MINES AND BUSINESS

Prominent Salt Lakers Depart for the Grizzly Company Mines.

PEOPLE PATRONIZING HOME MADE.

Business Outlook Continues to Improve. —Colonies from Kansas.—Mining and Other Notes.

The morning Morris, Isaac Jennings, J. W. Fox Jr., A. M. Cannon, David James, A. E. Hyde and Sam McIntyre, stockholders in the Grizzly Mining company, left this city for the company's property in White Pine county, Nevada, to fully inspect the mines there. This will be the first visit of some of the gentlemen to these mines.

The development work which has been prosecuted on the Grizzly property is now completed, and everything is in readiness for shipping ore. It will be remembered that it was in these mines, during the driving of the tunnel, that bodies of remarkably rich ore were encountered some three months ago. It is now the intention of the company to make regular shipments. This would have been begun earlier but for the agreement in street. The directors have decided, however, that further delay would be injudicious, and the shipping is to be commenced shortly after the return of the party now en route to the mines.

WILL STAY AT HOME.

The experience of two drummers for eastern houses who have just returned from a canvassing tour in central and southern Utah is complimentary to the enterprise of the people of these sections. These drummers have heretofore met with good success in their particular line—women's goods, and when on this occasion they found the country merchants and people proof against their persuasive powers they were astonished. Upon inquiry why this change of front, they met with the uniform answer: "We do not want your eastern goods when we can buy a similar article from home manufacturers. This year we will buy 'Home mills goods.'"

This means that the movement to patronize home industry has taken firm hold upon the people. The measurement of the Provo mills has doubtless contributed greatly to bring about the condition referred to as far as the institution itself is concerned by the offer recently made to take wheat in exchange for its products and allow 75 cents per bushel on a cash basis, with the grain delivered in Provo. The proposition was a most favorable one to the farmers and doubtless will prove a good financial move for the mills. The latter are now running on full time.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

The beginning of the present week continues to augur an improvement in financial circles, the condition of business affairs being quite satisfactory. Money is moving easier and confidence is being restored.

COLONIZING IN IDAHO.

C. K. Dougles and S. R. Mackenzie, of the Inland Development company, are engaged in a scheme to colonize the district along the Boisiduagh canal between Boise and Nampa, Idaho. Mr. Douglas started for Kansas today, from where he expects to bring fifty families. The heads of these families are said to be thrifty, hardworking farmers who are tired of working against the adversities of drouth in Kansas, and are willing to settle on a 40 acre tract for each family, where there is sufficient water.

NOTES.

Boise Statesman: It has been reported here that the Spencer creek group of opal mines, near Opaline, Idaho, have been sold to a Chicago syndicate for $50,000. A number of Boise people are interested in the group.

Eureka (Nev.) Sentinel: During the month of August the Eureka & Palisade Railroad company received in transit to Salt Lake and Valley Junction, Cal., 672 tons of ore as follows: From Eureka district, 493 tons; White Pine, 206 tons, and Nye county, 3 tons. Following were the lots shipped from Eureka district: From the Hazelton mine, 228 tons; Eureka Con., 154 tons; Richmond, 43 tons; Delaware, 3 tons, and Idaho, 11 tons.

The miners in the Gladstone, Colorado, coal mine went out on a strike on Saturday. The cause of the trouble is over the weighing of coal. The men are satisfied with the returns of the weigh boss and so demand that they be allowed to put in a check weigh man. The operators, Messrs. Penfield and Hopkins, deny the demand of the men. A mass meeting of the miners will be held to consider the question.

Park City Record: One of the boilers at the Manor mill sprung a leak this week and considerable trouble has been experienced in operating the plant with the remaining six, owing to the fact that the take in the heater consumes some steam that does the large engine that drives the machinery. The mill was closed down for a few hours on Saturday to make some slight repairs on one of the engines. There has been some talk on the street this week by the effect that the Silver King would shut up in a few days. The writer interviewed Superintendent Kearns in reference to the matter and was told that no decision had been reached; that Mr. Keith was expected home today and as soon as he arrived the matter would be decided. As soon as we can get ready for the news, said Mr. Kearns, a small force will be put to work. The outlook, however, want thirty days time on all contingents, and on those terms the King will not ship ore.

Los Angeles Express: Mr. Burlingame, a well known prospector, who is company with some others has taken up some claims near Mojave, states that a fine quality of coal has been found on their claims and that a company is now being organized to develop it thoroughly. Specimens of the coal have been brought to Los Angeles, tested and pronounced of the best quality. Burlingame says the coal was discovered in sinking for a water supply and that the very fact that the water comes to the surface at that point shows the existence of an extensive ledge. He says the cropping and the dip of the vein also show an extensive deposit of coal. He says the point of discovery is about 100 miles from Los Angeles in the Mojave country and about fifteen miles from the Southern Pacific railroad.

