The Iowa Conference.

The Iowa Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints convened in Huntington's Hall, Council Bluffs, on Saturday and Sunday, October 10th and 11th. There were present C. W. Stagner, president of the Northern States Mission, J. H. Moulton, president of the Iowa Conference, and traveling Elders H. Tuttle, W. R. Johnson, Andrew Johnson, W. A. Walker and O. M. Porter.

During the conference a Priesthood meeting was held at which the Elders reported their labors. They received some instructions in regard to their duties and were assigned to labor as follows: Elder J. E. Moulton was released as President of the Iowa Conference and appointed as a traveling Elder throughout the Northern States Mission. Elder Richard Tuttle was appointed President of the Conference. Elder W. A. Walker was appointed to labor with President Tuttle in Iowa. Elders P. M. Porter and W. R. Johnson at Decatur, Nebraska, Elders Andrew Johnson and W. C. Mason at Great Bend, Kansas, and Elders John Giles and John Christensen at Emporia, Kansas.

There was a very good attendance and an excellent spirit prevailed.

P. M. PORTER, Clerk.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Oct. 12, 1892.

North Carolina Conference.

We are in receipt of the minutes of the North Carolina Conference held in Surry County, Sept. 19 and 20. The report is prepared in too voluminous for publication. There were present at the conference Elder J. G. Kimball, president of the Southern States mission, Elder R. A. Ure, president of the North Carolina conference, and traveling Elders A. J. Gray, F. W. Morgan, Presley Young, J. C. Robinson, Paul M. Fulkman, Moses A. Hollands and James Nelson.

The advice of President Kimball and Ure were timely and wise, and their encouraging remarks gave much satisfaction and comfort. On Sunday afternoon the Elders' fields were changed, but the later arrival of two new Elders—M. J. Bartholomew and N. P. Lee—necessitated the following new appointments: Elders Gray and Lee to Carroll, Patrick and adjoining counties of Virginia, Elders Young and Bartholomew to Surry, Stokes, Wilkes and Alexander counties, Elder Morgan and Robinson to Rowan county, and Elders Fulkman and Hollands to Gilford and Alleghany counties, North Carolina, President Ure and Elder Nelson to Pittsylvania and Halifax counties, Virginia, and Person and Caswell counties North Carolina.

The wise management of President Ure and his predecessor has put the conference in prime condition.

The health of the Elders is excellent, generally, and their ambition to do good equal to any emergency or hardship. They are enjoying their labors and feel encouraged with the future prospects for carrying the glad news into new parts. Among the things which cheer and comfort the missionaries is the weekly arrival of the pioneer paper of the Rockies.

BURKS COUNTY, N. C., Sept. 22, 1892.

St. Joseph Stake.

The regular quarterly conference of this Stake was held at Plattsmouth on 13th and 14th, President Wm. D. Johnson presiding. The members of the High Council and most of the Bishops were present.

President Wm. D. Johnson, Patriarch P. C. Merrill, Bishop Samuel Oldridge, Henry Hayle, William J. Parker, N. W. Burton, Bishop John Taylor and George Uhlf were the speakers.

They exhorted the Saints to be faithful in keeping their covenants.

The general and Stake authorities were presented, and sustained by unanimous vote.

Conference was adjourned for three months.

J. PERRYMAN,
Stake Clerk.

MARRIED LITERARY MEN.

A Woman Who Has Asked Andrew Lang What Sort "Men's Men" Are.

Your question from Andrew Lang's essay in Longman's Magazine headed "Men's Men by Literary Men," drew forth a few remarks from me, as I feel there are more young women who will look upon those pretty essay writings in a serious light.

In the first place women should know enough to attend and conduct their own business underwear and commissariat for them. Secondly, love for a man does not necessarily mean that uncle and cousin friends of the gentleman's time should be fed and in bleaching to what his wife has to say.

There come moments when women wants solitude, time to think and dream. And every woman who is intelligent enough to think and act independently knows very well that they every man must do the same thing.

