[CONCLUDED.]
The Wild Family of Monroe.

TENNESSEE, Jan. 13, 1874.

The hunters left, finding it difficult to credit even what they had seen and heard. When the news of the existence of the "wild family" became known the "farm" was besieged with callers, and two enterprising individuals conceived the idea of securing the family and exhibiting the "wild mutes" about the country. Parks was willing to engage in the enterprise, and leased his unfortunate offspring for the purpose. He accompanied the exhibition, "lecturing" upon the circumstances attending the lives of his children and himself. The "mutes" were taken about the country for a few weeks but the speculation proved a failure, and they were returned to the wilderness. Removed from restraint, they were to shroud the clothing that had been placed upon them as soon as they reached home.

After the first excitement created by the discovery of the family had died away they were forgotten. The arrest and incarceration of one of them again brought them forward, and revealed a still more striking chapter in their history. Parks, the father, says that after their return home from the exhibition tour, Bill became more and more violent in his temper. He made several deadly assaults upon both his sister and father. A few months after their return Melvina gave birth to a child. This child she and Bill killed in the woods and tore it to pieces. Not long afterwards Bill attacked his sister and killed her with an old knife. Parks used to cut up pumpkins with Parks buried his daughter and ever since that time he has lived in deadly fear of his son. One day last week Bill attacked his father, knocking him down with a club. The old man got away from him, however, and came to this place for an officer to arrest him. Two men went to Parks' place and succeeded, after a struggle, in capturing him. They put a suit of clothing on him and brought him to jail. As soon as he was placed in the cell he tore off his clothing, and is now perfectly naked. Hundreds have flocked to the jail to see him. Parks returned home, and is now living entirely alone, and probably finds ample time for his studies. The wild, mute, maniac son will doubtless be sent to the insane asylum to spend the rest of his days. It seems incredible that in this enlightened age, within the sound, as it were, of the church bells of a populous town, such a case of utter depravity and wickedness could exist. But the above are the facts, which can be substantiated by plenty of reliable witnesses.—Cor. N. Y. Herald.

PIOCHE NOTES.

From the Picoche Record, Jan. 23: Owen Ferguson, who stabbed and killed Robert Ash, in August last, and who was subsequently tried and convicted of murder, and sentenced to be hung, has been granted, by the Supreme Court, a new trial on the ground of error in the instructions of Judge Fuller to the jury. Johnson, who was shot at Marysville, Utah, some weeks ago, is supposed to be getting well, and no information to the contrary has been received. The offense was committed in Platte county, where the courts are not regularly organized, and there may be some difficulty in punishing Painter (who shot Johnson) according to legal forms. The wires of the Atlantic and Pacific Company between Pioche and St. George have been subjected to the depredations of villains during the past few days, and there is a well grounded belief that "Tex" knows something about it. The wires were down from Monday until yesterday. On Monday Mr. Wyatt mended two breaks or cuts between here and Marysville, and one on the other side of Panaca. The line continuing to be utterly useless during the 19th, 20th, 21st and 22d. Wyatt started for Pioche, to try to probe the mystery. Ten miles from Panaca he found two cuts in the wire, which he mended. A mile further on he met the repairing party from St. George, Pine Valley and Hebron, who told him that they had mended eleven cuts between St. George and the place of meeting. The line at present writing is in perfect working order. The cuts were all made with a sharp instrument.

From the Record of Jan. 25: The mining outlook presents a much more cheery aspect at present writing than it has for some weeks past. We were unable to find any one engaged in mining enterprises who felt at all disheartened, notwithstanding the persistent efforts of the Salt Lake Chronicle to create the impression and establish in the public mind the conviction that the mines of Ely District are on their last legs.