Tintic Mines: The Centennial-Eureka is shipping 18 to 20 tons of ore per day and the Rock ahead of the same, in comparison to its width, the Rio Grande Western is doing a good business. Things are lively at Mammoth, and considerable work is being done in the mills. Bob Wheeler is working the Copperopolis on lease, a result due to an act on the Phoenix and three men are sinking the main on the Opposition. The latter property is developing some fine indications. Superintendent Burch of the Rock now has about one hundred men on his payroll. Lost Mammoth has now resumed for July and October is announced as August 1st. A complimentary ore was partially treated in the smelter at Salt Lake, which, by the way, is now having added to its equipment a new sampling mill, which will be used as soon as the machinery arrives. A new sampling process will be tried as soon as the machinery arrives from Salt Lake. It is said to be superior to the process now in use there, and, if successful, will be adopted.

Political Paragraphs.

Judge Lochmaker is now mentioned as a probable candidate for Mayor on the Liberal ticket.

The citizens' committee of fifty will meet at the Walker House "for the purpose of organization" on Wednesday evening next at 8 o'clock.

The colored citizens met on mass meeting night, in response to the call heretofore published in these columns to endeavor for their political rights and to further protest against the treatment they have received at the hands of the Liberal administration.

Some of the city editors are very anxious to use an enthusiast, to take effect during the commencement of the terms of office of the members of the next municipal administration, rejecting salaries twenty-five per cent, in accordance with the recommendation of the citizens' of three committee. Our judgment, an enthusiastic advocate of the proposition is reported saying: "Well, we've been down to Joe Hill's, the last fellow will have to work for nothing."

It will doubtless be a surprise to many readers in this city to learn that Andrew Brown has joined the Utah Democratic club, as such. Recently it was announced that he was a member of the Republican. Mr. Brown explained the matter to a News representative today as follows: "Yes, it is true that I have been a Republican in the past, but I have always been an independent one. My change of heart, however, commenced on the day James G. Blaine was defeated at Minneapolis, and now I am, and from this time onth will be, a full-fledged Democrat."

They are going east because of hard times in the West, and because there is a fair prospect for them at present at their former home. They say, however, that they are sure of not being content until they again take up their abode in Salt Lake.

J. F. Gilman, railway engineer, of this city, and D. L. Dowlil, also a resident of Salt Lake, left this evening on a trip to the East, with the World's Fair as the chief object of interest.

DISTRICT COURT.

Attorney John M. Zane Rises to Make a Voluntary Explanation.

CRIMINAL BUSINESS TAKES UP.

A Painful Case.—The Grantsville Tragedy.—O'Neill Placed on the Second Count for Manslaughter.

Chief Justice Zane, upon the opening of the Third district court this morning, heard one or two motions and then began work on the criminal calendar, the trial of civil jury cases having ended for the present.

SETTING REASON TO RIGHT.

In the case of Joseph C. Davis et al. vs. the Salt Lake building and Loan association, which during the last week has created some little flutter among the officers of the association owing to the grave charges made in the complaint, Attorney E. W. Tullock, the plaintiff's counsel, moved for an order on the defendants calling upon them to produce all the books of the association and for a deposit of the same with the clerk of this court until after the trial of the case, also that plaintiff and his attorney be allowed the privilege of examining the books at any and all reasonable times. Attorney Tullock submitted an affidavit by the plaintiff in support of the application, setting forth the various reasons therefor.

Judge Zane set the hearing on the motion for tomorrow morning.

MR. JOHN M. ZANE EXPLAINS.

Subsequently Attorney John M. Zane rose and said—I desire to state to the court that at the time the complaint in this action was filed my home was upended. It is due to all the attorneys for the plaintiff. Afterwards I made a letter to the effect that they want telling him to excuse the appearance—if there was any—in my behalf, because the action is my behalf, because the action is—the complaint was so startling. I ascertained afterwards, however, that the client whom I represented had told Mr. Tullock, who is the attorney for the plaintiff, he was served my name, and the matter coming on as it was, a great injustice has been done to Mr. Tullock and my order which he should not notice. He supposed that the request of the plaintiff was sufficient authority for attaching my signature. I desire to make that statement simply because the letter which I sent to the clerk seemingly appeared to be public prints, and Mr. Tullock has been placed in a false position thereby.