Mr. Lang is mistaken when he thinks it only injury to live with a literary man. Favorite ones were it an I would rather by far have an intelligent person about me, made and all not meaning that all literateurs are intelligent, than to have the constant company of a person who is led by the nose like a blind mule in a cot mine.

Then, too, Mr. Lang if he is really serious, must know that women today is also deeply interested and moved by several the knights and shining things of society, which are not so much the most intelligent of them nearly also. You average young woman imagines a thought put forth in these novels and other such literature that the thoughts must be not thoughts. This is a grievous mistake, it not a malicious lie on the part of authors who so unknowingly use the expression in one way or another.

The trouble is that young people jump into matrimony without the slightest knowledge of each other's characters nor and natures, blindly not study be lieving that marriage undoes everything, essential differences and personal weaknesses. In fact, the average young person is so modest, so conscious of his or her imperfections that normal preparations to marriage are altogether strange to them.

The real science of a married life is the preparation for it. Morally, there is no such thing as a "woman's sphere" or "man's sphere in life." What is right for a man to know is equally right for a woman to know, and vice versa. And I venture to say that the average woman will prove far free, mentally and physically, before she discovers this undeniable fact.

Conditions of today, seriously considered, no man will ever literate woman nor can woman literate man. Each person, with a kindly feeling and consideration for the rights of all others, must pursue a course of and thought and study, individual culture and personal purity. It will be only when the world becomes, through the process of self education and self refinement, more enlightened, or at least civilized, that the average marriage will be a thoroughly happy one, intellectually sound and physically pure, whether materials are blacksmiths, doctors, clerks, barristers, literateurs or what not.—Essay Meta in New York Sun.

Prompt and Heroic.

All Australian boys are taught the usually of guarding against snake bites. The treatment of such wounds is a necessary part of their education. One day two little fellows six and eight years old went into the bush to play. The smaller one, chasing a rabbit into a hole, pushed in his hand and brought it out quickly, with the head of a venomous snake attached to one of the fingers.

"Quick, Charley!" he cried, putting his hand down on a stump. "Chop off my finger! The snake has bitten it."

Charley, without a pause, lifted his ax and chopped, not only the damaged finger, but two of his others as well. Then the boys ran straight into town, over a mile distant, and sought a surgeon, who dipped the injured members in sulphuric acid for dressing them. Despite the pain of such a burning bath!

A young Australian lady was one day walking along the street, when she saw a dirty and wretched looking tramp to whose leg a venomous snake had affixed itself.

After killing the reptile with her parasol she removed his pocket knife, cut the trousers away from the wound, and then, cutting a cross upon the bite itself, applied her lips to it and sucked the poison away. The tramp life was saved at the sacrifice, perhaps, of some dainty surgeon.—Youth's Companion.

Old English Holdings.

Among strange conditions connected with the subject of holdings we learn that the town of Yarmouth was bound by charter to send to the sheriff of Norfolk a hundred herrings, "which are to be baked in twenty-four pies or pasties, and then delivered to the lord of the manor of East Carlton, who was to convey them to the king." We are also told that three aldermen held three acres of land in a town in Norfolk by the urgency of serving to the king, whenever he should be in England, two dozen pasties of fresh herrings on their first coming in.

In the manor some lands at Bishop Auckland, and also the manor of Lowburn, are said to be held by the bishop of Durham by the very service of presenting a fashion to every king on his first entrance into the domain.

Hound to Be Ready for War.

Never since Italy made peace the French shown such activity and so much as the Italy military organization as at present. About 400 miles of track have been added to their strategical railways this year. Next year 200 miles more will be built. The work of increasing the strategical availability of the French railway system was planned by De Freycinet in 1879, and will be completed probably in 1896. At the great manoeuvres recently a telephone and telegraph wagon, invented by Inspector Willot, was kept near the scene of operations, so that the newspaper reporters could send their dispatches directly from the field. The apparatus of Willot is so made that it can be connected quickly with any telephone or telegraph wire.
