsin. Vilas was promoted for conspicuous gallantry at Lookout Mountain, and Jennings fought at our side Resaca, where he was struck down by a wound that he will never recover from.

"You were not as tall when I saw you in uniform, you are taller," said Colonel Vilas.

"No, sir, six inches were added to my height after I was mustered out of service."

Think of that, fathers and mothers who have been from 18 to 21, and imagine their sturdy, hearty, happy sons, a million, [illegible] of enthusiasm, fine days! Yes, sir, six inch soldiers, a million—an overcoat and now and then standing up all day to be shot at and shot at—[illegible] You think they could do it, do you? Ulysses and H. Grant and U. S. Grant's million boys, coming from farms and the kind of work, and if a million mustangs were to after, it would be a million to one against the Confederacy, millions of such boys as Jennings, who got his growth after he had served three years in the war, where he endured conditions of a man, boys who, when [illegible] should look to the enjoyment of life after their lives that the end may come, right on waving over the land of the free.—Chicago Times-Herald.

THE BEST
FAMILY MEDICINE
She Has Ever Known. Words of Praise from a New York Lady for AYER'S PILLS

"I would like to add my testimony to that of others who have found Ayer's Pills, and say that I have taken them by many years, and always derived the best results from them. They cure sick and tired headache, and for the cure of headache caused by from disorder stomach, Ayer's Pills cannot be equaled.

When my friends ask me what is the best remedy for disorders of the stomach, liver, or bowels, my invariable answer is, Ayer's Pills. Taken in season, they will break up a cold, prevent la grippe, check fever, and regulate the digestive organs. They are easy to take, and are, indeed, the best educated family medicine I have ever known."—Mrs. Mary Journay, 304 Eldert Avenue, New York City.