THE WEBER COUNTY SEASONS.

Hyrum Mellinie and John Benson, the two young men indicted for the murder of Dr. Charles O. Elliott, in Tooele county, on April 15th of the present year, were arraigned and plead not guilty.

In answer to the court, Colonel Montgomery, the defendants' counsel, said he was not ready to have the case set for trial at present. Two or three witnesses whom he expected to call for the defense were not and now available, and he therefore asked that the matter go over.

After some talk Assistant District Attorney Howell suggested that the case be set down for trial two weeks from tomorrow.

Judge Zane made an order accordingly, remarking that if the defense was not ready any application could be made for a continuance.

LADD'S TRIAL SET.

Charles W. Ladd was arraigned and plead not guilty to a charge of stealing a quantity of silver bullion from the Daly mine at Park city under circumstances reported in the News at the time.

The prisoner was employed at the mill from which the property was stolen and it is alleged that he shipped it by express to a Chicago firm. It is estimated that, in all, something like $200 worth of the bullion was carried off.

Judge Henderson will defend the accused, and the trial was set for September 26th.

A PATHETIC CASE.

William M. Logan and Elizabeth Nelson, the pair who on Saturday last plead guilty to an indictment for adultery, were next called upon to stand up for judgment.

Attorney J. H. Harris told the court that on behalf of the defendants he desired to say a few words, in the hope of possibly mitigating the sad consequences that might best disposed to pass. Mrs. Nelson had for several years resided at Bountiful, Davis county, and was the mother of two children, aged respectively about three and five years. According to his statement made to him, the woman's husband was a man of very active and jealous and somewhat morbid disposition. Three or four months ago he got into a jealous rage and assaulted his wife in a very severe manner, knocking her down and causing one of her teeth to fall out. Taking the youngest child with her she fled from home and came to Salt Lake, where she obtained employment in order to support herself and little child. When she had been in the city about three months she accidentally met the defendant Logan, who was a playmate of hers in childhood. At the time she left home she was unemployed, and such was her condition now. The meeting very ill, she had to relinquish work, and it was at this juncture that the meeting between these parties took place. When Logan learned of the circumstances he suggested that Mrs. Nelson should go and live with him, and she did so. Counsel said that, in his mind, this was a very different case from one wherein a woman left her husband without provocation. In this instance the husband had treated her improperly. There was nothing willful or premeditated on the part of either of the defendants, but the path of sin was—he say, by the wrongful act of another. Mr. Harris hoped the court would extend clemency in case the defendants were found guilty.

In reply to the court, Logan said he was 24 years of age, and was a native of Davis county. He was married, but has been living with Mrs. Nelson since last June. He was an abstainer from all intoxicating drinks.

Mrs. Nelson said that of the was 25. She admitted and was one of the charges with him to leave and take had the care of the property. This was according to her husband's suggestion, she supposed herself as long as she was able after leaving home by doing chamber work and cooking at a boarding house.

Judge Zane sentenced Logan to three months' imprisonment in the penitentiary and Mrs. Nelson to one month.

The female defendant wept bitterly while her attorney was addressing the court and seemed to feel her position deeply.

THE PARK CITY DISTURBANCE.

Thomas O'Neill, a young man of very respectable relatives, was placed on trial on a charge of voluntary manslaughter, it being alleged that he caused the death of George S. Kennedy, at Park City, on March 22nd, 1893.

Take in the usual investigation of the case. The Rio Grand was joined by Felsenry, who for long months of the session, ran a motion for a new trial was made by Judge Powers, the defendant's attorney, and granted, on the ground of certain "irregularities" in the grand jury.

Assistant District Attorney Howell, with Attorney W. L. Snyder of Park City associated, appeared to prosecute, Judge Powers appeared.

The facts of the case were fully reported in the columns of the News at the proper time. The tragedy occurred at Thompson's saloon on Main street, Park City, on the night of the saloon keeper's death. The deceased, O'Neill and a number of others were drinking beer, and in the course of conversation a question arose as to who could hit the highest. There was some talk of a bet between the deceased and Bounty which eventually resulted in an exchange of a watch. It was stated that the parties were to hit the ceiling with the knuckles of the hand and they became very excited. The prosecution claims that O'Neill could not come up to a certain mark, and that he said that he also knew that unless under the bet set in all events, Bounty's mark was broken, death being almost inevitable.

For the defense it is claimed that the deceased was first attacked by Bounty and that the former simply acted in self-defense. It was, being intoxicated, Bounty continued and had not a show to the assault, the fatal wound being not.

The trial is expected to finish late this afternoon.
