One of the newspaper men with the president's party said that the Salt Lake street display was far ahead of that in San Francisco, and that the welcome here from the general public was much warmer than in Denver. The president is credited with saying that the Tabernacle gathering formed the most notable indoor turnout which he had gazed upon since the auditorium t Chicago. When President Roosevelt's carriage was passing the Constitution building some enthusiastic youngster touched off a torpedo. In an instant the secret ser-vice men were on their feet and ready to jump in the direction of the sound. Later further down the street an indi-vidual pushed his way through the

MAXSON IN TOWN.

Secretary of Irrigation Congress Con-fers With Secretary Wilson.

Colonel H. B. Maxson, secretary of the brigation congress, is a guest at the Kenyon. He has been in town for a conference with Secretary of Agricul-ture Wilson, and has secured from that popular government official a promis to be present at the September session of the Irrigation congress at Ogden, if it is possible. The colonel is feeling quite jubilant over this, and believes the secretary will be there. He men-lioned this morning that David Keith had taken the secretary, R. C. Kerens and himself out for a drive around the country, to show what irrigation was doing for this immediate locality, and the secretary was greatly pleased with what he saw. In a few days Colonel Maxson and Assistant Secretary Willis Beardsley will open an office in Ogden to boom the Irrigation congress in general and the cause of irrigation in par-ticular, and will keep the country well supplied with literature.
