MEMORIAL DAY ECHOES.

Decorated Graves and Flowers and Tears for Departed Dead.

Interesting and Details of the National Observance of Memorial Day—Exercises Other Places.

[illegible]

Memorial services were generally observed in the city yesterday. Those who visited the cemeteries and Bowers were visibly shown over the graves of loved departed ones by with bedewed eyes and bitter hearts which of memory sympathy were spoken concerning them. Never before were such large crowds seen in the sleeping places of the dead in Salt Lake, and never before were more expressive tributes of love and sympathy lavished on those who have gone before to the land of silence.

Dancing at Saltair.

Saltair led the jubilee festivities up in the matter of pyrotechnic displays, there were not as many people to attract as there were at the same day last year when the weather was much more favorable. All things considered, however, the attendance was very good and orderly and we believe that it will pay get on good terms with the managers—the public—when weather cuts for the bathing and pleasure seeker. AT THE NEW CYCLE TRACK.

A Very Good Crowd in Attendance—Good Records are Made—Several Accidents.

The place of all places for crowds yesterday was of the new bicycle track at Beck's Hot Springs. The occasion for this unprecedented concentrating of people at that resort was the race which consisted in the awarding of the medals contributed to the winners of the great road race to Farmington.

But for the decidedly unpleasant and unexpected before hand would have been exhilarating—[illegible] [illegible] the day's sports. The people were taken by surprise to a and were in no way prepared to shelter themselves as it might have done had some moderate notice made of the coming of the storm [illegible]. This was in reference, and, apparently in view had done, to provide a suitable shelter for the participants of the afternoon and grand stand. The element in which most persons suffered most disagreeably of this kind was in the way to take up an exposed position on the hot sun [illegible] the racing grounds where they [illegible] and over the high board fence and were the various [illegible]. Among those who did so were such a few of the city's best athletes and [illegible] the gathering of indignant people [illegible] willing to pay a half dollar, but nothing to pay [illegible] [illegible] provided with [illegible] would be [illegible] while [illegible] were [illegible] and [illegible] enjoyed while the [illegible] [illegible] yesterday. YESTERDAY'S ROAD RACES.

L. D. Inslee, of Ogden, Beats Champion Jones and All Other Salt Lakers.

Yesterday was [illegible] Ogden's day, or rather the day on which one of her wheelmen won great fame and [illegible] the Salt Lake Cycle company's road race from this city to Farmington. At 11 o'clock a large crowd was congregated at the intersection of First North and Third West streets to witness the start of the thirty-eight competitors out of the 41 entries. The first quarter started at the report of the gun with a two-minute interval, and of the entries [illegible] was a sufficient [illegible] of supports for the time [illegible].
